

POLICE SEARCH FOR RESTELLI

MAY BE CAPTURED MAN DROPPED DEAD CRIPPEN SILENT

Officers Are Close on the Trail of Restelli

QUINCY, Aug. 2.—A small boy came running into the village of South Braintree just before noon today with the report that a man armed with two revolvers and who looked like the much wanted Louis Restelli, the Italian matricide and murderer, had held him up on Pearl street and demanded food and water. The boy said that he got him some bread and water after which the man slunk back into the bushes of Monatiquot river swamp.

A dozen officers were rushed to the scene in automobiles. Monatiquot swamp lies about two miles from the scene of Friday's shooting in South Quincy. The density of the bushes makes it a good hiding place. Pearl street which leads across the swamp to the hills looking toward South Weymouth was filled with employees of the shoe factories at the noon hour today while hundreds of people streamed up there in electric cars and automobiles to be on hand at a possible capture.

Restelli knows the country in that vicinity very well and his militia companions at Braintree frequently used it in their field operations.

Fifty policemen from the local force as well as from Milton, Braintree and the Metropolitan force surrounded the swamp by noon and began to beat through the bushes from Pearl street toward the Braintree station. Several officers were stationed at vantage points near the Braintree station and a couple of them, armed with repeating rifles, climbed trees. The beating was conducted slowly and less than a quarter of a mile had been covered in half an hour.

The boy told the police that he was looking after his father's cows in a field off Middle street when he suddenly came upon a man lying on a hay-stalk. The man jumped up and, pulling out a big revolver, demanded food and water. The boy gave him his lunch and the man went back into the bushes and in the swamp. The description of the man was close to that of Restelli. The police think that his capture is a matter of only a few hours.

FOURTEEN PERSONS BURNED

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 2.—Fourteen persons, most of them children, were badly burned by blue vitriol here this afternoon by the upsetting of a fire department supply wagon. Two of the children will die and several others are believed to be fatally burned.

COLONEL WEBB

AGAIN URGES PRESIDENT TO ATTEND CONVENTION

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Aug. 2.—Although there is little hope now that President Taft will change his mind and attend the waterways convention here the last of this month, Col. George Webb, director of the convention, sent a letter to the president today outlining additional reasons why his presence at the meeting is needed.

Colonel Webb has communicated with Congressman J. Hamilton Moore of Philadelphia, president of the Atlantic Deepwater Waterways association, and efforts will probably be made from that quarter to have the president come.

LOCAL ARTISTS

ARE ENGAGED FOR BIG MUSICAL FESTIVAL IN PETERBORO, N. H.

Prof. Emil Lavigne and his son Henry will attend the annual musical festival of the MacDowell Memorial association of Peterboro, N. H., which will open next Saturday and continue one week. This is an annual event of great magnitude and attracts visitors from miles around. An orchestra of 60 picked musicians from all over New England will be a feature, and the Messrs. Lavigne will be among the first violins in the orchestra.

MATRIMONIAL

Mr. Frank A. Orcutt, the well known stable keeper of Second street, was united in marriage to Miss Maud L. Miller of this city on July 30th at Leconia, N. H. The marriage was private. Mr. and Mrs. Orcutt have returned to this city and will reside here.

He Expired Suddenly on the South Common

The dead body of an unknown man was found on a settler on one of the walks in the South common about eleven o'clock this morning. The man was passed by many persons who thought he was sleeping. He died of heart failure or apoplexy. His body is now at the Saunders undertaking establishment, in Hurd street, where it awaits identification. The man was about 50 years of age, was here.

MAN WAS FINED $10

He Was Charged With Assault and Battery

Hugh P. McGinney was arraigned before Judge Hadley in police court this morning on a complaint charging him with assault and battery on Angelo Palma. He entered a plea of not guilty, but was found guilty and ordered to pay a fine of $10 within two weeks and was placed on probation for one year.

The assault took place in Prescott street last Saturday afternoon. Inasmuch as the defendant is working every day for Frank Farmer, the chief of the constabulary of Tewksbury, and so that he promised to do better in the future, the court decided to give him a chance.

The testimony offered by several witnesses was to the effect that while in an intoxicated condition he was traveling through Prescott street last Saturday afternoon and struck Palma over the head without any provocation.

Several witnesses were called and they said that they saw the man struck down by the defendant, but there were others who contradicted the testimony. After the court considered the evidence offered, he found the defendant guilty and ordered him to pay a fine of $10 within two weeks and then placed him on probation.

Serious Assault
In the case of Bronislaw Markoski, charged with assault and battery on Ignacy Baron, the court had a problem to solve. The complainant said that the assault was unprovoked but the defendant said that it was provoked. During the course of the trial the prisoner admitted that he had struck the complainant twice over the head with a bucket, which was smashed to pieces as a result of its having come in contact with the head of the complainant.

Neglect of Family
Benjamin Buck was charged with failing to provide proper support for his wife, Laura M. Buck, but at the request of counsel the case was continued till September 2.

Drunken Offenders
There were six women lined up on the settler in front of the prisoners' cage this morning and they received rather severe sentences. Mary A. Moran was given a six months' sentence to fall and appealed and later was held under $200 bonds for her appearance before the superior court. Mary Gagnon was sentenced to five months in jail and she also appealed, and like the other woman she was held under $200 bonds. Mary L. Lessard was sentenced to six months in jail and appealed and was held under the usual bond for the superior court.

Elta Roberts who yesterday was sentenced to six months in jail and appealed appeared in court this morning and withdrew her appeal.

Michael J. Noonan promised to do better in the future and as a result he was placed in the care of the probation officer.

Alice Polier admitted that she was drunk yesterday and last for that she will spend the next five months in jail. Alfred Searles admitted that he had been drinking and was fined $5. There were several first offenders who were fined $2 each.

FUNERALS

SILVA—The funeral of Maria Silva took place yesterday afternoon from the home of her parents, Anthony and Julia Silva, 39 Summer street. Burial was in the Catholic cemetery. Undertakers M. H. McDonough & Sons in charge.

CURRY—The funeral of Mrs. Mary Curry took place this morning from her late home, 27 Fulton street at 8:15. High mass of requiem was sung at St. Michael's church at 9 o'clock by Rev. Francis Mullin. The choir under the direction of Thomas P. Boulger sang the Gregorian mass, Miss Carolyn White at the organ. Among the many beautiful floral tributes were a large cross from Mrs. Joyce; sprays from Annie Reaney and Mrs. Michael Duff. The bearers were Jeremiah O'Sullivan, Owen J. Haley, John F. Joyce, William F. Shea and Edward Toke. Interment was in St. Patrick's cemetery where Rev. Francis Mullin read the committal prayers. P. H. Savage had charge of the funeral.

CALLAHAN—The funeral of William Callahan took place this morning from his late home, Wood's Corner, Tyngsboro, at 8 o'clock. High mass of requiem was sung at St. John's church, North Chelmsford at 9 o'clock, Rev. Fr. Boherty officiating. The choir sang the Gregorian mass. At the offertory the choir sang "O Meritum Passionis" and as the body was borne from the church the choir sang "De Profundis." Miss Josephine McCabe presided at the organ. Among the floral tributes were: Pillow inscribed "Quarryworker" from employees of Fletcher's quarry, Westford, Mass.; and several bouquets. The bearers were Joseph Desmaris, Joseph Allard, John Allard, William Allard, Larry Ryan and Wilfred Peiffer. A delegation from the Quarryworkers' International union, consisting of Tony Capuano, Paul Peters, Felix Pino and Anthony Martin, attended the funeral. Interment was in St. Patrick's cemetery in charge of Undertaker Peter H. Savage.

Accused Man Refuses to Make Any Statement

Police Have Denied All Requests to Meet and Speak With the Prisoner—Judge Anger Authorized Prison Governor to Deliver a Verbal Message

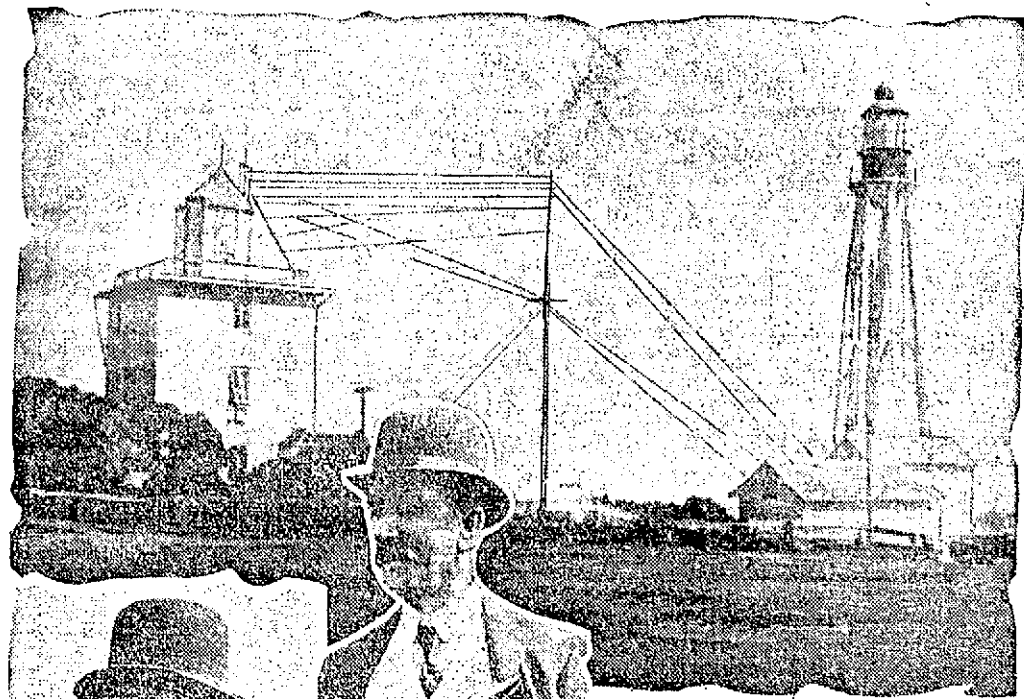

QUEBEC, Que., Aug. 2.—Ethel Clara Leneve, who gave up home and friends for love of Dr. Crippen and now finds much to gather from the accused and himself sharing with him the odium of a murder charge, is the central figure in the police end of the case today. Crippen, taciturn and seemingly to a considerable extent to have recovered since his arraignment yesterday which might help the police in solving the mystery surrounding the disappearance of his wife, Belle Elmore, the American presence of Belle Elmore. It is known that Mrs. Crippen was jealous of her husband's typist and the police have no doubt that Miss Leneve was aware of this jealousy. They will not use "third degree" methods in interviewing Miss Leneve, but more subtle influences are already at work. She showed the effect of this today, appearing to be much better in body and mind than on yesterday when following the collapse of her arrest she was considered too ill to appear in court. Miss Leneve has never been placed in a cell here. She has been kept in the room of one of the woman employees of the provincial jail and has been allowed occasional outdoor exercise. The pressure of friendliness is being exerted on her while there are no prospects that she will come in contact with Dr. Crippen or even see him for a long time. The purpose in all this is obvious when it is considered that so far as Scotland Yard has been unable to identify the dismembered body found in the cellar of the Crippen home in London, the police case is believed not to be complete.

To casual observers it appears that a very pretty little three-cornered game is being played between the police, Crippen and Miss Leneve. Crippen seems to be playing a lone hand but whether the police will receive assistance from Miss Leneve is a question sufficiently in doubt to make a next move on her part a matter of particular interest.

Crippen was today permitted to receive the first message that has reached him from the outside since his arrest. This message was an invitation for him to make his first public statement. His reply was simply "No."

The police have denied all requests to see and speak with the prisoner and threw up their hands in amazement at the very idea of a newspaper interview. Today, however, Judge Anger authorized the prison governor, Joseph Morin, to visit Crippen in his cell and give him a verbal message, asking if he would make a public statement. The magistrate imposed the terms that anything Crippen might say must be put by him

CHIEF OF POLICE A. R. MCCARTHY OF QUEBEC

It is expected that Crippen and Miss Leneve would be returned to England for trial at the expiration of the fifteen days' grace provided by the in writing and submitted to the court before it was given out.

Morin found the prisoner in the same silent and morose state that he has preserved since his imprisonment. When told that he had a chance to send some word to the outside world, Crippen displayed not the slightest interest.

"Is there anything you wish to say?" persisted the jailer.

The accused man was sitting on the edge of his bunk and without even looking up he answered "No." That was all he said and the jailer, having executed his mission, withdrew.

FUNERAL NOTICES

BUTLER—Charles Martin Butler, aged 6 months and 21 days, child of Martin C. and Lillian Butler, died this morning at the residence of his parents, 31 Hampshire street. STILL NO TRACE

As to Whereabouts of Margaret Harrington

As yet no trace of the missing Margaret Harrington, who abandoned her six weeks old baby in Tewksbury has been discovered by the police, and the little one is still at the Children's Home in Kirk street, where she has endeared herself to everyone connected with that worthy institution. The police are inclined to believe that the story of the mother to the effect that she only arrived in this country a few months ago is not true. They think that she has been here some time and is being cared for "under cover" by friends. "She's a lovely baby," says the enthusiastic matron of the Children's Home, and Miss O'Leary is an expert on children.

MAINE DEMOCRATS

Believe That They Will Win Out Charge of Murder Is Made in Election Against Restelli

AUGUSTA, Me., Aug. 2.—Mayor Frederick W. Plaisted, democratic candidate for governor, was home yesterday for the first time in a week or more, and it will mark his last appearance here for some time, as he has almost continuous campaign dates covering a large part of August.

The democratic state committee is preparing to send out a large amount of literature showing the financial condition of the state, the extravagance of the administration, as well as a number of speeches on the tariff. Mr. Plaisted's letter, formally accepting the democratic nomination, is expected the latter part of the coming week.

Senator T. P. Gore of Oklahoma, Senator Stone of Missouri, Congressman Foss of Massachusetts and Bourke Cochran of New York have been invited to speak during the campaign. A definite reply has been received only from Mr. Foss, who states that after his campaign in Vermont he will be pleased to be at the service of the state committee.

Col. Plaisted and Olanah Gardner will address large rallies at Milo, Aug. 30, and at Dover, Aug. 31, and later will pass a week together stumping in Aroostook county. Both are scheduled to appear at a number of afternoon as well as night meetings.

"The democratic organization was never in better shape," said Fred Emery Beane of Hallowell, chairman of the democratic state committee. "It looks better from a democratic standpoint than it has for a quarter of a century. I have received numerous letters from republicans who state that they will vote for Col. Plaisted, and I am confident that he will be elected. There are no dissensions to speak of in the ranks of the democracy and we are hearing of many converts every week. I do not think the coming election will be as large as it was two years ago, owing in a measure to the apathy of the republicans."

There was a well attended meeting of the Varnum Avenue Improvement Association held last night at the Roberts farm in Varnum avenue and the principal topic of discussion was the automobile races which were to have been held over the celebrated Merrimack Valley race course.

David J. Williams, the president of the association, occupied the chair and called the meeting to order shortly after eight o'clock.

TEACHER SUES SHE MAKES CHARGE OF BREACH OF PROMISE

NORTAMPTON, Aug. 2.—A breach of promise case was entered in the superior court yesterday. The plaintiff is Miss Mabel A. Sturtevant of New Haven and John Maxwell Clark of Hadley the defendant. Suit is for $5000 damages. Miss Sturtevant was two years ago a teacher of the North Hadley school.

Another North Hadley suit is that of Alice M. Fairman of that village against Cotton A. Smith of Los Angeles, Cal., administrator. The suit is for $5000 and is brought for damages alleged to have been sustained because the plaintiff purchased from the defendant the farm of the late Thomas Garry for $15,000 understanding that there was running water on the premises, whereas there is none, and because the defendant, it is charged, has converted to his own use a large amount of personal property of the farm.

GIRL IS FOUND SAID TO BE INVOLVED IN ASSAULT CASE

PITTSBURG, Aug. 2.—Jennie Matto, the 15-year-old girl said to have been lured away from Hudson, N. Y., by (Crespin) Marandini to Ashburnham and later assaulted by Marandini, has been found in Hudson, N. Y., by Chief Thayer and State Officer Robert E. Mott and brought here yesterday. Marandini was assaulted in Ashburnham by the police, by James Matto, brother of the girl, and Dominico Dilluso and the girl disappeared. The girl told the police that her life was threatened by Marandini at Hudson, N. Y., before he took her away and also at Ashburnham, where she says he held her as a prisoner yesterday. Her brother and Dominico Dilluso came to rescue her. Miss Matto is a mere child and while telling her story wept copiously. She stated that Marandini told her that he would kill her brother and mother and burn their home down in the night if she did not go away with him. She said friends of Marandini spirited her away after the assault upon Marandini at Ashburnham. James Matto and Dominico Dilluso, who are held upon the assault complaints, were also given a hearing in court yesterday. They denied the complaints and said a third man, who got away, stabbed Marandini.

WARRANTS SWORN OUT

Against Restelli

QUINCY, Aug. 2.—Yesterday, for the first time since the wholesale shooting of Louis Restelli on Friday, the police obtained evidence which would tend to establish the reason why Restelli killed his mother, if any reason could be advanced for the committing of so heinous a crime. In looking over Mrs. Restelli's effects yesterday the children found a note for $300, which Louis had made out to his mother and which was payable in three months' time. Mrs. Restelli had agreed to go to the bank Friday morning to get the $300, in exchange for which she intended to accept Louis' note. In preparation for the visit to the bank she had expressed her intention to her son Adolph and wanted him to go with her. For some reason or another, however, she did not go to the bank, as far as any bank book records show, and Adolph said she did not accompany the mother to the bank that day.

The note had evidently been made out and signed by Louis in anticipation of the money he expected would be forthcoming when he called Friday afternoon, and it was evidently for this purpose that he visited the home of his mother. What happened after he went into the house is, of course, but a matter of conjecture, as only the two were in the place. It is supposed that he asked for the money and not getting it flew into a rage, with the result that he began his long trail of killing and shooting by firing a bullet into his mother's head.

Lorandean Held Up
Whether or not Restelli made a demand for the note which he had signed in favor of his mother, after he found he could get no money, is, of course, not known; but it is certain he did not have the note returned to him, because it was found among the mother's papers yesterday.

Police work in connection with the Restelli case is concerned, was somewhat broken by two events which caused temporary excitement. One was the holding up of Felix Lorandean at 1:30 yesterday morning, while he was going home on Water street, and the other was a report from Adams street that a man supposed to be Restelli had been seen prowling about the J. H. Dewson house on that street.

Mr. Lorandean was held up just as he turned in to take a short cut through the ward three playground. He has been employed as night starter on the old Chicago and North Western for the past few weeks and comes up to Quincy on the late car. Just after passing in through the polishing mill yard yesterday morning a man stepped up to him with a revolver in one hand and his other hand spread out as if ready to catch his throat. Mr. Lorandean ran toward police headquarters and yelled lustily for help. Mr. Lorandean said the man's hat was pulled well down over his face and he could not tell if the man was Restelli, although he knows the latter very well. The police think the man was somebody else, as he was acquainted with Lorandean and knew he would pass through the playground at a certain hour.

The police theory is that this man knowing Lorandean imagined that because he was the conductor on the late car up from Neponset, in fact the last car of the night, might have the collections of the trip at least, in his clothes and would bring home with him the money. The place where Conductor Lorandean was held up is not anywhere near the North common, where Restelli was last seen.

The second interesting incident of the day was when the police were called to the home of J. H. Dewson, where the housekeeper, Mrs. Johanna McLeod, said she heard somebody tampering with the garbage can at two o'clock yesterday morning. She also said that she heard somebody shaking an apple tree. Mrs. McLeod admitted she had been in a nervous condition since the shooting and said she had stayed up till about 2 o'clock because she was afraid to be down and sleep. The police searched all around the house and premises, but found nothing but footprints of some men which were probably those of the searching parties of Friday rather than those of Restelli, as an army of searchers had been busy about the house. The Dewson house the day of the crime. The racket at the garbage can might have been caused by some dog trying to pry the cover off, the police said, and Mrs. McLeod admitted that when she looked out of a darkened window she was unable to see anybody about the place.

Suggestion of Food Cache
The police yesterday got the names of two parties who saw Restelli carry a big bundle up through Quarry street on the evening of the day before he did the shooting. One of these parties said the bundle looked like canned goods, although this informant admitted the bundle might have contained a piece of machinery. A man and a woman saw Restelli Thursday evening going toward Carroll's lane with this bundle and some of the police officers have an opinion Restelli was stocking up some place with food in preparation for a long stay out of sight of the public eye. This theory, of course, admits of a premeditated shooting, but the police have been convinced of this ever since Friday because everything was carried out with a dash to suggest a premeditated shooting, and the fact that Restelli shot only those with whom he had no business dealings and passed many others by, even speaking to some, after shooting in a wholesale manner, would tend to suggest that the shooting was not something done on the spur of the moment but as the result of an insane mind.

A suggestion was made to Chief of Police Burrell last night that some of these great heaps be blown up with dynamite or, at least, that officers be placed near them during the nights, so that if the man is hiding in one of these places and emerges for a drink of water, which he must get to satisfy the cravings of the body, he may be caught. It was also suggested that quarry holes which lie in the vicinity of the end of the pathway, on which Restelli was last seen, be also treated with dynamite. There are three of these holes, which have water in them from 60 to 80 feet in depth, and if any body is lying at the bottom there is a chance of it being brought to the surface by the action of some dynamite. These suggestions have been offered to relieve the terrible mental strain of the people of the city, and this strain is becoming intensified with each succeeding hour that Restelli remains uncaught or unbound.

Formal warrants charging Restelli with the murder of Henry C. Hardwick and assault with intent to kill C. Theodore Hardwick were sworn out yesterday in the district court, the complainants being Dr. S. C. Hardwick, one of the sons of the murdered granite manufacturer. The concern which sold Restelli a surfacing machine a few weeks ago and for which he had made no payment sent an agent to this city yesterday to take the machine away from the stone sheds where it was set up. The agent took the machine to Quincy Adams for shipment to Boston.

CHIMNEY FIRE
An alarm from box 82 at 7:43 o'clock last night summoned a portion of the fire department to a house in Chelsea foot street where there was a chimney fire in progress. A stream from the chemical put an end to the blaze.

$25,000 DAMAGE

Fire In Factory In Dedham Today

DEDHAM, Aug. 2.—The carpet making plant of the Cochrane Mfg. Co. at East Dedham was badly damaged by fire today. The management refused to estimate the loss, but it is believed that it will reach $25,000. The fire caught in the boiler room about 7 a. m. and soon spread to adjoining buildings. The entire local department, assisted by apparatus from Hyde Park and Westwood, fought the flames for nearly two hours and managed to save a portion of the plant. The company's works in this town are on River street.

CHINESE PRINCE

COMING TO STUDY UNITED STATES NAVY

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—China is looking for Western ideas for her navy. In September, His Imperial Highness Prince Tsai Hsun and Admiral Sah, the imperial naval commissioners, will arrive in the United States to study naval affairs. Mr. Calhoun, minister to China, advised the state department yesterday that the royal party will sail from Shanghai Aug. 24. Prince Tsai Hsun is a brother of Prince Tsai Tao, commander-in-chief of the Chinese army, who visited the United States last year with a large retinue of officers and attaches, studying military affairs, and is an uncle to the little Chinese emperor. In addition to Admiral Sah, Prince Tsai Hsun will be accompanied by ten other naval officers and servants.

BRONZE DOORS

TO BE PLACED IN CAPITOL HAVE ARRIVED

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 2.—New bronze doors to complete the series of entrance doors to the capitol have arrived here and will be placed in the main west entrance of the building. The doors were designed by Prof. Lewis Annatt of Washington. The design consists of a transom and two doors with an ornamental frame. The doors are nearly eight feet wide and thirteen feet in height. In the design of the transom a figure representing America in a chariot drawn by lions and led by a child, signifying "superiority of intellect over brute force." Beside the chariot are figures representing the sciences, literature, history, commerce and industry. On one side of the transom panels is a figure of Thomas Jefferson and on the other side a figure of Benjamin Franklin. Medallions at the four corners represent Pabody, Emerson, philosopher, Horace Mann, educator, and Hopkins, merchant and philanthropist. In the eight panels, four on each of the heavy doors, are scenes symbolic of jurisprudence, science, art, mining, agriculture, electricity, commerce and engineering, and on the sides of these panels are statues of famous Americans.

AMERICA GETS GOLD
LONDON, Aug. 2.—America secured $3,000,000 out of the $4,500,000 worth of gold available upon the open market today. The rest of the supply was taken over by India and the rest of the price was a half-penny higher.

LAKEVIEW THEATRE

Judging from the crowds that have daily gathered at Lakeview theatre since the opening of "St. Elmo," the play that the Lakeview Stock company is offering this week is one of the season's best. Mr. James Thatcher, the leading man, plays the role of "St. Elmo Murray," and plays it well, as does Miss Florence Barr, who has the part of "Edna Earle" in her hands, and does full justice to the part. The rest of the company who have parts that show up to advantage are Minnie Carruthers, Frances Williams, Dan Karold, Robert Lee, Ben Johnson, Jack Rowe and others. Matinees every day except Mondays, at 2:30, evenings at 8:15 and seats in advance can be secured at Carter & Sherman's drug store.

THEATRE VOYONS

Today's biograph feature, "Unexpected Help," which is shown at the Theatre Voyons, well deserves its success. Its story is a novel and well written one. It is finely acted and placed in an almost perfect manner. The most innocent appearing characters may sometimes lead one into danger is one of the points made by this picture and the lesson taught is a thoroughly good one. A Cowboy's story is the principal characters being a cowboy, his sweetheart and an eastern young lady of whom the sweetheart is unreasonably jealous. The cowboy is faithful to his love all the time though appearances are many times deceiving, but in the end every body is happy. Two comedies well acted and just the kind to make one laugh in the hot weather are on the program and taken all through it is an unusually good one.

LOWELL PARTY

TOURS BOSTON HARBOR IN MOTOR BOAT

Mr. Charles Mammel, the well known Centralville shoe repairer, "personally conducted" a party of 10 Lowell friends on a motor boat tour of Boston harbor on Sunday and the delighted tourists are still talking about the fine trip they had. They embarked early in the morning on the prettiest boat of its size in the harbor, "Alfred," a 35 footer, built and owned and operated by Mr. Louis Moody of East Braintree. The boat is equipped with a big automobile engine and can do all the stunts in the water that an auto can on land, and its speed is 12 miles an hour. It has a cabin with banks for four and a canopy deck that seats a dozen comfortably. The party proceeded out to the battleship Vermont and the cruiser Chicago which were at anchor and later had the pleasure of seeing the Vermont departing out of the harbor under her own steam. They then went down several miles below Boston light and thence along the north shore light and across the harbor by Pemberton and up the Fore river by the great Fore River ship yards where the latest battleships are built. Returning the party stopped at Pemberton and then took in the upper harbor and Dorchester bay, returning to Boston about sunset.

SOCIALIST PARTY

Has Named Woman For Secretary of State

NEW HAVEN, Aug. 2.—The legal opinion given in New Hampshire that the name of Mrs. Martin M. Tucker of Dover, cannot legally go upon the official ballot to be used in the primary election for nominating a republican candidate for governor, has attracted attention in Connecticut where a somewhat like question may arise. The socialist party has named Ella Reeve Bloor of Waterbury for secretary of state on its state ticket. While no action has yet been taken it is announced that the attorney general will be asked for an opinion as to whether Mrs. Bloor's name can be placed on the Australian ballot. Mrs. Bloor's nomination, it is believed, is the first one of a woman for a state office in Connecticut. She has been prominent in socialist party ranks, coming here from Colorado, and two years ago doing considerable campaigning. She was on a committee appointed by President Roosevelt to inquire into stockyard conditions. The state constitution provides that no person who is not an elector of the state has a right to vote for governor. This qualification is presumed to govern the election of other state officers. No law has ever been passed making women electors under this section of the constitution.

SUED FOR $140,000

Joseph F. Gatins Begins Action Against Dick Brothers

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—Joseph F. Gatins, said to be the head of the large bucket shop syndicate in the United States, who was arrested recently on the specific charge of operating a bucket shop in Washington, D. C., has sued Dick Brothers, brokers, for $140,000. In papers made public yesterday he accuses his brokers of failure to execute a spectacular coup in Hocking the day the stock went to smash.

Word was received here from Washington last night that the department of justice had already begun an investigation not only of the Hocking plunge of Mr. Gatins, but also of many other operations which he has conducted through Dick Brothers and other brokers who have offices in the Waldorf-Astoria. It was in the hotel branches of these firms that Gatins personally carried on his campaigns. Information has been obtained by the attorney general that in most of his stock deals Gatins acted for the bucket shop syndicate. The government has not found any action by his brokers that could be considered irregular, although the character of their customer and his speculations must have been known to the Wall street houses.

Gatins said that he gave an order to Dick Brothers to sell short 100 shares of Hocking stock for every point of its decline. The stock went from $8 1/2 to 25. Dick Brothers are held accountable for 3500 shares, at an average of 52 1/2 a share. Instead of following instructions, Dick Brothers are charged with selling 700 shares and then quitting. Later, on an order to cover, they bought 1100 shares, which left Gatins 400 shares long. Gratian Colvin, an attorney of 165 Broadway, counsel for Gatins, said there could have been no reason for the firm's failure to execute these orders, as Gatins kept in close personal touch with his brokers throughout the day.

THE INSURGENTS

Will Have First Test of Strength In the West Today

TOPEKA, Kan., Aug. 2.—With indications fairly heavy, the culmination of the hot campaign fought on issues of an almost entirely national nature, opened this morning. They furnish probably the first real test of insurgent strength in the west. Candidates will be nominated for congress and for state offices in six of the eight congressional districts present incumbents ask re-election. In the other two districts Victor

Murdoch and E. W. Madison and leadership in that wing have no opposition in their own party. Their only opponents are socialists, and the insurgents are sure of renomination it is generally conceded. The insurgents say they will defeat Scott, Miller and Calderhead, "standard" candidates in the second, fourth and fifth districts, and that there is a chance to defeat Anthony in the first and Campbell in the third. Regulars do not concede that every one of their members will be defeated, although they admit that Miller and Calderhead are in danger. In the second district a woman, Mrs. Kate B. O'Hare of Kansas City, seeks the nomination for congress on the socialist ticket. The contest for governor in the republican party also has been a clearly defined fight between progressive and regular. Governor Stubbs seeking renomination as an avowed insurgent against Thomas Waggstaff of Independence, who has the backing of the standpatners.

THE GOLD OUTPUT
FAIRBANKS, Alaska, Aug. 2.—The severe drought experienced in the Tanana valley this summer has had a serious effect in curtailing the gold output for that field, the water shortage greatly reducing sluicing operations. The output for the Fairbanks field was less than $1,000,000 in July. Bankers estimate that the total output for the season of 1910 will be $5,000,000. Last year's output was between $7,000,000 and $8,000,000. The labor shortage resulting from the rush to Alutka in June has also served to reduce mining operations in this region.

WASHING THE HAIR

There Is a Right as Well as a Wrong Way to Do It.

The important thing to observe in washing the hair is to avoid using soap or shampoo containing an excess of alkali. You must have some knowledge of chemistry before you can tell the difference between good soap and harmful soap. The safest plan is to use Head Wash, which is broadly guaranteed to be neutral and to have no free alkali in it. Moreover, it is mildly medicated with glycerine, salicylic acid, white of eggs and coconut oil. Every one of these things are helpful to the scalp and hair, and by using Head Wash you promptly, the loss of hair is stopped, dandruff disappears and itching ceases. All dirt, dust and dandruff germs are cleared away, the pores leading to the hair roots are opened up, and renewed life and vigor given to the hair. Try Head Wash. It's the only hair preparation the supreme delight of a perfectly clean scalp.

THE MILK MEN JAIL SENTENCE GILBERT ACCUSED THE TARIFF BOARD

Ask Injunction Against the Boston & Maine Road

BOSTON, Aug. 2.—Judge Hitchcock in the equity session of the superior court yesterday heard arguments on a bill brought by the Boston dairy company and H. P. Hood & Sons, milk contractors, against the Boston & Maine railroad company, seeking an injunction to restrain the defendant from putting into effect its new tariff of freight rates on the shipment of milk from points in the state to this city.

The new schedule became operative yesterday and the milk contractors tried to have a temporary injunction granted to prevent the new rates from being enforced, but the hearing was not finished at the hour of adjournment, so the schedule became operative. The court will resume the hearing today, however.

The milk contractors want the railroad company to adhere to the old car rate system, by which they had transportation of milk at a much smaller cost than they will have under the new schedule.

The action arose from a conflicting construction of the new Saunders bill passed by the legislature after the milk investigation by the railroad and the contractors. While the old rate was fixed by the car, the new one is by the ton and is the same to everybody using the road for the shipment of milk. It is a flat rate, the wholesale dealers having to pay as much per can as the small shipper.

Contention of Contractors
It is the contention of the contractors that the railroad has misconstrued the Saunders act. They contend the law contemplated the continued existence of the whole car rate or leased car system, so called, which the contractors had had, but imposed on the road the additional requirement of shipping small quantities for the independent dealers and farmers at a rate absolutely proportionate per can to the rate charged to the milk contractors and large shippers for a whole car.

The road maintains that the milk contractors are in error in their interpretation of the act, and that the statute intends that a flat rate shall be fixed for everybody, so that no contractor or contractors shall have the power to control the milk situation, it contends that if the contractors are to have a monopoly of the milk business they must get it by business skill and not through advantages or benefits arising from arrangements with the road.

W. H. Coolidge, counsel for the road, asserted that the railroad commissioners and the attorney general upheld this view of the law and did not even recommend a suspension of the new tariff rate. He said the road felt the law was a command from the legislature.

Girl Is Charged With Stealing Jewelry

BOSTON, Aug. 2.—Louise Jones, 17 years old, accused of the larceny of jewelry valued at $2777 from the Bantley Jewelry company, pleaded not guilty in the superior court yesterday and was held for trial later in the week. Bail was fixed at $3000. She was sent to jail.

The alleged crime was committed on April 18. H. W. Fosdick, a salesman for the jewelry firm, went to the home of the girl's mother, Mrs. Mary Carter, 124 Pembroke street. He left his bag containing the jewelry in one room while he talked with Mrs. Carter in another room. When he returned to the room in which he left his bag he could not find it.

The police were notified and they arrested Louise Jones. When her case was called in the municipal court she did not appear and was defaulted. A few days ago she returned and gave herself up.

PRESIDENT TAFT

ORIGINAL MEMBER OF THE CONSERVATION MOVEMENT

ST. PAUL, Minn., Aug. 2.—An interesting light on President William H. Taft's connection with the conservation movement develops in the fact that the records of the National Conservation association show that he is the original member, having joined before President Gifford Pinchot took office and while the venerable President Charles W. Eliot of Harvard was at its head. He has, continuously, maintained his membership and in point of duration of his relation to the association, is a pioneer. Officers of the association feel that this connection will serve to persuade the president to make unusual efforts to so arrange his time as to be present in St. Paul during the coming congress and in the northwest there is especial interest in the prospect of an address from the first member and one of the original conservationists.

Commenting upon the slight confusion of some of the delegates already appointed as to the fields of work of the conservation association and the conservation congress, Secretary Shipp of the association, who is also executive secretary of the congress, said:

"The association is a permanent organization, having a membership of nearly 50,000 scattered through all of the United States. Gifford Pinchot, former chief forester of the national forest, is its president. It is organized along lines similar to those of most general associations and deals with conservation questions in their broad relations and as they affect the states, although purely state questions are within the purview of the various state commissions."

"The conservation congress is differently organized, having a membership of only such delegates as attend, but no permanent or fixed members. Its sessions are arranged by an executive committee representing the association and the congress and its annual sessions are open to all who come, irrespective of membership in the national association. The two organizations are separate and distinct, the congress being an annual meeting of men interested in conservation and the association being an organization of men who are members and maintain a permanent relationship. At the head of the congress is President Bernard N. Baker. The conservation movement therefore has two official heads, President Pinchot of the association and President Baker of the congress, each fulfilling separate and distinct duties."

The local board of managers is laying plans for an attendance of 15,000 delegates at the five-day September conference. So great is the flood of acceptance from the invitations issued a month ago that plans are already being laid to entertain one of the largest assemblies ever seen. Committees have been named to prepare in advance for suitable hotel accommodations and information bureaus and other special facilities will be provided in anticipation of an attendance which will fill the two cities to overflowing.

TRIPLTS BORN

ELEVENTH SET THAT ARRIVED IN PROVIDENCE IN A YEAR

PROVIDENCE, Aug. 2.—Triplets were born to Mr. and Mrs. Walter W. Cary of 328 Cass street, and all placed on one scale weighed more than 11 pounds. There are two girls and a boy, the stork first arriving with the son, who weighs 3 pounds 3/4 ounces. One daughter weighs 3 pounds 7/8 ounces and her little sister just 3 pounds and 2/4 of an ounce.

They were born at the Providence lying-in hospital, the mother being conveyed there only a few hours before the birth. It was the 11th set of triplets born in Providence within a year, and the fourth set to be born at the lying-in hospital in that period.

The hospital announced yesterday that it had contracted for a new addition to cost $20,000 and that 50 rooms are to be added.

WAGE INCREASE

FOR EMPLOYEES OF INTERNATIONAL PAPER COMPANY

FRANKLIN, N. H., Aug. 2.—The wages of thousands of paper mill workers in New Hampshire, New York state, Vermont, Maine and Massachusetts were advanced by 5 per cent yesterday by the International Paper company.

The raise was one of the conditions of the agreement which ended the protracted strike in several states last spring.

Since the settlement of the trouble the Winnipegauke mills of this city have been running to their capacity. Strikers who desired to return to work have been given positions, and everything seems to be harmonious. All future differences between the company and employees will be submitted to arbitration.

The Best Hour of Life

Mother Says He Encouraged Her Boy to Fight

HAVERHILL, Aug. 2.—Albert Gilbert pleaded not guilty in the district court yesterday to a charge of promoting a boxing bout and the case was continued until next Monday for a hearing. Two boys, Leon Debelois and Ernest Meteyer, are the ones who it is alleged figured in the bout, the mother of Meteyer having informed the police that Gilbert offered the boys 25 cents to fight to a finish.

Gilbert, it is alleged, acted as referee, but Patrolman Radcliffe called the bout off just a few minutes before the final curtain had been rung. The police records show that he swooped down upon a building on Arch avenue in which the event is declared to have taken place, and gathering principals and the accused promoter he signalled for the police wagon. All were rushed to police headquarters, where it was found that young Meteyer was suffering from a blow on the nose.

After an examination by physicians he was rushed to the City hospital, and an operation performed. According to the attendants at that institution Meteyer will wear a deformed nose for life. A slight operation was performed, but it was not possible, so the nurses say, to completely mend the wound made by the blow alleged to have been administered by Debelois.

The police yesterday morning were not ready to put on any evidence, as young Meteyer was indisposed and by mutual consent the case was put on the calendar for trial Monday morning, Aug. 8. Young Meteyer was sent to the hospital Saturday after the bout. He was released yesterday morning. Later developments, however, showed him to be in bad condition and he was returned to the institution.

"WILD MAN" CAUGHT

Arthur Swain is Back in the Laconia Jail

FRANKLIN, N. H., Aug. 2.—In the capture of Arthur Swain at Sanborn, spreading terror through the neighborhood for months has been apprehended.

Swain is about 40 years old and lives in Meredith. He is mildly insane. Three years ago he escaped from the Belknap county house of correction at Laconia and since that time he has been wandering around in this section. He was confined at Laconia because of his insanity.

Last winter for two months he worked at the Sanborn farm of Charles Osgood, but suddenly took "French leave." All this spring and summer he has lived in the woods. He has kept alive by drinking milk and eating berries. Some nights he has slept in barns, but most of the time he has been in the woods and pastures. He has obtained milk by milking the cows in the pastures and has picked berries enough to keep him from starving. He has kept out of sight most of the time.

William Sanville, who is employed at the farm of Mrs. Ellen Mason, was at work upon a fence Sunday afternoon, when he caught sight of the man and recognized him as Swain. Swain started to run for the woods. Sanville called him gently by name and he stopped. Assured that no harm would come to him he was enticed to the Mason home. He remained there during the night.

Yesterday morning Selectmen F. H. Hunkins and E. W. Lane of Sanborn went to Mrs. Mason's house by automobile and Swain was taken to Laconia and recommitted.

A LAWN PARTY SEVERAL INJURED

To be Held by Immaculate Conception Parish

A well attended meeting of the men of the Immaculate Conception parish was held last night at the Y. M. C. I. building in Stackpole street, for the purpose of making plans for a lawn party which is to be held in the near future.

There were about four hundred present when Rev. George I. Nolan called the gathering to order and all expressed a willingness to work hard and make this coming affair even better than the recent one given by the Y. M. C. I. The fête will take place at the Sanborn park. Charles Keyes was chosen chairman and Walter King secretary of the meetings on arrangements.

The following committees were elected for the festival: Board of governors, Thomas F. Beane, Patrick Farrell, John Welch; William Veed, George F. O'Meara, Bartholomew Barry; entertainment committee, John X. Payne, Frank McCarty, Joseph McCaffrey, John J. Quinn, Fred McSorley; decorating committee, Frank McCormick, Michael O'Keefe, James H. Flood, John J. Sullivan, Terence Cox; music committee, Thomas Lawler, William Rowlinson, Fr. O'Brien, O. M. I.

CLOTHES STOLEN

BIDDEFORD MAN HAS AN EXPERIENCE IN BOSTON

BOSTON, Aug. 2.—George F. Mead, who up to yesterday lived in a room at 247 Shawmut avenue, charged with a robbery yesterday and for two months his home address will be the house of correction, Deer Island.

According to Special Officer Irwin of division 6, John H. Sullivan of Biddeford, Me., came to Boston a few days ago to see the sights and met Mead. Mead had evidently at one time visited Biddeford, for he conversed intelligently about the town, and that was enough for Sullivan to believe him a friend.

That they might be together, Sullivan was invited to spend Sunday at Mead's room at 247 Shawmut avenue. They did, or at least Sullivan did, but when he awoke early yesterday morning he was alone and he found that his new $40 suit of clothes, underclothing, shoes, stockings, collar and necktie were missing, as well as a $25 watch and $30 in money.

Left without sufficient clothing to venture upon the street without running the risk of being arrested, Sullivan was in a quandary, but other lodgers in the house collected enough wearing apparel to allow the Maine man to go to station 6 and make a complaint. Special Officer Irwin came across Mead and he looked real jaunty in Sullivan's clothes.

Preparing to Take Up Lumber, Hides and Leather

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—The tariff board will meet next month in Washington and take up actively as a body the work of investigating the cost of production here and abroad.

Chairman Emery will come down from Maine, where he is at present working on the data he obtained in Europe. J. E. Reynolds and N. L. Stone, statisticians of the board, will return from Europe, where they are looking into the textile industries and European tariff statistical methods. Mr. Saunders, the third member, will come from Chicago, where he is engaged in preliminary work in connection with the woolen industry.

Besides its announced investigations of the woolen, cotton, metal and chemical industries, by the results of which the board is said to be willing to stand or fall as a valuable government agency, the board is preparing to inquire into lumber and hides and leather.

An expert has been employed to study present conditions of imports and exports of hides and leather with a view to ascertaining what effect the tariff law has had upon the trade.

In investigating conditions in the lumber industry, an effort will be made to ascertain the cost of production in the United States and Canada, which is regarded as the only competing country.

Agents will be assigned to gather the facts about the several geographical sections from which various kinds of lumber are produced, such as the New England region, the southern yellow pine section, the Appalachian hardwood region, the northern states producing white pine, and the far west, where red wood, fir and other varieties of lumber are produced in large quantities.

In investigating each industry the board will divide its inquiry into five branches: Technical, financial, trade, labor and statistical.

Each division will be carried out by men engaged especially for their capacity in that character of work.

The labor end of the inquiries will be especially important, in view of the contention of the protectionists that the laboring man is the chief beneficiary of the tariff system.

C. W. A. Yodis, an ex-professor at Yale, will probably have entire charge of the investigation of labor conditions in all industries. It is expected that the tariff board will employ a large number of agents to carry on the field work.

Little has been done so far except preliminary work. The board has entered into negotiations with recognized experts in the cotton industry with a view to securing their services to investigate the cost of producing in that business.

Most important, of course, is the attitude of the men engaged in the industries toward their investigation. In this connection it is stated that the

K. OF C. PARTY

HAD A MOST ENJOYABLE TIME IN MONTREAL

MONTREAL, Que., Aug. 2.—The Massachusetts delegation to the Knights of Columbus convention, which opens at Quebec today, arrived here yesterday morning. Among the first to greet the party on its arrival were Mr. and Mrs. John T. Simpson of Boston and Mr. and Mrs. George C. Shields of Mansfield, who arrived Sunday. The Bostonians received considerable attention and at every turn one met scores of New Englanders.

The party that left Boston Friday morning also arrived here yesterday morning, coming by way of Niagara Falls and the Thousand Islands.

Yesterday forenoon carriage drives were taken about the city and visits paid to churches. Yesterday afternoon a trip through the Lachine rapids was enjoyed. A party of 31 from Connecticut, together with the Rhode Island and Vermont delegations, joined those from the Bay state yesterday and the entire party of nearly 150 left at seven last night by boat for Quebec.

SEVERAL BEQUESTS

MADE TO MEMBERS OF SUNDAY SCHOOL CLASS

BOSTON, Aug. 2.—The will of Franklin S. Williams, filed in the probate office yesterday, contains a bequest of $1000 to the Grove Hall Universalist church, and $50 each to the following members of the testator's Sunday school class: Misses Isotta E. Holway, Beatrice F. Holway, Florence M. Jones, P. Ethel Roxford, Edith Wilkinson and Leonard Sanborn.

Under the will of Sarah E. Triggs, filed in the probate office yesterday, these bequests were made: $5000 each to the woman's board of mission and the Woman's Home Missionary association, and $1000 to the Boston Y. M. C. A.

Accident Cases Treated At Hospital

Henry Allen, an employee at J. F. Saunders' market in Gorham street, met with a peculiar accident yesterday. While working around the market he slipped on the sidewalk on the floor and fell against the fan sustaining a laceration of the nose. He was taken to the Emergency hospital where he received treatment.

Alkan Oganepian, living at 16 Winter street, aged seven, fell on the sidewalk while walking through Gorham street yesterday and the milk bottle which she carried broke, cutting the palm and thumb of the right hand quite severely. Three stitches were taken in the laceration at the Emergency hospital.

William Veed, aged 21, and employed at Walter L. Parker & Co.'s bobbin shop, suffered a laceration of the thumb of the left hand. He was treated at the Emergency hospital.

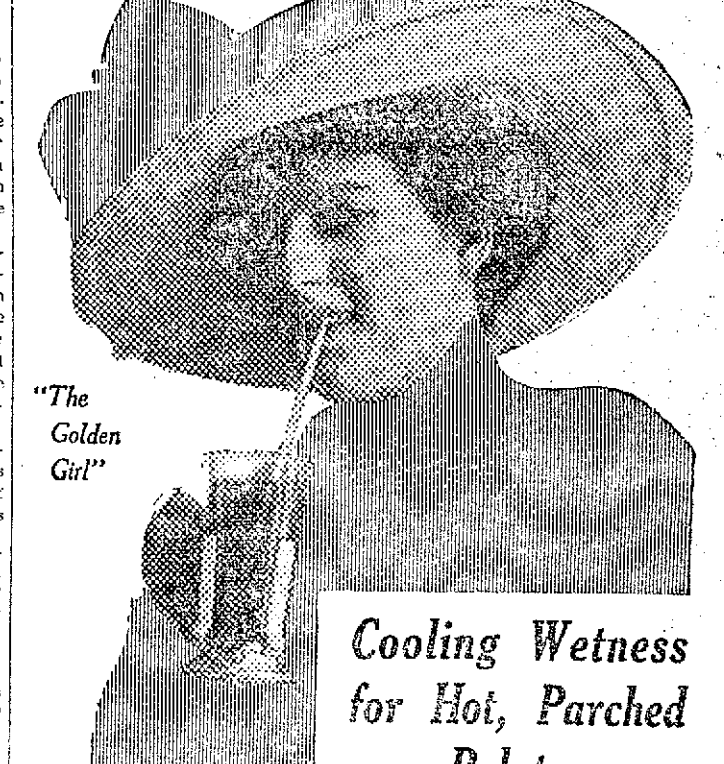

While at work at Seannell's boiler shop yesterday Philip Gessell, aged 42, of 51 Mammoth road, suffered a severe bruise of the left hand while using a hammer. He was treated for the injury at the Emergency hospital.

LIGHT VOTE EXPECTED

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 2.—Missouri voters began at 6 o'clock this morning to choose their nominees for congress, three state officers, state legislators and many county officers. It is expected the voting will be light tonight, but the state. The polls will close at 7 o'clock tonight. Six of the ten democratic congressmen will get a renomination without question, including Champ Clark, minority leader in the house of representatives. All of the present congressmen from Missouri with the exception of Harry Coudrey of the twelfth district are seeking renomination. The fifth and fourteenth districts have two candidates each seeking the congressional nomination of the republican ticket on the "insurance" and "standpat" issues.

BIG AVIATION MEET

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 2.—Burton's Island in the Ohio river just below the point of Pittsburgh's triangular business section with its skyscrapers is to be the scene this week of the first aviation meet in Pennsylvania. The Pittsburgh Aero Club has engaged three aviators, Glenn B. Curtis, J. C. Marx and Captain Thomas Baldwin, to fly here. Their machines were set up today in readiness for the opening of the meet on Thursday. While it only has been announced that the aviators will engage in races and height contests about the island it has been made to circle or cross over the downtown districts. The high bluffs and hills along the river together with buildings of no mean height in the city and the wind currents about them will offer plenty of pitfalls to the aviators. Clouds of dense smoke add an element of danger peculiar to this kind of racing. The meet will continue three days.

Tarrytown Women Engaged in a Bitter Fight

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—The recent meetings held at Tarrytown, N. Y., in the interest of woman's suffrage under the auspices of the Hudson River Equal Rights association, at the homes of Mrs. Roswell Skeel, Mrs. Charles J. Gould, Mrs. Henry Willard and others, has borne fruit. A large number of prominent women in Tarrytown intend to exercise their rights at the annual school meeting to be held in the Washington Irving high school tonight.

The election promises to be the hottest in the history of the district. For the women have not only named a ticket in opposition to the regular board, but are making a house-to-house canvass soliciting votes. Tickets have been printed and are being distributed where they will do the most good.

In addition, the women have come out with a letter which reads as follows:

"On Tuesday evening, Aug. 2, the annual school meeting for the election of school trustees and transaction of other business will be held in this village at the W. I. H. S. at 8 o'clock.

This year three school teachers are to be chosen by the vote of the people to care for our school interests. Many of the women of Tarrytown, mothers and friends of the children and young people who spend so many hours within the schoolhouse walls, feel that this matter calls for lively interest on their part and should be as near their hearts as their hospitals, Y. M. C. A. church or home interests. Therefore, a number of them from all parts of the town have united in this common interest, and have met together to discuss our school needs and to plan how best to help their village in this matter by the exercise of the privilege granted them by the state.

At the earnest request of this organization of women the following gentlemen have consented to be candidates for election at the meeting on August 2: For school trustees for three years, Frank R. Marston; for school trustee for three years, Frederick J. Hall; for school trustee for two years, James H. Burtenshaw, M. D. Their well-known standing for all that is best in the life of the community entitles them to the loyal support of the men and women of the town who are truly interested in the welfare of the school.

Mr. R. Pierson, who is heading the women's ticket, is president of the board of education and he is also named on the regular ticket, with which he says he is in sympathy. With him are Clarence S. Davidson, a member of the present board, who is seeking re-election, and Dr. Charles W. Fairchild.

This is known as the regular ticket and has the backing of some of the most influential men, who realize that the women are going to give them the biggest fight of their lives, and who are not leaving a stone unturned to get votes. More than six thousand tickets have been printed on both sides for missionary purposes.

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—Warfare again broke out in Hoboken yesterday between public hackmen and A. Philip Hexamer, the Hudson street livery stable proprietor who has the exclusive hawking privileges at the steamship piers under contracts with the various steamship companies. The hackmen have long resented the action of the companies in refusing to permit them to drive their vehicles within the private enclosures outside the piers in order to canvass for fares and on several occasions they have made strenuous attacks.

Many ocean travelers greatly prefer an automobile ride to a coach ride to their homes or hotels on their arrival from abroad, and Hexamer has an arrangement with the New York Taxicab company to furnish him with all the red buzz wagons he needs when ships come in. Yesterday nine taxis were sent to the Holland-America Line pier to meet the demand, and the Hoboken hackmen decided that it was time for action.

James Blanchfield, Edward Flaherty and Edward Loftus, who have been having a hard time trying to compete with Hexamer, complained to the police that the taxicab chauffeurs were hawking without a license, and Herbert Anderson of 1726 Lexington avenue, Manhattan; James O'Leary of 362 West 124th street, Manhattan, and Harry Gerken of 3355 Putnam avenue, Brooklyn, were arrested.

The chauffeurs were directed to drive around to police headquarters and Anderson's and Gerken's fares went with them. O'Leary had no passengers. Anderson's fare was a sick woman, who complained of the inconvenience and distress of being held up in front of a police station pending the settlement of the case, and Recorder McGovern paroled the chauffeur until he had a chance to take the woman to the Pennsylvania railroad station in Hoboken City. Then he returned to Hoboken for an examination in the recorder's court.

John Purcell of 504 West 144th street, Manhattan, who said he had telephoned to the office of the New York Taxicab company for a taxi to meet Mrs. King and Miss King at the steamship pier, was also indicted because chauffeur Gerken was unable to take the women directly to their destination.

Recorder McGovern fined the three chauffeurs $10 apiece, and all paid under protest. Hexamer denounced the arrest of the men as an outrage and said he would test the case in the upper courts. He held that the taxicab men had a right to do business under his direction in Hoboken without molestation.

List of Contributions Received From Local Merchants

The reception committee of the Central council of Hibernians, which is composed of one representative from each of the five local divisions, has elected Daniel J. Murphy, chairman. Mr. Murphy, besides being one of the oldest Hibernians in the city, was the first state president. He is a member of Division 2. William Nelson of Division 11 was chosen secretary of the committee and the other members are John Barrett of Division 8, James E. Burns of Division 1 and Hubert McQuade of Division 23. It is the intention of this committee to establish a booth at the Middlesex street station from the Sunday previous to the opening of the convention to the following Thursday. The list of houses and hotels where accommodations may be secured by the visitors will be kept at this booth.

One of the features of the week will be the grand ball which is to be held in Associate hall on Monday evening, Aug. 22. Mr. James E. Burns has been elected chairman of the ball committee and his assistants are Michael S. Wynne, John P. Sheehan, Benjamin Gagan and Owen Haley.

FETE CHAMPETRE

TO BE HELD BY PEOPLE OF ST. LOUIS' PARISH

On Aug. 24 and 25 the people of St. Louis' parish will hold a grand Fete Champetre on the vacant lot surrounding the church, and it promises to be the most elaborate affair of its kind held in Lowell this season. A feature of the evening will be a vaudeville entertainment with professional talent from out of town. Rev. Abbe Fortier is in charge of the arrangements and he has a hustling committee with him.

Dancing at Willow Dale

All old time music to be played every Wednesday night at Breezy Point, such as Annie Bonney, Two Little Girls in Blue, Dixie's Dream, Down Went Dixie, Dixie's Home and others. Music by Hibbard's orchestra. Songs to be sung by Jack Manchester.

CARDINAL VANNUTELLI

PAPAL LEGATE

Cardinal Vannutelli is Going to Montreal

ROME, Aug. 2.—The pope received yesterday, in private audience, Rt. Rev.

James J. Hartley, bishop of Columbus. O. Bishop Hartley presented a report upon conditions in his diocese.

Cardinal Vincenzo Vannutelli, who has been appointed papal legate to the ecclesiastical congress which will be held at Montreal in September, will leave on August 21 for Canada. His suite will include two papal private chamberlains, Thomas Kelly of New York and Lemoyne DeMartigny, a Canadian, just appointed to that rank by the pontiff, for the purpose of honoring Canada.

CRUELTY CHARGE MAN ARRESTED

Youth Said to be Overworked After He Had Answered Decoy Advertisement

TRENTON, Aug. 2.—Considerable mystery surrounds the disappearance of young Horace Wymann of Cherry Valley, Mass., who until recently was supposed by his parents to be spending his vacation on the farm of W. D. Starr, near Pennington, N. J.

The parents, the Rev. and Mrs. Stephen W. Wymann, yesterday appealed to County Prosecutor Crossley for aid in finding their son.

The Wymanns tell a strange story. The boy was graduated from Pennington seminary last June. He then went to his chum, young Starr, on the Starr farm. After an interval, during which they heard nothing from the boy, they wrote him to return home. In reply they received a letter from young Starr saying that his son wished to stay on the farm a while longer. This troubled them, but they were not particularly worried until they received a message that he was ill.

Then Mrs. Wymann hurried from Cherry Valley to Pennington, and she declared she found Horace almost lifeless and apparently suffering from cruel treatment. She says she found he had been working beyond his strength in the field. When she summoned a physician, he told her to take the lad home, but the Starrs, according to Mrs. Wymann, would not permit him to go.

Mrs. Wymann then telegraphed to her husband that he arrived yesterday. He appealed to the prosecutor. In company with a county officer Wymann was sent to the Starr home to demand possession of his son. He found the house deserted, and was told by workmen that the elder Starrs were away and that young Wymann and young Starr had gone to Philadelphia.

WILLOW DALE
Starting tomorrow night, and every Wednesday night hereafter, Hibbard's orchestra will play all old-time music at Breezy Point with singing by Jack Manchester.

PRES. MONNT

HEAD OF THE CHILEAN GOVERNMENT IS COMING HERE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—The state department has completed arrangements for the reception of President Montt of Chile, who will arrive in New York on the Royal Mail steamship Tagus on Thursday from Colon.

President Montt will spend four or five days in this country before proceeding to Europe for his health. Chandler Hale, third assistant secretary of state, Major General William H. Carter, U. S. A., assistant chief of staff, and Capt. H. M. P. Huse, U. S. N., captain of the Philadelphia navy yard, have been designated to represent the state and navy departments, respectively. They will act as aides to President Montt and will remain with him during his stay in this country.

As the Tagus steams through the Narrows a salute will be fired in President Montt's honor by the coast artillery posts. He will be transferred to a small government vessel and will proceed up the North river to Fifty-ninth street, where he will land. A detachment of regular soldiers will escort him to the Plaza hotel.

President Montt will leave New York for Boston on Friday afternoon. On Saturday he will board the naval yacht Mayflower at Boston, which will take him to Italy to visit the president. He will return to Boston on the Mayflower.

TWO MORE VICTIMS

TEHERAN, Aug. 2.—The campaign of assassination carried on between the reactionists and the adherents of the new order in Persia claimed two more victims last night. Ali Mohamed, one of the prominent nationalist leaders, and one of his associates were shot dead, apparently in reprisal for the recent murder of the reactionary Seyid Abdullah.

WHITE MEN ARRESTED

Charged With Being Implicated in Murder of Negroes

PALESTINE, Tex., Aug. 2.—Two white men were arrested yesterday and put in jail charged with being implicated in the mob violence in the southern part of this county during the last three days in which many negroes were slaughtered. Sheriff Black, who has returned from a visit to the scene of the bloodshed, said:

"I won't find some of the bodies until the location is revealed to us by the buzzards. I found the greatest excitement. Men were killing negroes as fast as they could find them, and so far as I have been able to ascertain without any real cause. These negroes have never done anything that I could discover. There was just a hot headed gang hunting them down and killing them."

"We found 11 dead bodies, but from what I have heard the dead must number 15 or 20. We came across four bodies in one house on a marsh between Denison Springs and Slocum. I understand that Mrs. George Scarborough of Slocum saw a party of 40 or 50 go through her field. Some of them cut the wire and went through on horseback and some of them walked through. They went across to the house where we found the four dead bodies."

"One negro had been killed at this house the night before and three were sitting up with the remains, one of them being old and white haired. These three were killed right where they were. So far as I can learn the negroes were not armed."

"I think the most of that crowd of men came from Houston county, according to what I am told, the shooting was still going on late yesterday evening. They were hunting the negroes down like sheep. We found two in the road that had been shot about 10 o'clock the night before last."

"It was evident that at the time they were killed they were trying to get out of the country, for they had their bundles of clothes with them."

PLAYGROUND WORK

Supt. Whitcomb is Very Much Interested in It

Arthur K. Whitcomb, superintendent of schools, is very much interested in the organized playground work that is being carried on in Lowell. In conversation with a reporter for The Sun, Mr. Whitcomb said:

"I wish that all the school teachers in Lowell would avail themselves of the opportunity to see the folk dancing that is being done under the supervision of the playground instructors."

The dancing takes place in the Morrill school in the morning and in the Eliot school in the afternoon. Mr. Whitcomb dropped in at the Morrill school this morning and remained for nearly an hour. He allows that the folk dancing can be taught in all of the schools and that is why he is anxious that the teachers become interested. It's a training in rhythm and social life and it adds snap and zest to the boy or girl who does it, said Mr. Whitcomb.

The playground is a great thing, especially under supervision. Few who have not witnessed it can understand how, party spirit, class spirit and even race spirit fade out in the intense civic and community atmosphere of these playgrounds. It is pure democracy getting its opportunity to inform itself, working itself free from prejudice and narrowness by organized play.

Board of Aldermen
The board of aldermen will meet this evening and there is a raft of business to come before the meeting. The meeting will be a special one. The call was issued late yesterday afternoon and was due to the pressure of business. The aldermen hope that this will be the last meeting until September.

Francis T. Shore, 23, window dresser, 151 Humphrey street, and Bertha M. Russell, 25, music teacher, 77 Ludlam street.

DIED OF HYDROPHOBIA

Young Wife was Bitten by a Pet Dog

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—Death from hydrophobia came yesterday in Bellevue hospital to Mrs. Julia Canon, 28 years of age, of No. 238 East Seventh street, who was bitten by a pet dog five weeks ago.

For more than a month after the scratch from the dog's teeth, Mrs. Canon went about her household duties in a normal state. She suffered no pain and apparently had given no little thought to the wound. As she was about to take a bath last Saturday morning she suddenly became frenzied at the sight of the water. A spasm of the throat disease caused her to fall upon the floor.

Her husband immediately summoned an ambulance and had his wife taken to the hospital. He told the doctors that immediately after the dog had bitten Mrs. Canon, it had escaped and had not since been found. The wound, he said, was promptly cauterized. The doctor, at once began antitoxin treatment, but the patient failed to respond.

A "mad" dog scare descended upon the shopping district in Harlem, near One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street and Eighth avenue, yesterday at noon. And for several minutes men and women inclined toward flight. A vicious-looking animal started the trouble by attacking a smaller dog led by a young woman. Several men bent over the assailant, which, being not mixed up with a gang of track laborers at the sight of the water. A spasm of the throat disease caused her to fall upon the floor.

Her husband immediately summoned an ambulance and had his wife taken to the hospital. He told the doctors that immediately after the dog had bitten Mrs. Canon, it had escaped and had not since been found. The wound, he said, was promptly cauterized. The doctor, at once began antitoxin treatment, but the patient failed to respond.

THREE DOLLARS PER YEAR. TWENTY-FIVE CENTS PER MONTH

The sworn daily average circulation of The Lowell Sun for the year 1909 was

Sworn to by John H. Harrington, proprietor, Martin H. Reid, business manager, and Alfred Pilote, pressman, of The Sun, before me, January 1, 1910. J. JOSEPH HENNESSY, Notary Public

This is by far the largest average circulation of any newspaper in Lowell.

Dr. McCarty is right. The board of charities should go ahead, attend to their own affairs and do the best they can. When they present their report to the city government signed without any hesitation by the proper officials the public can then make comparisons and render their judgment.

Mr. Bryn went from tariff reform to free silver. Then he abandoned free silver for government ownership of railroads. Now he abandons government ownership which even he sees is impracticable for the present at least, and goes in for prohibition. The party followed him on every previous trip, but it looks as if it would balk this time. Just imagine the solid south considering a prohibitory plank at a national democratic convention. It certainly would be interesting.

PRESIDENTIAL JOY RIDES

The New York World figures out that the presidential joy rides in the last five years cost the government $1,455,261. This represents the cost of maintaining the Mayflower, Dolphin and Sybil as pleasure boats. As commander-in-chief of the army and navy the president can at any time order out these boats for a tour. As a result the presidents have all done so until it has come to be the established custom.

WHAT OTHER CITIES ARE DOING

The city of Fall River has just completed a very fine contagious hospital at an expense exceeding $75,000. It is also maintaining a number of shafts in the open air for consumptive patients during the summer season besides providing the best medical care and treatment.

The city of Lawrence has a consumptives' hospital well equipped in every way so that it can treat all the patients of this class in the most approved manner. Lowell has neither a contagious hospital nor a consumptives' hospital, but it is to be hoped that in the near future we shall have at least a contagious hospital which the law requires every city to have. The other will also be provided in due time.

ENFORCE THE AUTOMOBILE LAWS

We notice that the proper authorities are to put up suitable signs in Merrimack square and adjacent street corners warning automobilists of the speed limits, and also notifying them of the ordinances prohibiting unreasonable delay in this much congested section of the city. Putting up warning signs is not all that is necessary. What we want is a vigorous enforcement of the speed laws. If nothing else will bring reckless chauffeurs to their senses a few good sized fines, and, if necessary where the violations are flagrant, a few days behind the bars will certainly operate to secure the safety of pedestrians in Merrimack square.

We have not yet heard of any enforcement of the law which obliges all auto drivers to run at an extremely low rate or come to a stop when approaching a street car where passengers are alighting or entering. We have seen numerous instances of reckless violations of this law right under our windows in the square, and we think it is about time that the officers enforced this very wise provision. People getting on or off a street car seldom take the precaution to look up and down the street to see if any wild man in a gasoline juggernaut is approaching, and it should not be necessary for the ordinary street car traveller to look and jump and squirm to save his life when entering or leaving a street car. The law puts the burden on the operator of the automobile, and this is as it should be. Passengers should be able to enter or alight from a street car without any needless risk of life or limb, and it is up to the police authorities to protect them by enforcing this very proper provision of the law governing automobiles.

GIVE HIM A CHANCE

Our new smoke inspector should have every facility for performing his duties not only efficiently but comfortably. He should have a good office in a suitable location to observe the various violations of the law, and should have the necessary office equipment to keep his records, correspondence, accounts, etc. But when he gets all these things is it too much to expect that he shall be an inspector who inspects? We hailed his coming with satisfaction, but thus far we have heard of no prosecutions nor any vigorous demands for the enforcement of the smoke law from our new smoke inspector. Nevertheless, we are all disposed to give him a fair chance, and will patiently await the time when he is properly equipped for the campaigning. When that time arrives, which we hope will be very soon, we feel that he should wade in and do something. The smoke nuisance is as bad today as it ever was, and to our mind it is a little worse at night time than it used to be. This leads to the question as to how the smoke inspector can detect violations of the law at night. He has no means of illuminating the sky to see whether the chimneys which have behaved well during the daytime have suddenly become violators under the cover of darkness. Yet if all we hear is true, there are chimneys which have a fashion of behaving themselves during the daytime and then cutting up in the most abominable manner at night.

Housekeepers in several sections of the city declare that they find larger deposits of soot and fine ashes on their premises in the morning than they do during the rest of the day, and if they are right, this would indicate that somebody is violating the law when they think the inspector cannot apprehend them. Now they cannot fool a clever inspector, and if we have one in this newly created office, then he can go out and make close observations at night and catch the offenders red-handed or black-handed, if you will. We drop this hint to our smoke inspector in the hope that he may take advantage of it. Meanwhile we are in favor of granting him any reasonable request for office equipment, and if he proves himself a worthy and capable official we are in favor of giving him a salary in proportion to his services. But as we said in the beginning we want a smoke inspector who will inspect.

SEEN AND HEARD

Love grows cold when the oven isn't watched.

Doubt kills as much affection as downright indifference.

Trust betrays trust, and two trusts may be called a monopoly.

The baby settles many differences when it begins to howl for attention.

The muse induces some to poetize gold, others to gild poetry.

The silence of a fool is better than his talk and just as meaningless.

A hot night it was, so hot that even for a person making no exertion it was simply impossible to keep comfortable.

Then through the open windows came the busy whirr-r-r of a sawing machine. Even on this hot night somebody was toiling.

The visitor, "compelled even into the night to struggle for the barest existence, pity."

"Pity nothing," said the hostess. "To one this slave of the needle is a lively girl who is going to start for the country tomorrow and who is sewing away now like a mad thing."

And then she put the last tack and tucks in some duffy summer frock that she's simply got to finish tonight because the man is coming for the trunk in the morning."

A HOT-WEATHER CRY

Oho, ye winds, ye whistling winds.

That howled and blew all winter.

Upsetting trees and smashing blinds

And fences to a splinter.

Wherever you go, or near or far,

By torrid summer driven,

Come back once more and howl and

And all will be forgiven!

Alas! ye gales, ye frigid gales.

That shrieked about the river.

Your cold breath caused us many ills

And made us shiver and shiver.

We made a scream, "Turn on more steam!"

In frantic hope to chase you;

But now if you would howl a few

We'd gratefully embrace you!

For O you blast, you rattling blast,

Is better here than blazes.

If longer much this heat should last,

We'll all be "neath the daisies."

Now as we pass the river, oh, how

And but one thing can please us.

A good old, cold old, chill old blow.

The sort that chatters teeth, you know,

And makes the skin all goose-flesh

And piles in drifts the falling snow.

And sends the mercury ten below.

So, breezes, please come back, old Ro!

Just letting all engagements go.

And blow and blow and blow and blow.

—Paul West.

PEOPLE OF NOTE

Baron Oura, Japanese minister of commerce and agriculture, is on his way to America for a visit.

Professor Oscar Kuhns, of Wesleyan university, who has a well-earned reputation as a lecturer and critic, has passed several long vacations in Switzerland and knows the country and people intimately. From material on hand he has collected matter for a good descriptive book on that country. Illustrated by photographs of famous historic scenes, mountain peaks and lakes.

American residents in Japan and China, both missionaries and business men, are signing a widely circulated petition which asks school authorities of American cities as well as the governing bodies of all institutions of higher learning to introduce courses in Asiatic history into their curricula. The argument urges that American young people must have something about the history of all the rest of the world, but nothing at all about the oldest of existing civilizations. Such a course would, it is believed, make the next generation fatter to Chinese and Japanese and so eliminate the friction which means the causes of war with the oriental powers.

Mrs. Margaret Deland of Newbury street, Boston, the writer, is at her summer home at Kennebunkport, Me., where she is devoting several hours daily to her literary work. Mrs. Deland has adopted the habit of sleeping in the open this summer.

The Marchesa de Viti de Marco, formerly Miss Ella Dunham of New York, was started in Rome as a social worker, and is now a social worker in the city of Rome. She is a practical guide for all the benevolent institutions in the Eternal City, with branches to look up the records of the different applicants, and with a bank to receive small loans, without interest, to needy and worthy persons; no loan exceeds $20, while in many cases there are loans of $1. It is really touching, says a correspondent, to see the amount of good which is done through this limited help, and the very slight loss which occurs to the bank during the year is remarkable.

Some of the best of the city are expected to pay taxes, some poor girls to pay the instalments on their sewing machines. One mother borrowed $1 to pay the passage of her son to America, a student $20 to print a scientific pamphlet, while a girl got $10 to buy her trousseau. This charity is supported through volunteer contributions, the Marchesa de Viti de Marco, who is being assisted by the city of Rome, gives $300 yearly. To understand the utility of the institution started by Marchesa de Viti de Marco it must be known that Rome is one of the towns which proportionately have the greatest amount of funds for benevolent purposes, but many of the institutions entrusted with these funds are ruled by such antiquated by-laws as to make it difficult to reach them, while in other cases the institutions themselves have no means of discovering the persons they should benefit.

Miss Mary McDowell of the Universal City Club, Chicago, has been elected the post of member from the Fourth Senatorial District of the Advisory Council of the Legislative Voters' League. It will be her duty to stir up women's influence to secure a class of candidates which will better represent the district in the legislature.

COAL LAND CLAIMS

SECY BALLINGER HAS ORDERED ANOTHER INVESTIGATION

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—All of the Alaskan coal land claims, with the exception of the famous Cunningham property, will be re-investigated by order of Secretary of the Interior Ballinger. The work will be in charge of Andrew Christensen, who succeeded Louis Glavis when the latter was dismissed as chief of the field division of the general land office with headquarters at Fairbanks, Alaska, which had charge of the Alaskan district.

In view of the importance of the Alaskan coal fields, the investigation of the claims has been separated from the Portland office and Mr. Christensen, with the title of chief of field division in charge of Alaskan coal lands investigation, will examine the 900 or more entries, averaging 160 acres to the claim. Some of these claims were examined by Mr. Glavis.

The Cunningham claims will be excepted from the investigation because they have already been re-investigated and the record is now in the general land office awaiting action by the commissioner.

HEALTH DEPT.

NATIONAL BUREAU IS NECESSARY SAYS MISS HAZARD

Miss Caroline Hazard, whose resignation from the presidency of Wellesley college has just been announced, makes the following statement in regard to the proposed national department of health:

"Women are the natural conservers of the health of the household. Every mother gives her children their health at birth, and cares for them as they grow up. Unfortunately, this care is too often without a basis of sound knowledge. Departments of hygiene are being established for training in physical development in many colleges, both for men and women. The director of this department at Wellesley college has recently written, 'Wherever the need has been recognized in communities for establishing a form of hygienic enlightenment, and a real opportunity made of it, the results have invariably been most marked.'

"All that we can really know is our own experience, but the wise person can reason from that, can generalize from the special, and from the individual rise to some apprehension of the universal. A woman of even very limited experience must have had some knowledge of it health, either in her own person or in those she loves. In the old days in almost every village there was a woman who was wise in herb teas, and various 'simples,' who was a power in the community. People appealed to 'witch-doctors,' and in cases of grave illness resorted to treatment which was a survival of the old method of incantation and exorcism. In all these things women have been prominent for they were impelled to such service by the very best that was in them, the mother-love which is at the root of every good woman's character, and the faith in the unseen which lies at the foundation of religion. A blind and foolish faith it very possibly was—a faith that could not work the marvels it hoped for—but true and genuine of its kind, and full of the instinct of service.

"Those days are passed. The secrets of life are being studied as never before, principles of right living are being deduced from observed facts of physical existence. What used to be called the visitations of God are shown to be the carelessness of man. The law of God is holy, and must produce wholeness of body and mind. But the law is relentless, and, if broken, exacts its penalty. The study of these laws of being is engaging many of the most brilliant and profound minds in all countries. The results of this study are transforming the thought of the civilized world.

"The Owen bill provides for a department of health which will have at heart the care of the people, and will pass on to them, in a more direct and immediate way, than is possible through the slow percolation of general knowledge, the results of this special and expert study. Tuberculosis, which claims its victims by the thousands, is a disease of ignorance. It can be controlled. Through selfish greed our sea coast is in danger of being the open door to some of the terrible Asiatic plagues, diseases of sin and filth. It would be the duty of such a department to protect our borders. Diseases of ignorance and malnutrition in the south threaten us. Prevention is the great duty of cities and towns, rather than cure after evils are established. But aid in such prevention for help and guidance, the department of health could be looked to for authoritative advice. The department of agriculture sends seeds by the million to the farmers of the country for food production, shall not the department of health prevent the spread of disease germs which propagate by the hundred million and destroy the bodies which that food is meant to nourish?"

"This is a simple question which must appeal to every housewife, to every mother, to every woman who loves her own family, and is therefore prepared to understand her duty to her neighbor."

THE WIDER CASE

Suspicion That Man Hid Securities

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—Coincident with the appearance yesterday of Edwin Johann Wider, a $25 a week cashier who confessed to taking $600,000 worth of securities from the local agency of the Russo-Chinese bank, the district attorney's office began a search for a part of the loot, on the theory that Wider may have secreted possibly half a million dollars in securities somewhere instead of having lost it in speculation.

It is suspected Wider has hidden away the greater part of the securities. This conclusion is said to be based on the failure of the authorities, after going over all the books of the brokerage firms with which Wider said he did business, to find records of transactions amounting to more than $200,000.

Acting Dist. Atty. Frank Moss is contemplating going before the grand jury and asking for additional indictments against Wider.

Wider was not forced, as expected, to plead yesterday to the indictment charging him with grand larceny. When he appeared in court yesterday afternoon for arraignment, his counsel announced that the district attorney's office had consented to a brief postponement of the pleading. Accordingly, Judge O'Sullivan set Wednesday as the day for receiving Wider's plea, and Wider was taken back to his cell in the Tombs.

It is suspected Wider has hidden away the greater part of the securities. This conclusion is said to be based on the failure of the authorities, after going over all the books of the brokerage firms with which Wider said he did business, to find records of transactions amounting to more than $200,000.

Acting Dist. Atty. Frank Moss is contemplating going before the grand jury and asking for additional indictments against Wider.

Wider was not forced, as expected, to plead yesterday to the indictment charging him with grand larceny. When he appeared in court yesterday afternoon for arraignment, his counsel announced that the district attorney's office had consented to a brief postponement of the pleading. Accordingly, Judge O'Sullivan set Wednesday as the day for receiving Wider's plea, and Wider was taken back to his cell in the Tombs.

THE WIDER CASE

Suspicion That Man Hid Securities

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—Coincident with the appearance yesterday of Edwin Johann Wider, a $25 a week cashier who confessed to taking $600,000 worth of securities from the local agency of the Russo-Chinese bank, the district attorney's office began a search for a part of the loot, on the theory that Wider may have secreted possibly half a million dollars in securities somewhere instead of having lost it in speculation.

AUTO STRUCK BY CAR FIGHT FOR BABE

Mrs. Arthur E. Hatch Suffered Fractured Ankle

A big automobile of the touring type belonging to and driven by Arthur E. Hatch of 615 Westford street, this city, crashed into an electric car in Shawshoen avenue, at a point near Wilmington centre, shortly after eight o'clock last night. The occupants of the machine saw the approaching car a few seconds before the crash came and all with the exception of Mr. Hatch, who was operating the automobile, leaped from the car. All escaped injury with the exception of Mrs. Hatch, who sustained a broken ankle.

The automobile contained Mr. and Mrs. Hatch and Mr. and Mrs. Perry D. Thompson of 126 Fort Hill avenue.

Shawshoen avenue runs from Billerica to Wilmington, and enters the road where the trolleys run on a sharp slope from the railroad bridge.

Mr. Hatch, who was driving, tried to swing out over the tracks which are situated on that side of the road nearest the bridge, to the other side, on his way to the city, but the electric, a big, semi-convertible, rolling toward Boston, struck them before they had passed the tracks and pushed them back for a distance of 20 feet. Aside from a bad shaking up, Mr. and Mrs. Thompson were not hurt, and Mr. Hatch escaped without serious injury. The car was put out of commission and pretty well smashed up.

The members of the party in the automobile were taken to this city in an automobile belonging to George W. Dana. Mrs. Hatch was taken to her home, where she was attended by Dr. R. E. Bell. The wrecked automobile was towed back to this city.

SEEKS A DIVORCE

Wealthy Widow Says She Gave "Other Woman" $15,000

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—"I am the other woman. I have been the other woman for six years. Now you are his wife, and I want $15,000."

This telephone message was received by Mrs. Philip Van Valkenburgh, the "350,000,000 widow," on the first day of her honeymoon, according to affidavits she has made in her suit for absolute divorce which is about to be brought against Philip Van Valkenburgh, millionaire clubman of Fifth avenue and Newport, whom she married last November.

Upon the death of the aged William Hayes Chapman, his widow inherited his millions and became the bride of Philip Van Valkenburgh after a brief courtship which followed stormy attempts of a dozen noted noblemen to win her hand, and the man left her forlorn at the St. Regis five months after their marriage.

The allegations in the suit, which yesterday received Mrs. Van Valkenburgh's signature, begin with the very first week of matrimony, following the hasty wedding at Greenwich, Conn., which took place when she was urged by her American friends to accept one of her own countrymen in preference to a life from a foreign shore.

The entrance of the "other woman" into the marital life of the Van Valkenburghs began, according to the complaint, on the day after the marriage. The complainant alleged that Mrs. Van Valkenburgh went to her husband and asked him if the other woman was a reality, and that he admitted that she was.

The complainant then alleges that Van Valkenburgh asked her for a loan of $15,000 to pay off his obligation to the "other woman," which the plaintiff provided on the agreement that he was to have no more to do with the second woman, whose name does not appear.

According to the papers in the suit, Van Valkenburgh did not live up to his agreement and continued seeing the "other woman."

The affidavit also alleges that a man called Mrs. Van Valkenburgh on the telephone at the St. Regis one night, "If you go to the Claremont, at Riverside drive and 123d street, you will see your husband," the message came, according to the complaint.

Mrs. Van Valkenburgh went in an automobile, the affidavit says, and saw the man, who was drinking with a woman. Later, the papers allege, he was followed and was seen to accompany the woman to an apartment house in the vicinity.

That at times after his marriage there were as many as two "other women" in the case is also charged.

EIGHTEEN KILLED

In Streets of New York During the Month of July

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—The National Highways Protective society, which was founded for the purpose of preventing death on streets by wagons, cars and automobiles, gave an interesting statement yesterday, calling attention to the number killed during July in Manhattan and Brooklyn there were eighteen deaths by vehicles and 132 injured. Six were killed in Manhattan and thirty-six injured. Twelve were killed in Brooklyn and ninety-six injured.

Twelve of this number were under twelve years of age. Three were killed by automobiles, five by wagons and five by trolley cars.

The death list for the seven months, from January 1 to yesterday, totals 33 deaths and 529 injured. Of this number, 24 were killed by automobiles, 24 by trolley and 24 by wagon. Of the killed 31 were under sixteen years of age.

Colonel Edward S. Cornell, secretary of the society, said yesterday: "Our society is for the purpose of reducing deaths by vehicles."

"The automobile bill that has just gone into effect contains nearly all the ideas advanced by this society, but there is one that needs must be embodied sooner or later. That is the licensing of owners of cars. There is absolutely no reason why they should not be made to show their skill before being allowed to run an automobile. Just by way of illustration—of the last six persons killed by automobiles two were killed while owners were driving the cars."

"Then we are going to make a campaign to get better drivers on Brooklyn cars. George W. Burleigh, John C. Coleman and Colonel Joseph H. Colt are working on a campaign whereby we hope to make trolley cars have proper brakes. The heavy Brooklyn cars cannot be controlled any more by handbrakes. Either air or electric brakes are necessary now."

WIDOW JILTED

On Eve of Wedding Has Entered Suit

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—A breach of promise suit for $25,000 damages has been filed in the U. S. circuit court at Pittsburg by Mrs. Sally Klein, an attractive widow, of No. 10 Summer street, Brooklyn, who says that after the wedding day was set and she had completed her trousseau, William Friedman decided to marry another woman. He is manager of the Hollander Drug Co. at Bradford, Pa. Mrs. Klein's rival is said to be Mrs. Friedman, widow of the organizer of the Hollander Drug Co. She is said to be worth at least $100,000, and controls a lucrative business. It is reported that Friedman and Mrs. Hollander are to be married this week.

The neighborhood in which Mrs. Klein lives is made up of comparative poor families. Mrs. Klein is said to have been wealthy at one time but met with reverses, and but recently took two of her children from orphanages. She is said to have four or five children.

"What else can I do but marry the rich woman?" Friedman is said to have asked Attorney William S. Moxey, of Pittsburg, counsel for Mrs. Klein, when an effort was made to have him carry out his alleged promise.

Six years ago Mrs. Klein became a widow. Her husband at one time was interested in a large department store in Brooklyn. About a year ago she met Friedman, and in her complaint says he visited her frequently at her Brooklyn home, and in his letters declared he could hardly wait for the "happy day" when they would be married.

As the time for the wedding approached, he ceased his attentions, Mrs. Klein says. She went to Brooklyn to investigate and found he had

Father and Mother Engage in Struggle

BOSTON, Aug. 2.—The little year and a half old girl baby of Mr. and Mrs. George C. Cobb of 281 Pearl street, Cambridge, has a father one day and a mother the next, but seldom both at once, and, incidentally, little Gladys, the baby, is becoming a commutator between Hollis, N. H., and Boston.

Last June Mrs. Cobb applied to the courts for separate support, and after listening to the case Judge Chamberlain continued it, and recommended that the two parties in interest effect a reconciliation.

Cobb and his wife were childhood sweethearts. She was Miss Grace Pelner of Cambridge and their marriage was in the nature of an elopement a few months prior to the day set for the wedding. Cobb is but 26 years old, but owns a grocery in Cambridge and a farm and hotel at Hollis, N. H.

Shortly after the arrival of the baby Mrs. Cobb left the home one night and could not be found. She returned, but gave no explanation of her absence. After that she left for short times and then for good, going to live with her married sister in Worcester. Cobb took the baby with him to Hollis.

The other day Mrs. Cobb, in company with her sister, Mrs. Mildred Lopez, went to Nashua and in an automobile went out to see Cobb. She took the baby into the car with her and had started when Cobb jumped aboard and it was agreed that the Nashua police should decide who had the right to the child. The Nashua police decided in favor of Mrs. Cobb, and she promptly bore her child with her to Cambridge.

Last week Cobb visited the Cambridge house and saw the baby. Yesterday, in the absence of Mrs. Cobb, he came, he saw, and during a moment when Mrs. Lopez left the room Cobb did likewise, taking the baby with him. A waiting automobile whirled him away just as Mrs. Cobb was coming down the street.

Last night Mrs. Cobb went to Hollis to get her baby. As Mr. Cobb keeps the only hotel in town, he is likely to have his wife for a guest. After he had reached his home he talked with a newspaperman over the telephone, and at a late hour said that Mrs. Cobb had not yet appeared.

MATRIMONIAL

Mr. Louis G. Cole of this city and Miss Grace Givard of Worcester were married yesterday morning at Notre Dame church, Worcester, in a nuptial mass celebrated at 8 o'clock by Rev. Fr. Grenier. The ceremony was performed in the presence of several hundred friends of the young couple, from Worcester, Boston, Malden, Springfield and Lowell. The bride wore a gown of white Japanese silk, with a point design, which had been worn by her grandmother on her wedding day, and which was caught with white sweetpeas. Her shawl bouquet was also of white sweetpeas. Mr. Jean G. Cole of Lowell, the bridegroom's father, was his son's attendant, and the bride was also attended by her father, Mr. Henry Givard.

After the ceremony, an informal reception was held at the home of the bride, 144 Chandler street. The guests included the relatives and intimate friends only. Among those present were: Mrs. Catherine Cole, Mrs. Jean G. Cole, Mr. Harry Cole and Miss Berthe Cole of Lowell, and Mr. Michel La Belle of Malden. At noon, Mr. and Mrs. Cole left on a bridal trip to New York. They have received many beautiful gifts, and upon their return from their trip will make their home at 90 West Sixth street, this city.

CORMIER-BOURGEOIS

Mr. Edmond Cormier and Miss Antoinette Bourgeois were married yesterday morning in the private chapel at St. Joseph's rectory where Mr. J. Ouellette, O. M. L., celebrated a nuptial mass at 7 o'clock. Messrs. Narcisse Cormier and Luc Bourgeois were the witnesses.

CONG. TIRRELL'S FUNERAL

NATICK, Aug. 2.—Definite arrangements were completed today for the funeral of Congressman Charles Q. Tirrell, who died at his home here Sunday last. The funeral will be held in the little St. Paul's Episcopal church in Natick at 2.30 p. m., and will be open to the public but the congressional delegation and various other official delegations will occupy most of the room. The Episcopal service will be used both at the church and at the grave in Bell Park cemetery, Natick.

APPOINTED A COUNCILLOR

PEKING, Aug. 2.—Wu Ting Pang, former minister of the United States, who on his retirement from the diplomatic service and return to China was thought to have been relegated permanently to private life by the new force at Peking, has now, contrary to expectation, re-entered office. He was today appointed councillor to the Chinese foreign office which recognizes the need of a man of strength and foreign experience since the dismissal by the regent of Yuan Shi-Kai.

SERIOUS CHARGE

IS MADE AGAINST FATHER OF LARGE FAMILY

WORCESTER, Aug. 2.—Henry C. Powell, aged 55, a Rutland farmer, was arraigned yesterday before Judge Esty on complaint of four of his six daughters and placed under $2000 bonds for a hearing next Monday on a serious charge. Powell lived on his Rutland farm with his wife and six children, the two girls daughters have been living in other parts of the country.

The arrest comes as the result of an investigation begun last Tuesday by Deputy Sheriff Edward M. Merrill of Holden and Constable Walter H. Pike of Paxton and the nature of their evidence is appalling according to the officers. The specific complaints against Powell are made by four of his daughters: Mrs. Ella Powell, wife of Paxton, Miss Sadie Powell, aged 13, who has been living recently in Auburn; Mrs. Ruth L. Powell, aged 17, and Miss Lilla Powell, aged 13, who have been living at home.

As the result of the story told by Ruth, Charles Robbins of Charlton, aged 24, is also under arrest and he will be in court with Powell next Monday. Powell and his wife came to live in Rutland from New York 17 years ago. They have been the parents of 11 children.

Mr. and Mrs. Aubrey Observe Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Henry F. Aubrey, residing at 146 Cheever street, celebrated the 25th anniversary of their wedding today. Relatives and friends called during the day to congratulate the couple on their many years of married life and to wish them many more years of happiness.

Mr. and Mrs. Aubrey are parishioners of the church of the Notre Dame de Lourdes, and this morning at 8 o'clock a mass was celebrated at that church. Rev. Fr. Lamotte, O. M. L., the rector, being the officiant.

This afternoon the couple kept open house and this evening the home will be open to friends.

Mr. Aubrey was born in Malone, N. Y., 47 years ago. He came to Lowell when he was only three years old, and has always lived here. He is foreman at James Murkland & Son's, belt manufacturers, where he has been employed for the past ten years.

Mrs. Aubrey's maiden name was Octavia Prince, and she was born in Canada, 14 years ago, coming here nearly 20 years ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Aubrey have four children, all of whom were born in Lowell. They are Albert, Wilfred, Olive and Leo.

RAILROAD BILL

Subject of Discussion by Attorneys

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., Aug. 2.—The railroad bill enacted by the last congress was the theme of discussion at the conference of railroad attorneys opened in this city today. Practically all of the railroad systems of the United States were represented at the conference which was called by Col. Henry Stone of the Louisville & Nashville railroad. Col. Stone in his call for the meeting stated that it was to be solely for the purpose of discussing the effect of the new railroad law on railroads engaged in interstate traffic. It was expected that the conference would last for about three days.

NIGHT EDITION

SKIP WAS CAUGHT

Accused of Taking Goods to Value of $300

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—James Boylan, known as Morro Castle, the neighborhood about First avenue and Thirty-second street, was brought up yesterday with a round turn in the devious but pleasing path he has followed since he escaped from the Parental school on Jamaica avenue, Flushing.

In the children's court Justice Wyatt found him guilty of entering the rooms of Mrs. Frieda Lang at 350 East Thirty-second street and taking goods to the amount of $300. Skip is 14. Once he earned distinction as the leader of the Morro Castle gang. Three months ago Skip was sent to the truancy school in Flushing. After two months in the school Skip ran away.

Last week a truancy officer spotted Skip on the fishing steamer Tabris. Only a quick dive overboard when the boat was off East Thirty-first street saved Skip from a second trip to Flushing.

Mrs. Frieda Lang came to this country from Budapest a little more than a week ago. Skip learned of the new lodger in his building, and probably also heard the gossip that she kept in her rooms a chest of silver.

Early Thursday afternoon while Mrs. Lang and her son were out Skip slipped up the stairs at 350 East Thirty-second street with three or four old keys. The first one he tried opened the door. Skip found the silver chest. Though its size was somewhat disappointing he thrust it under his coat. With a

STILL NO TRACE

As to Whereabouts of Margaret Harrington

As yet no trace of the missing Margaret Harrington, who abandoned her six weeks old baby in Tewksbury has been discovered by the police, and the little one is still at the Children's Home in Kirk street, where she has endeared herself to everyone connected with that worthy institution. The police are inclined to believe that the story of the mother to the effect that she only arrived in this country a few months ago is not true. They think that she has been here some time and is being cared for "under cover" by friends. "She's a lovely baby," says the enthusiastic matron of the Children's Home, and Miss O'Leary is an expert on children.

HUSKY OFFICERS

ARE WANTED ON NEW YORK POLICE FORCE

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—The municipal civil service commissioners with the assent of Mayor Gaynor have decided to lower what is known as the mental test in the examination of candidates for patrolmen. The question under this head comprise verbal examinations on abstract matters concerning the running of a city government, and particularly an examination of the candidate's knowledge of the city. Some of the tests under the last named head have included such questions as the number of parks in Brooklyn or Manhattan and the number and names of all the bridges in the greater city, which not one New Yorker in 10,000 could answer.

The purpose mainly in making the change is to induce husky men from the country to seek places on the police force. The number of applicants who have taken the examinations this year has been extremely small comparatively, and it is hoped to make up for this deficiency by attracting rural candidates for the force. It is felt by the civil service commissioners and the mayor that while these men would of course have little knowledge of the city's thoroughfares they would learn enough in the six months they would have to serve on probation to be able then to direct strangers about town.

HE LOST $100

MAN WAS TOO HASTILY A HERO

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—Francis J. Mahar, who lives at 522 72nd street, Bay Ridge, and drives a department of docks automobile, was waiting for Duck Commissioner Tomkins by the recreation pier at the foot of East 24th street yesterday afternoon, when a man leaning over the first floor railing of the pier tumbled overboard.

Mahar slipped off his coat, jumped out of the automobile and dove into the water. He got the man and swam with him to the strapping place, where Police Inspector Kirschoff threw him a rope.

The man was Andrew Blackey, 61 years old, a laborer employed in the department of charities. He was looked up on a charge of trying to commit suicide.

Mahar retreated to the city bathhouse nearby and wrung out his trousers. He discovered that he had lost $100, his month's wages, from his pockets. He said he would have to tell Commissioner Tomkins about his loss.

MAN DROPPED DEAD

He Expired Suddenly on the South Common

The dead body of an unknown man was found on a settee on one of the walks in the South common about eleven o'clock this morning. The man was passed by many persons who thought he was sleeping. He died of heart failure or apoplexy. His body is now at the Saunders undertaking establishment, in Hurd street, where it awaits identification. The man was about 50 years of age, was here.

THE PERRY A COMPLETE LOSS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—The revenue cutter Perry, one of the smallest but the oldest of the fleet of that service, ran ashore on July 26th at Tonki Point on the east side of St. Paul island and one of the Pribiloff group in the Behring sea and is a complete loss.

News of the loss of the Perry was telegraphed to the treasury department by Captain Foley, the senior officers of the Behring sea fleet. He ordered the wreck stripped and abandoned and her complement distributed to other vessels. There were no lives lost. The Perry was commanded by Captain Haake and carried fifty officers and men. The scene of the wreck is an extremely dangerous locality as a reef projects about one and a half miles off shore.

BOOKS WERE PRODUCED

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—The missing books of the United Wireless Telegraph Co. hopped into view today. A puggy-faced messenger boy came tripping into the federal building with them just before the expiration of the time limit set for their production.

"I got them up on 42nd street to deliver here," was all the explanation the boy had to offer.

The action against the company was in connection with charges that the value of stock offered for sale had been misrepresented.

CHILD KILLED

THE O. M. I. CADETS

While She Was Caring To Go to Camp for Three Days

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—Some girl friends were to visit her today so Edna Stauff of 223 West 112d street, the 13-year-old daughter of Louis Stauff, a clerk in the General Postoffice, went home from play early yesterday evening, washed all of her doll's dresses and started to hang them out to dry.

The Stauffs live in the top floor of a five-story building and the clothesline runs from the rear fire escape to a pole in the yard. To make herself a little taller Edna stood on the first round of the fire escape ladder and reached out a tiny slipper when her feet slipped, she dropped through the opening in the fire escape balcony, struck the fourth floor railing and bounced off into the air.

PILGRIM DAY

NAVY TO PLAY PROMINENT PART IN MONUMENT DEDICATION

PROVINCETOWN, Mass. Aug. 2.—Thirteen of Uncle Sam's heavyweight fighters have invaded Massachusetts Bay with five auxiliaries for the summer maneuvers and to assist President Taft in dedicating the Pilgrim monument on Aug. 5. The battleships in the bay are the flagship Connecticut, the North Carolina, Rhode Island, Mississippi, Michigan, New Hampshire, Virginia, Idaho, Louisiana, Minnesota, Kansas, Nebraska and Vermont.

Among the speakers at the dedication in addition to President Taft will be Gov. Draper, United States Senator Lodge, President Emorys Elliot of Harvard, and Congressman James T. McCreary of Minnesota.

LAW FOR MINORS

PHYSICIAN'S CERTIFICATE NECESSARY TO GET EMPLOYMENT

The law requiring all minors to present a clean bill of health before they are employed in mills and other manufacturing became operative yesterday. William F. Thornton, truancy officer, has received many blanks which require the applicant to state all facts concerning his birth and age, various data concerning his physical condition and a statement relative to his health. This is in accordance with chapter 106, section 22, of the revised laws. The applicant will receive a certificate filled out by the examining physician.

Went a Viewing

The committee on sewers met this afternoon at two o'clock and went a-viewing. The places viewed by the committee were those mentioned in petitions for sewer extensions and improvements.

The park commission will meet on Thursday night at 7.30 o'clock and the charity board will meet on Friday night at 7.30.

Band Concerts

Both band concerts this week will be on the South common, the American band playing there Thursday night and the City band on Sunday night.

The last concert of the series will be given on the North common a week from Thursday night.

WENT TO REVERE

The regular semi-weekly excursion from Lowell to Revere beach was held this morning, two special cars leaving Merrimack square at 8.15 o'clock. The trip to the beach was greatly enjoyed and upon arriving at Revere the different places of amusement along the beach were visited, after which a shore dinner was enjoyed and Waverland was "taken" in. The return trip will be made to Lowell during the early part of the evening.

ASKED FOR WATER

NEW BEDFORD, April 2.—A strange man who looked like the published pictures of Louis Restelli was seen by Mrs. Thomas Tabor in Fairhaven Sunday afternoon. He went to Mrs. Tabor's home and asked for water. The man walked with a decided limp and was in a highly nervous condition.

MAY BE CAPTURED

Officers Are Close on the Trail of Restelli

QUINCY, Aug. 2.—A small boy came running into the village of South Braintree just before noon today with the report that a man armed with two revolvers and who looked like the much wanted Louis Restelli, the Italian matricide and murderer, had held him up on Pearl street and demanded food and water. The boy said that he got him some bread and water after which the man slunk back into the bushes of Monatiquot river swamp.

A dozen officers were rushed to the scene in automobiles. Monatiquot swamp lies about two miles from the scene of Friday's shooting in South Quincy. The density of the bushes makes it a good hiding place. Pearl street which leads across the swamp to the hills looking toward South Weymouth was filled with employees of the shoe factories at the noon hour today while hundreds of people streamed up there in electric cars and automobiles to be on hand at a possible capture.

Restelli knows the country in that vicinity very well and his militia companions at Braintree frequently used it in their field operations.

Fifty policemen from the local force as well as from Milton, Braintree and the Metropolitan force surrounded the swamp by noon and began to beat through the bushes from Pearl street toward the Braintree station. Several officers were stationed at vantage points near the Braintree station and a couple of them, armed with repeating rifles, climbed trees. The beating was conducted slowly and less than a quarter of a mile had been covered in half an hour.

The boy told the police that he was looking after his father's cows in a field off Middle street when he suddenly came upon a man lying on a haystack. The man jumped up and, pulling out a big revolver, demanded food and water. The boy gave him his lunch and the man went back into the bushes and in the swamp. The description of the man was close to that of Restelli. The police think that his capture is a matter of only a few hours.

EXPLOSION OF DYNAMITE

DULUTH, Minn., Aug. 2.—Two heavy charges of dynamite were exploded at the Philadelphia & Reading Co. docks in Superior, Wis., early today. The docks were nearing completion. A steel unloading rig weighing 580 tons and costing $80,000 was thrown down and partly wrecked.

INTERSTATE BOARD

Has Instituted Proceedings Against New Haven Road

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—On its own initiative under the amended act regulating interstate commerce, the interstate commerce commission today announced it had instituted a proceeding against the New York, New Haven & Hartford R. Co., on account of that system's recent advance in commutation rates.

Scores of complaints have reached the commission of these advances, the 1 statement of the reasons and justification for the advances made.

TRYING TO END STRIKE

MONTREAL, Aug. 2.—Officials of the Grand Trunk railroad and representatives of the strikers stated today that negotiations for the settlement of the strike were progressing. Minister of Labor King and Sir Frederick Borden, the minister of militia, have returned to Ottawa to lay the matter before the Dominion cabinet later today. As the Grand Trunk and the Grand Trunk Pacific are in a measure government railroads, it is believed that the government has some rights in the premises.

THIRTY CARS BURNED

WINNIPEG, Man., Aug. 2.—Following a clash with the Canadian Northern Railway's police at the company's shops here where 500 carmen are on a strike, a mob of strikers stoned the enclosure of the shops where strike-breakers hoard. No one was reported hurt but in another part of the yard thirty cars were burned. Several arrests have been made.

THE MILK MEN JAIL SENTENCE

Ask Injunction Against the Boston & Maine Road

BOSTON, Aug. 2.—Judge Hitchcock in the equity session of the superior court yesterday heard arguments on a bill brought by the Boston dairy company and H. P. Hood & Sons, milk contractors, against the Boston & Maine railroad company, seeking an injunction to restrain the defendant from putting into effect its new tariff of freight rates on the shipment of milk from points in the state to this city.

The new schedule became operative yesterday and the milk contractors tried to have a temporary injunction granted to prevent the new rates from being enforced, but the hearing was not finished at the hour of adjournment, so the schedule became operative. The court will resume the hearing today, however.

The milk contractors want the railroad company to adhere to the old rate system, by which they had transportation of milk at a much smaller cost than they will have under the new schedule.

The action arose from a conflicting construction of the new Saunders bill passed by the last legislature after the milk investigation by the railroad and the contractors. While the old rate was fixed by the car, the new one is by the can and is the same to everybody using the road for the shipment of milk. It is a flat rate, the wholesale dealers having to pay as much per can as the small shipper.

Contention of Contractors
It is the contention of the contractors that the railroad has misconstrued the Saunders act. They contend the law contemplated the continued existence of the whole car rate or leased car system, so called, which the contractors had and, but imposed on the road the additional requirement of shipping small quantities for the independent dealers and farmers at a rate absolutely proportionate per can to the rate charged to the milk contractors and large shippers for a whole car.

The road maintains that the milk contractors are in error in their interpretation of the act, and that the statute intends that a flat rate shall be fixed for everybody, so that no contractor or contractors shall have the power to control the milk situation. It contends that if the contractors are to have a monopoly of the milk business they must get it by business skill and not through advantages or benefits arising from arrangements with the road.

W. H. O'Connell, counsel for the road, asserted that the railroad commission and the attorney general uphold this view of the law and did not even recommend a suspension of the new tariff rate. He said the road felt the law was a command from the legislature.

ture to fix the rate on a basis that will afford equal opportunity to everybody, regardless of the quantities of milk he ships.

Claims Cost is Greater
The Boston dairy company claims that under the car rate the cost was about $100 a mile a year per car, while under the new system the rate is greatly increased, being about 4 cents per can on hauls of within 40 miles of Boston, while under the old system it was about 1 1/2 cents a can.

It further contends that the leased car system gave it the power to control and handle its milk in transit because it had its own caretakers, but the railroad denied this claim. The road said it furnished caretakers and paid for them.

In hiring a car at the whole-car rate the milk contractor guaranteed the road a certain return on the car and the car was stopped at stations along the line for the collection of milk. The small shippers put their milk on one of these cars, which were furnished with facilities for preserving and caring for the milk. The amount paid for the transportation by the small shipper was to the milk contractor who paid the railroad company for the full price of the car.

This situation was what the legislature wanted to wipe out by the Saunders act, according to Attorney O'Connell. He said the legislature wanted the railroad to apply itself to the business of transporting milk and the defendant is ready to do this and intends to do it by the new system it has adopted. The caretakers were employees of the road, paid by the road, and the road could handle properly and attend to the care of the milk left for shipment.

He said the rates charged were less than those in force in Chicago and New York.

BRIDE ELOPED

And Was Sent to the State Farm

PORTLAND, Me., Aug. 2.—William R. Sullivan and Miss Rosa Edna Alley went to Portsmouth Saturday in an automobile and were married there, and yesterday Mrs. Sullivan, who is only 18, was arrested by Harry H. Canell, a civil deputy on the staff of Sheriff Trefethen, at the request of Miss Gertrude L. Macdonald, principal of the state industrial school for girls at Hallowell. The young woman was taken to the institution on the noon train.

She was sent to the industrial school from Dedham, in Hancock county, six years ago. She was allowed to leave in parole 15 months ago and was housemaid for Howard H. Jordan, in New Gloucester. There Mr. Sullivan, who is a plumber 40 years old, saw and fell in love with her.

Their elopement in an automobile led to a search for them by the police department. They were found by Sergeant Cady in Falmouth. Andrew Hawes, a trustee of the home for girls, was consulted and went with Deputy Canell to the house of a sister of Mrs. Sullivan, where she was arrested.

GILBERT ACCUSED

Girl Is Charged With Stealing Jewelry

BOSTON, Aug. 2.—Louise Jones, 17 years old, accused of the larceny of jewelry valued at $2777 from the Bentley Jewelry company, pleaded not guilty in the superior court yesterday and was held for trial later in the week. Bail was fixed at $8000. She was sent to jail.

The alleged crime was committed on April 18. H. W. Fiedler, a salesman for the jewelry firm, went to the home of the girl's mother, Mrs. Mary Carter, 124 Pembroke street. He left his bag containing the jewelry in one room while he talked with Mrs. Carter in another room. When he returned to the room in which he left his bag he could not find it.

The police were notified and they arrested Louise Jones. When her case was called in the municipal court she did not appear and was defaulted. A few days ago she returned and gave herself up.

PRESIDENT TAFT

ORIGINAL MEMBER OF THE CONSERVATION MOVEMENT

ST. PAUL, Minn., Aug. 2.—An interesting light on President William H. Taft's connection with the conservation movement develops in the fact that the records of the National Conservation association show that he is the original member, having joined before President Gifford Pinchot took office, while the venerable President Charles Gifford Pinchot was at his head. He has continuously maintained his membership and in point of duration of his relation to the association, is a pioneer. Officers of the association feel that this connection will serve to persuade the president to make usual membership arrangements his time as to be present in St. Paul during the coming congress and in the northwest there is especial interest in the prospect of an address from the first member and one of the original conservationists.

Commenting upon the slight confusion of some of the delegates already appointed as to the fields of work of the conservation association and the conservation congress, Secretary Shippey of the association, who is also executive secretary of the congress, said:

"The association is a permanent organization, having a membership of nearly 50,000 scattered through all of the different states. Gifford Pinchot, former chief forester, is its official head. It is organized along lines similar to those of most general associations and deals with conservation questions in their broadest sense, as they affect the states, although purely state questions are within the purview of the various state commissions."

"The conservation congress is differently organized, having a membership of only a few delegates attending, but no permanent or fixed members. Its sessions are arranged by an executive committee representing the association and the congress and its annual sessions are open to all who come, irrespective of membership in the national association. The two organizations are separate and distinct, the congress being an annual meeting of men interested in conservation and the association being an organization of men who are members and maintain a permanent relationship. At the head of the congress is President Bernard C. Baker. The conservation movement, therefore, has two official heads, President Pinchot of the association and President Baker of the congress, each fulfilling separate and distinct duties."

The local board of managers is laying plans for an attendance of 15,000 delegates at the five-day September conference. So great is the flood of acceptances from the invitations issued a month ago that plans are already being laid to entertain one of the largest assemblages either St. Paul or Minneapolis has ever seen. Committees have been organized in advance for suitable hotel accommodations and information bureaus and other special facilities will be provided in anticipation of an attendance which will fill the two cities to overflowing.

TRIPLETS BORN

ELEVENTH SET THAT ARRIVED IN PROVIDENCE IN A YEAR

PROVIDENCE, Aug. 2.—Triplets were born to Mr. and Mrs. Walter W. Cary of 323 Cass street, and all placed on one scale weighed less than 11 pounds. There are two girls and a boy, the stork first arriving with the son, who weighs 3 pounds 9 1/2 ounces. One daughter weighs 3 pounds 7 1/2 ounces and her little sister just 3 pounds and 5/8 of an ounce.

They were born at the Providence lying-in hospital, the mother being covered there only a few hours before the births. It was the 11th set of triplets born in Providence within a year, and the fourth set to be born at the lying-in hospital in that period.

The hospital announced yesterday that it had contracted for a new addition to cost $20,000 and that 50 rooms are to be added.

WAGE INCREASE

FOR EMPLOYEES OF INTERNATIONAL PAPER COMPANY

FRANKLIN, N. H., Aug. 2.—The wages of thousands of paper mill workers in New Hampshire, New York state, Vermont, Maine and Massachusetts were advanced an average of 5 per cent yesterday by the International Paper company.

The raise was one of the conditions of the agreement which ended the protracted strike in several states last spring.

Since the settlement of the trouble the Winnipeg mills of this city have been running to their capacity. Strikers who desired to return to work have been given positions, and everything seems to be harmonious. All future differences between the company and employees will be submitted to arbitration.

Mother Says He Encouraged Her Boy to Fight

HAVERHILL, Aug. 2.—Albert Gilbert pleaded not guilty in the district court yesterday to a charge of promoting a boxing bout and the case was continued until next Monday for a hearing. Two boys, Leon Debelois and Ernest Meteyer, are the ones who it is alleged figured in the bout, the mother of Meteyer having informed the police that Gilbert offered the boys 25 cents to fight to a finish.

Gilbert, it is alleged, acted as referee, but Patrolman Radcliffe called the bout off just a few minutes before the final curtain had been rung. The police records show that he swooped down upon a building on Arch avenue in which the event is declared to have taken place, and gathering principals and the accused promoter he signaled for the police wagon. All were rushed to police headquarters, where it was found that young Meteyer was suffering from a blow on the nose.

After an examination by physicians he was rushed to the City hospital, and an operation performed. According to the attendants at that institution Meteyer will wear a deformed nose for life. A slight operation was performed, but it was not possible, so the nurses say, to completely mend the wound made by the blow alleged to have been administered by Debelois.

The police yesterday morning were not ready to put on any evidence, as young Meteyer was indisposed and by mutual consent the case was put on the calendar for trial Monday morning, Aug. 8. Young Meteyer was sent to the hospital Saturday after the bout. He was released yesterday morning. Later developments, however, showed him to be in bad condition and he was returned to the institution.

"WILD MAN" CAUGHT

Arthur Swain is Back in the Laconia Jail

FRANKLIN, N. H., Aug. 2.—In the capture of Arthur Swain at Sanborn yesterday, a "wild man" who has been spreading terror through the neighborhood for months has been apprehended. Swain is about 40 years old and lives in Meredith. He is mildly insane.

Three years ago he escaped from the Belknap county house of correction at Laconia and since that time he has been wandering around in this section. He was confined at Laconia because of his insanity.

Last winter for two months he worked at the Sanborn farm of Charles O. Good, but suddenly he disappeared. All this spring and summer he has lived in the woods. He has kept alive by drinking milk and eating berries. Some nights he has slept in barns, but most of the time he has been in the woods and pastures. He has obtained milk by milking the cows in the pastures and has picked berries enough to keep him from starving. He has kept out of sight most of the time.

William Sanville, who is employed at the farm of Mrs. Ellen Mason, was at work upon a fence Sunday afternoon, when he caught sight of the man and recognized him as Swain. Swain started to run for the woods. Sanville called him gently by name and he stopped. Assured that no harm would come to him he was enticed to the Mason home. He remained there during the night.

Yesterday morning Selection F. H. Hunkins and E. W. Lane of Sanborn went to Mrs. Mason's house by automobile and Swain was taken to Laconia and recommitted.

A LAWN PARTY SEVERAL INJURED

To be Held by Immaculate Conception Parish

A well attended meeting of the men of the Immaculate Conception parish was held last night at the Y. M. C. I. building in St. Joseph street, for the purpose of making plans for a lawn party which is to be held in the near future.

There were about four hundred present when Rev. George T. Nolan called the gathering to order and all expressed a willingness to work hard and make this coming affair even better than the recent one given by the Y. M. C. I.

The festival will take place at Columbus park. Charles Keweenaw was chosen chairman and Walter King secretary of the meetings on arrangements. The following committees were elected for the festival:

Board of governors, Thomas P. Beane, Patrick Farrell, John Welch; advertising, George P. O'Meara, Bartholomew Early; entertainment committee, John X. Payne, Frank McCarran, Joseph McCaffrey, John J. Quinn, Fred McSorley; decorating committee, Frank McCormick, Michael O'Keefe, James H. Flood, John J. Sullivan, Terence Cox; music committee, Thomas Lawler, William Rowlinson, Fr. O'Brien, O. M. L.

CAPT. DUNN DEAD

THOMASTON, Me., Aug. 2.—Captain Dunn, 56, died here this morning after a long illness. He was a well known mariner along the Atlantic coast and had commanded many fine vessels including the Minnie W. Walter, Carrie Walker, James Young and Effie Simmons. He leaves a widow and son.

CLOTHES STOLEN

BIDDEFORD MAN HAS AN EXPERIENCE IN BOSTON

BOSTON, Aug. 2.—George F. Mead, who up to yesterday lived in a room at 247 Shawmut avenue, changed his abode yesterday and for two months his home address will be the house of correction, Deer Island.

According to Special Officer Irwin of division 5, John H. Sullivan of Biddeford, Me., came to Boston a few days ago to see the sights and met Mead. Mead had evidently at one time visited Biddeford, for he conversed intelligently about the town, and that was enough for Sullivan to believe him a friend.

That they might be together, Sullivan was invited to spend Sunday at Mead's room at 247 Shawmut avenue. They did, or at least Sullivan did, but when he awoke early yesterday morning he was alone and he found that his new $40 suit of clothes, underclothing, shoes, stockings, collar and necktie were missing, as well as a $35 watch and $30 in money.

Left without sufficient clothing to venture upon the street without running the risk of being arrested, Sullivan was in a quandary, but other lodgers in the house collected enough wearing apparel to allow the Maine man to go to station 5 and make a complaint. Special Officer Irwin came across Mead and he looked red jauntily in Sullivan's clothes.

THE TARIFF BOARD

Preparing to Take Up Lumber, Hides and Leather

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—The tariff board will meet next month in Washington and take up actively as a body the work of investigating the cost of production here and abroad.

Chairman Emery will come down from Maine, where he is at present working on the data he obtained in Europe.

B. Reynolds and N. I. Stone, statisticians of the board, will return from Europe, where they are looking into the textile industries and European tariff statistical methods. Mr. Sanders, the third member, will come from Chicago, where he is engaged in preliminary work in connection with the woolen industry.

Besides its announced investigations of the woolen, cotton, metal and chemical industries, by the results of which the board is said to be willing to stand or fall as a valuable government agency, the board is preparing to inquire into lumber and hides and leather.

An expert has been employed to study present conditions of imports and exports of hides and leather with a view to ascertaining what effect the tariff law has had upon the trade.

In investigating conditions in the lumber industry, an expert will be made to ascertain the cost of production in the United States and Canada, which is regarded as the only competing country.

Agents will be assigned to gather the facts about the several geographical sections from which various kinds of lumber are produced, such as the New England region, the southern yellow pine section, the Appalachian hardwood region, the northern states producing white pine, and the far west, where red wood, fir and other varieties of lumber are produced in large quantities.

In investigating each industry the board will divide its inquiry into five branches: Technical, financial, trade, labor and statistical.

Each division will be carried on by men engaged especially for their capacity in that character of work.

The labor end of the inquiry will be especially important, in view of the contention of the protectionists that the laboring man is the chief beneficiary of the tariff system.

C. W. A. Veditz, an ex-professor at Yale, will probably have entire charge of the investigation of labor conditions in all industries. It is expected that the tariff board will employ a large number of agents to carry on the field work.

Little has been done so far except preliminary work. The board has entered into negotiations with recognized experts in the cotton industry with a view to securing their services to investigate the cost of producing in that business.

Most important, of course, is the attitude of the men engaged in the industries toward their investigation. In this connection it is stated that the U. S. Steel corporation has promised the fullest co-operation.

Numerous concerns in the chemical industry have done likewise. The wool growers are being sounded.

The attitude of men engaged in the hide and leather business, lumber industry and in cotton and woolen manufacturing is unknown to treasury officials now in Washington.

The success of the board's investigations will depend in large measure upon co-operation of manufacturers and producers, as the board has no authority to compel anybody to furnish it information.

K. OF C. PARTY

HAD A MOST ENJOYABLE TIME IN MONTREAL

MONTREAL, Que., Aug. 2.—The Massachusetts delegation to the Knights of Columbus convention, which opens at Quebec today, arrived here yesterday morning. Among the first to greet the party on its arrival were Mr. and Mrs. John T. Simpson of Boston and Mr. and Mrs. George C. Shields of Mansfield, who arrived Sunday. The Bostonians received considerable attention and at every turn one met scores of New Englanders.

The party that left Boston Friday morning also arrived here yesterday morning, coming by way of Niagara Falls and the Thousand Islands.

Yesterday forenoon carriages driven were taken about the city and visits paid to churches. Yesterday afternoon a trip through the Lachine Rapids was enjoyed. A party of 31 from Connecticut, together with the Rhode Island and Vermont delegations, joined those from the Bay state yesterday and the entire party of nearly 150 left at seven last night by boat for Quebec.

SEVERAL REQUESTS

MADE TO MEMBERS OF SUNDAY SCHOOL CLASS

BOSTON, Aug. 2.—The will of Franklin S. Williams, filed in the probate office yesterday, contains a bequest of $1000 to the Grove Hall Universalist church, and $50 each to the following members of the testator's Sunday school class: Misses Letitia B. Holway, Resina F. Holway, Florence M. Jones, P. Ethel Rexford, Edith Wilkinson and Leonard Sanborn.

Under the will of Sarah E. Tufts, filed in the probate office yesterday, these bequests were made: $5000 each to the woman's board of mission and the Women's Home Missionary association, and $1000 to the Boston Y. M. C. A.

Pitcher Whittredge Did Things With Brockton

BROCKTON, Aug. 2.—Whittredge's pitching, backed up by errorless fielding, enabled Lowell to shut out Brockton here yesterday, 4 to 0. Two star double plays by the visitors checked possible Brockton rallies and the Lowell men hit Sweeney at opportune times. The score:

DIAMOND NOTES

at Brockton again today.

Double-header at Spalding Park tomorrow. First game at 2 o'clock.

Three hits and no runs off Al Whittredge was pretty good.

Poor old Haverhill as usual made more hits than the opponents and less runs.

Captain Terry has fallen off in his hitting, but is having a bit of hard luck. Jake Boutens robbed him of a single yesterday by grabbing a hot one back of third. If Terry could run as fast with his legs as he does with his head he would beat out a lot of infield hits—Brockton Times.

If the team returns ousted from the leading position the welcome should be all the warmer. Show the boys that their efforts are appreciated, and it will not be long before they are back where they belong—at the top—New Bedford Times.

Cheer up, brother, it may not be so. At Worcester yesterday Burkett was chased from the field by Umpire Rorty, which makes 27 chases this season for Jesse.

Speaking of being chased from the grounds, all umpires agree that Lowe has the quietest and most gentlemanly bunch on the field to be found in the league.

And now Fall River is going out after the pennant. More power to you Jaws! That you may land it.

President Murphy of the Cubs has announced a deal whereby Utility First baseman Fred Luderus, who came from Freeport, Ill., last fall, will become a member of Charlie Doin's Phillies in exchange for Bill Foxen, a southpaw pitcher, one time of the New England League. The trade is said to be at even, as, age the change will be made when the Cubs land in the eastern circuit. Luderus has been heralded as the man who would let the peerless one out of the actual fray of battle next year, or some year pretty soon, but since Arlie Hoffman played the bag nine innings without getting a putout, Chance has apparently changed his mind.

The baseball pool making, which has sprung up all over the country the past couple of seasons, has received a severe setback in Providence, R. I., where an arrest was made recently of one of the promoters, and yesterday the defendant was fined $100 on each of two counts. John Enos, a barber, who was arrested for selling the pools, appealed from the decision and was held in $1000 bonds. It was the first conviction in the crusade of the Providence police against lottery. Pools are operated on large or smaller scale in nearly every city in the east, the number of small ones being almost countless, and a general crusade against them is likely to start.

There is one player in the country who would rather stick to his position and play independent ball than shine in the glare of the big league calcium, and he is Joe Harter, formerly of Lawrence. Today Joe is playing with a brewery team in Newark, New Jersey, while he might be killing an outfield hero for the Boston Nationals.

But he is satisfied that his position in the brewery team will in time bring him back more money than he could make by giving up his work and playing in the big leagues.

Most of these sales carry the right of re-purchase of other players.

PLAYED A TIE

Lowell and Lawrence Rail- way men go 12 innings

The street railway men of the Lowell and Lawrence divisions played a hot game of ball at Glen Forest yesterday afternoon and the game resulted in a 12 inning tie with the score 5 to 5. Pitcher Riley of Lowell was the star of the occasion for he not only pitched a beautiful game but he made a home run that tied the score in the eighth. The teams lined up were:

Lowell
Tonney, c; Riley, p; Nichols, 1b; St. Leger, ss; Hamer, 2b; Pope, 3b; McKenzie, cf; Kelley, rf; W. Hickey, mgr.
Lawrence
c, Roland; Higgins, 1b; Curllife, ss; Gibbons, 2b; Glass, 3b; Hamer, 2b; McKenzie, cf; Kelley, rf; W. Hickey, mgr.

The strong Graniteville team defeated the Pawtucket Blues by a score of 8 to 4.

Following is the lineup and score by innings:
Graniteville—Hanson 3b, Buckingham cf, Hughes ss, Gilson 2b, Hemen 1b, Deefe lf, Healy rf, Ledwith c, McCarty p.
Pawtucket—Blues—Leggett ss, C. Mason p, Osbourn lf, Sheehan 2b, Silcox 2b, R. Mason 1b, Armstrong cf, Chouinard rf, Payette c, Burke c.

Paw. Blues . . . 0 0 0 0 2 0 0 0—4 6

Two base hit—R. Mason, Gilson, Ledwith. Struck out—by Mason 2, by McCarty 6. Base on balls—off McCarthy 4, off Mason 3. Umpires—Hartford and Allard. Time—2 hours.

Next Saturday Graniteville will play the North Chelmsford club at Nabnasset grove.

There will be a meeting of the Lowell and Suburban league tonight at the Y. M. C. A. rooms and the presence of each manager is requested. The regular league schedule ends on Saturday, Aug. 6, and as there are a number of postponed games yet to be played it is necessary to make up a schedule for these games. This matter will be attended to at the meeting tonight.

There will be a meeting of the officers and managers of the Stony Brook league on Thursday evening at North Chelmsford.

The O. M. I. Cadet Jrs. will meet this evening at 8.

The Chelmsford baseball team would like to arrange games for Saturdays for the month of August. Would like to hear from any strong amateur team wishing games for the next few Saturdays. J. P. Sullivan, Box 36, South Chelmsford, Mass.

The Pelham Juniors would like to challenge any 17 year old team. They want a game at Doyle park, Pelham Centre, for Saturday, Aug. 6. Address Asbury Small, manager, Pelham, N. H.

WANT THE MASSACHUSETTS
NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 2.—Local physicians will endeavor to buy the crack racer Massachusetts. Following the races at Pass Christian Saturday, a movement was started to form a syndicate to secure this yacht, which last week successfully defended the Southern cup against the Canadians.

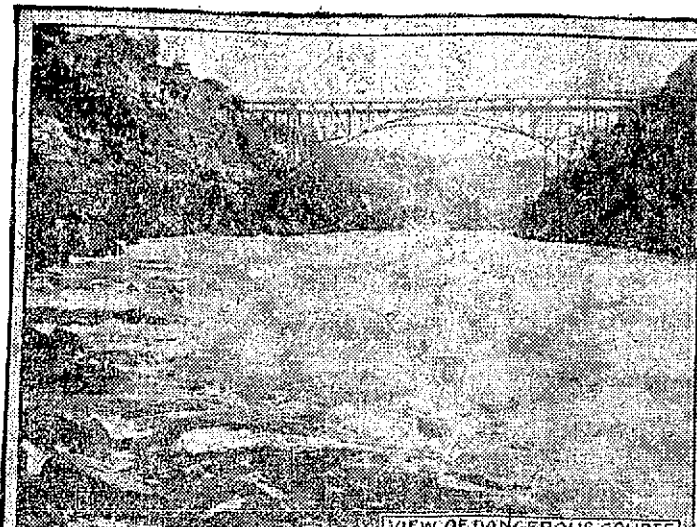

The syndicate is headed by the well-known young local capitalist and yacht- ing enthusiast, W. H. Oliver, Jr. The proposition is to buy the Massachusetts, if possible, and bring her to New Orleans to sail against Capt. Edward H. Reed's champion Seawanhaka, which, as the Manchester II, was the first American boat to wrest the coveted Seawanhaka trophy from the Canadians a few years ago.

No performance of the Massachusetts in a whistling breeze are of record, and for that reason it is not known how her speed compares with that of her predecessor.

If the southern yachtmen cannot purchase the Massachusetts, they may have R. A. Boardman, the designer, build a duplicate of her for them.

Miss Margaret Ryan of 31 Westford street is visiting at the home of her aunt, Mrs. Daniel Foye, of Lawrence, Mass.

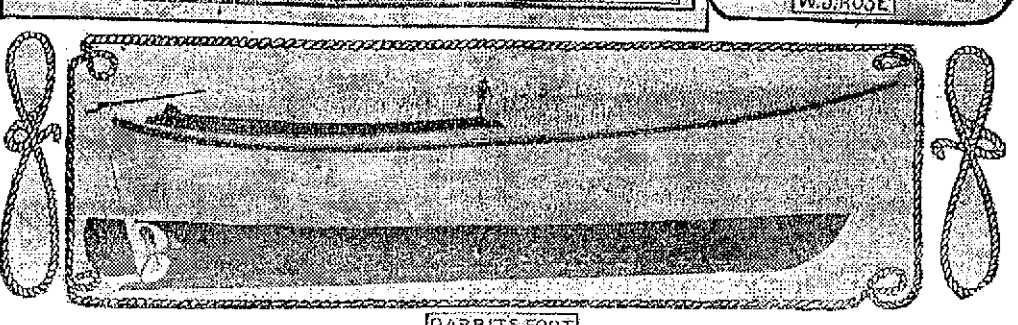

MAN WHO WILL ATTEMPT TO SHOOT TREACHEROUS RAPIDS OF NIAGARA

RABBIT'S FOOT

BUFFALO, Aug. 2.—Despite the known and almost certain chances of disaster awaiting the man who ventures himself in or out of a boat, on Niagara's current, several have signified their intention of attempting the feat on Sept. 17. Among those who will attempt to ride the treacherous and turbulent rapids in a specially constructed motor boat is W. J. Rose of Detroit, Mich. Rose has had an excellent marine training and has shot a number of rapids throughout the country. He recently stated that he would accomplish the feat of crossing Niagara in a motor boat. The Rabbit's Foot, the boat in which he will attempt his forthcoming trip, is 21 feet long and is driven by a 20 horsepower engine. The boat is not fitted with air chambers or other non-sinkable apparatus, as Rose thinks his knowledge of navigation will enable him to guide the boat over the dangerous route without turning over. The journey will begin at the foot of the falls and end at Lewiston, a distance of six miles, and he expects to negotiate the distance in ten minutes. This feat has been successfully accomplished a number of times in barrels and boats, and one or two more of the daring have swam it with the aid of life preservers, but it has more often resulted in the death of the would-be conqueror. One thousand dollars in cash and a medal worth $500 will go to the man who accomplishes the feat.

FIFTEEN STARTERS

There Was a Big Field in the Races In Providence

PROVIDENCE, Aug. 2.—Big fields and close finishes were the order of the day at the opening races at Hills Grove yesterday afternoon. Inches only separated the leaders in some of the heats, and the large fields stuck well together in each event, furnishing splendid sport for the 1500 spectators who witnessed the racing. All records for large fields in this state were broken yesterday, when 15 started in the 2.16 pace and 14 were given the word in the 2.25 trot. Never in light harness horse racing in Rhode Island have two fields as large as these started on the same day.

Both of the above races were decided in straight heats and both were won by the favorites. Bert Nuthurst, who won a $1000 stake at the last meeting held at Hills Grove, won his second prize of that amount when he flashed under the wire first in all three heats in the 2.16 pace.

The third heat was stepped in 2.12 1/4, the fastest time of the day. This makes Bert Nuthurst's fourth victory this season in the four times he has been started. He was a big favorite and heavily played.

Baron Ward King was picked to win the 2.25 trot and he made good by leading off three straight wins. Nothing in the large field could touch the big bay and he won as he pleased. Tubilline tried hard in each heat and landed second money. Ima Grey, a local mare, annexed third money and would have done better but for frequent breaks.

The only extra heat race was the 2.15 trot, won by Lellaron Buckner in four heats. Doctor B, an added starter, capped the first heat, but Lellaron Buckner won the next three and the race handsly. Doctor B was favorite at the start of the race, but the talent shifted to Lellaron Buckner after the second heat. Alice Victor, because of previous "clever" performances, was fancied by some, but she finished last in the three last heats.

It was learned here yesterday that a former Grand circuit star, Gallagher, 2.63 1/4, has been sold by Victor M. Adams and J. O. Reay, members of the Metropolitan Driving club of Boston, who will use him for matinee racing in and around that city.

Gallagher has been competing in the free-for-all races at Hills Grove, Woonsocket and Narragansett park, but met with indifferent success and it was plain to be seen he was not up to his form of a year ago. He will make a splendid matinee horse, however, and is expected to make the regulars at the Boston speedways step some. The sale created much discussion at the track yesterday afternoon. The summary:

DRIVEN FROM CITY

WORCESTER, Aug. 2.—William Hardy, the blind musician who has become a familiar figure on Front and Main streets, was arrested in Central District court yesterday charged with being a vagrant. He pleaded not guilty and his case was placed on file with the understanding that he leave the city. Chief David A. Matthews testified that Hardy had been in the habit of sitting in front of churches Sundays and begging.

HELD IN $15,000

Lawrence Man is Charged With Attempted Murder

LAWRENCE, Aug. 2.—Carmello Cascone, aged 21, of 35 Park street, while enroute to her work in the Arlington mills at 6.30 o'clock yesterday morning, was slashed several times across the face and throat by Antonio Colleta, aged 30, of Chestnut street, whose love advances and offers of marriage Carmello spurned. Antonio attempted to escape but hundreds of mill workers who saw the cut-up gave chase and captured him. In the fight he threw away a razor and a fully loaded 32 calibre revolver. In police court today he pleaded not guilty to attempted murder and was held in $15,000 bonds for trial in ten days. The woman will doubtless die. She was to be married next month to a rival of Colleta.

ISLAND POND FARMER

Well Known Summer Boarding House Proprietor Missing

James Hueston, a farmer of Windham, N. H., who for many years has lived on the shore of Island pond, has been missing from his home since Friday and it is feared that he has met his death in the deep waters of the pond.

Last Friday Hueston was seen to put out from the shore in his motor boat in which he is wont to cruise about the pond much of the time. Since that time he has not been seen either at his home or at any of his accustomed haunts and a feeling of great unrest has gradually arisen as to his probable fate.

A party of Lawrence people spending Sunday at the pond discovered the missing motor boat drifting on the calm surface of the pond. In it were found Hueston's spectacles and pipe and several small articles belonging to him but no trace of the man himself.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Aug. 2.—Here is a chance for a poor girl, not too old and not too young, of any religion and almost of any white race, who need not be good looking, to find a loving and good looking husband and a cozy home well provided for. The young man has an assured position, steel blue eyes, is an athlete, well set up and is 30 years old. He asks the aid of the newspapers to help him find a wife.

His name is George Bristol, and he lives on the outskirts of Bridgeport. Letters can be addressed to him at the general delivery in that city as he doesn't want a line formed in the street in front of his house.

"When I was 15 my father died," he said yesterday. "I worked with all my might and kept the roof over the head of my mother and brothers, aged 7 and 9. Three years later, when mother died, my married sisters and other relatives took the children and the furniture away while I was off at work."

"But I hired rooms, fitted them up, sent for the little chaps and took care of them till they were big enough to care for themselves. Now I want a cheerful home of my own."

"From what experience I have I know that poor girls have more heart, are more appreciative of a good home and make better wives. Rich girls are vain and do not know how to run a house. Every man ought to marry. Home is the place for women and I hate to see girls working in a shop."

"Beauty is only skin deep. If my wife had money I should feel I was in her debt. My wife must be between the ages of 20 and 30. She may be a widow if she has not more than one child."

EX-GOV. GUILD

IS NOT A CANDIDATE FOR CONGRESS

BOSTON, Aug. 2.—Former Gov. Guild is not a candidate for congress from the 11th district, notwithstanding persistent rumors to the contrary. Reported conferences of ward committee chairmen, resulting in agreements that he is the most available man to run against Congressman Peters, count as nothing with the former governor as far as changing his mind.

In 1888 I was asked to become a candidate for the republican nomination for congress in the district in which I live," said Mr. Guild yesterday. "I explained at that time that, though deeply appreciating the kindness of my fellow-citizens, it was impossible for me even to consider such action. It is, I repeat to say, entirely impossible."

"The 11th congressional district is peculiarly rich in men of strength and ability, and the securing of a candidate of such a character by the republican party ought not to be a difficult task."

AMERICAN ROAD IN HAITI
PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti, Aug. 2.—The senate has ratified the railroad and plantation contracts submitted by an American syndicate, of which James P. McDonald of New York is the head.

The railroad concession permits the construction of a railroad in Haiti and an interest in the banana trade and other fruit interests. The contracts provide for extension and consolidation of concessions previously granted to the National Railroad company of Haiti. The company will issue bonds, the interest and principal of which will be guaranteed by the republic of Haiti.

The railroad will connect the interior of the country with four seaports, and will run through the Artibonite river valley. The syndicate secures all unoccupied lands for 12 miles on both sides of the railroad. It is intended to establish a central sugar refinery. The concession gives the syndicate the right to run a line of steamboats to foreign ports.

Work on the road, it is said, will begin within two months.

Vacation Notice!

Dr. Charles E. Snyder, 38-10 Middlesex street, Glidden building, will close his office during his absence. Patients needing immediate work are requested to call at Dr. David D. Snyder's, 113 Merrimack st.

NOTICE!

Members of the Holy Name society of the Immaculate Conception church are earnestly requested to meet in the Immaculate Conception school hall, Tuesday evening, Aug. 2, at 7.30 o'clock, to take action on the death of our late brother, Patrick McCarthy.

A POLITICAL WAR BROKE OUT

Tarrytown Women Engaged in a Bitter Fight

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—The recent meetings held at Tarrytown, N. Y., in the interest of woman's suffrage under the auspices of the Hudson River Equal Rights association, at the homes of Mrs. Roswell Skeel, Mrs. Charles J. Gould, Mrs. Henry Villard and others, has borne fruit. A large number of prominent women in Tarrytown intend to exercise their rights at the annual school meeting to be held in the Washington Irving high school tonight.

The election promises to be the hottest in the history of the district, for the women have not only named a ticket in opposition to the regular board, but are making a house to house canvass soliciting votes. Tickets have been printed and are being distributed where they will do the most good.

In addition, the women have come out with a letter which reads as follows:

"On Tuesday evening, Aug. 2, the annual school meeting for the election of school trustees and transaction of other business will be held in this village at the W. I. H. S. at 8 o'clock.

FETE CHAMPETRE

TO BE HELD BY PEOPLE OF ST. LOUIS PARISH

On Aug. 24 and 25 the people of St. Louis parish will hold a grand fete champetre on the vacant lot surrounding the church, and it promises to be the most elaborate affair of its kind held in Lowell this season. A feature of the evening will be a vaudeville entertainment with professional talent from out of town. Rev. Abbe Porter is in charge of the arrangements and he has a hussling committee with him.

Dancing at Willow Dale

All old time music to be played every Wednesday night at Breezy Point, such as Annie Bonney, Two Little Girls in Blue, Dixie's Dream, Sweet Home, etc. Music by Hubbard's orchestra. Songs to be sung by Jack Manchester.

WAR BROKE OUT

Between the Hackmen and Chauffeurs

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—Warfare again broke out in Hoboken yesterday between public hackmen and A. Philip Hexamer, the Hudson street livery stable proprietor who has the exclusive hawking privileges at the steamship piers under contract with the various steamship companies. The hackmen have long resented the action of the companies in refusing to permit them to drive their vehicles within the private enclosures outside the piers in order to canvass for fares and on several occasions they have made strenuous kicks.

Many ocean travelers greatly prefer an automobile ride to a coach ride to their homes or hotels on their arrival from abroad, and Hexamer has an arrangement with the New York Taxicab company to furnish him with all the red buzz wagons he needs when ships come in. Yesterday nine taxis were sent to the Holland-America Line pier to meet the demand, and the Hoboken hackmen decided that it was time for action.

James Blanchfield, Edward Maherly and Edward Tetius, who have been having a hard time trying to compete with Hexamer, complained to the police that the taxicab chauffeurs were hawking without a license, and Herbert Anderson of 1735 Lexington avenue, Manhattan; James O'Keefe of 352 West 124th street, Manhattan, and Harry Gerken of 1355 Putnam avenue, Brooklyn, were arrested.

The chauffeurs were directed to drive around to police headquarters and Anderson's and Gerken's fares went with them. O'Keefe had no passengers. Anderson's fare was a sick woman, who complained of the inconvenience and distress of being held up in front of a police station pending the settlement of the case, and Recorder McGovern paroled the chauffeur until he had a chance to take the woman to the Pennsylvania railroad station in Jersey City. Then he returned to Hoboken for an examination in the recorder's court.

John Purcell of 604 West 148th street, Manhattan, who said he had telephoned to the office of the New York Taxicab company for a taxi to meet Mrs. King and Miss King at the steamship pier, was also indicted because Chauffeur Gerken was unable to take the women directly to their destination.

Recorder McGovern fined the three chauffeurs $10 each, and all paid under protest. Hexamer denounced the arrest of the men as an outrage and said he would test the case in the upper courts. He held that the taxicab men had a right to do business under his direction in Hoboken without molestation.

TWO RESCUED

TAKEN FROM SURF AT CONEY ISLAND

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—Coney Island saw two rescues of persons caught in the unusually heavy undertow that made bathing dangerous yesterday. Lena Grossman of 641 Sackman street, Brooklyn, went beyond her depth in front of Balmer's bathing place at the foot of West street, and when she seized with cramps, Thomas Riley, a life guard, got her back to the beach. He and Dr. O. Pensky of the Coney Island hospital worked over her for an hour and restored her to consciousness. She was taken to the hospital and it was said there that she will have to remain for at least two days.

The other rescue was that of William Coker of 34 Attorney street, who was dragged out of the surf by James Miller, a member of the United States Volunteer Life Saving Corps. Miller answered Coker's call for help when the latter was about 350 feet from shore. Coker is a large man and Miller weighs only about 120 pounds. As soon as the life saver got to him Coker grabbed him around the neck and a struggle ensued. Miller finally got him man to the beach and he told him, "Coker was taken to the Dreamland Emergency hospital for treatment."

TOWN MEETING

DRACUT CITIZENS VOTE IN FAVOR OF $5000 LOAN

At the special meeting of the citizens of Dracut, held last night, the voters present unanimously voted to order a loan of $5000 to defray town expenses in anticipation of taxes, the money to be borrowed as necessity requires it.

THE ON LEONGS

HAD A BIG TIME IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—The Jess of Quong Gong, a younger god, was worshipped by the On Leongs last night and the fifteen hundred anniversary of his birth was as properly celebrated as a near by empty street box would permit. One hundred of his worshippers climbed steep steps to the banquet hall at 14 Mott street under the suspicious eyes of the police, here and there delayed by rude hands that rubbed their clothes in search of a forbidden weapon.

The banquet was enjoyed the more for its delay and restrictions. It should have been held on Sunday, but Capt. Higgins said "No." Then the On Leongs were told that there could be no fireworks set off to frighten away the devils. The long was permitted to collect what stray musicians from the old Chinese theatre orchestra it might to make the night noisy with sweet sounds.

Neither the venerable Tom Lee nor Police Captain Higgins was at the dinner. Rumor had it that Tom Lee was "too ancient" and Capt. Higgins didn't seem as interested by the banquets as by the scurrying crowds in the streets.

The banquet was commenced in the early afternoon and the news of courses on the flower bill of fare did not suffer a break until the place where the recess happened in the evening. The almost jovial On Leongs trotted down stairs to their meeting room and talked and talked business until they were all asleep about 11 o'clock. That took two hours. After the business talk was over they talked back to finish the remaining twelve courses of the dinner.

PAPAL LEGATE

CRUELTY CHARGE

Youth Said to be Overworked

TRENTON, Aug. 2.—Considerable mystery surrounds the disappearance of young Horace Wymann of Cherry Valley, Mass., who, until recently, was supposed by his parents to be spending his vacation on the farm of W. D. Starr, near Pennington, N. J.

The parents, the Rev. and Mrs. Stephen W. Wymann, yesterday appealed to the county prosecutor for aid in finding their son.

The Wymanns told a strange story. The boy was graduated from Pennington seminary last June. He then wrote that he had accepted an invitation to visit his chum, young Starr, on the Starr farm. After an interval, during which they heard nothing from the boy, they wrote to him to return home. In reply they received a letter from young Starr saying their son wished to stay on the farm a while longer. This troubled them, but they were not particularly worried until they received a message that he was ill.

Then Mrs. Wymann, hurried from Cherry Valley to Pennington, and she declares she found Horace almost helplessly and apparently suffering from cruel treatment. She says she found him in the field. When she summoned a physician, he told her to take the lad home, but the Starrs, according to Mrs. Wymann, would not permit him to go.

Mrs. Wymann then telegraphed to her husband. When he arrived yesterday he appealed to the prosecutor. In company with a county officer Wymann was sent to the Starr home to demand possession of his son. He found the house deserted, and was told by workmen that the elder Starrs were away and that young Wymann and young Starr had gone to Philadelphia.

WILLOW DALE

Starting tomorrow night, and every Wednesday night hereafter, Hubbard's orchestra will play all old-time music at Breezy Point with singing by Jack Manchester.

PRES. MONNT

HEAD OF THE CHILEAN GOVERNMENT IS COMING HERE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—The state department has completed arrangements for the reception of President Montt of Chile, who will arrive in New York on the Royal Mail steamship Tagus on Thursday from Colon.

President Montt will spend four or five days in this country before proceeding to Europe for his health. Chander Hale, third assistant secretary of state; Major General William H. Carter, U. S. A., assistant chief of staff; and Capt. H. M. P. Huse, U. S. N., captain of the Philadelphia navy yard, have been designated to represent the state, war and navy departments, respectively. They will act as aides to President Montt and will remain with him during his stay in this country.

As the Tagus steams through the Narrows a salute will be fired to President Montt's honor by the coast artillery posts. He will be transferred to a small government vessel and will proceed up the North river to Fifty-ninth street, where he will land. A detachment of regular soldiers will escort him to the Plaza Hotel.

President Montt will leave New York for Boston on Friday afternoon. On Saturday he will board the naval yacht Mayflower at Boston, which will take him to Beverly to visit the president. He will return to Boston on the Mayflower.

TWO MORE VICTIMS

TEHRAN, Aug. 2.—The campaign of assassination carried on between the reactionists and the adherents of the new order in Persia claimed two more victims last night. All Mohamed, one of the prominent nationalist leaders, and one of his associates were shot dead, apparently in reprisal for the recent murder of the reactionary Seyyed Abdullah.

CARDINAL VANNUTELLI

MAN ARRESTED

After He Had Answered Decoy Advertisement

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—Edward Lumburg, 25 years old, a driver living at 388 Third avenue, yesterday answered an advertisement for a "useful man" in a boarding house at 118 West 44th street. He had answered a similar one the previous Monday, secured that job and left it in two hours.

George Litten, who runs a theatrical boarding house at 217 West 43rd street, had inserted both ads, the former in good faith, the latter as a decoy. He says that with the departure of Lumburg about $300 worth of clothing and jewelry belonging to his roomers disappeared.

The boarding house keeper was on hand when Lumburg answered the second ad, so was Detective Kahn.

In the west side police court, Lumburg waived examination on Litten's charge of grand larceny and was held in $100 bail for trial.

WHITE MEN ARRESTED

Charged With Being Implicated in Murder of Negroes

PALESTINE, Tex., Aug. 2.—Ten white men were arrested yesterday and put in jail charged with being implicated in the mob violence in the southern part of this county during the last three days in which many negroes were slaughtered. Sheriff Black, who has returned from a visit to the scene of the bloodshed, said:

"We won't find some of the bodies until the location is revealed to us by the huzzards. I found the greatest excitement. Men were killing negroes as fast as they could find them, and so far as I have been able to ascertain without any real cause. These negroes have never done anything that I could discover. There was just a hot headed gang hunting them down and killing them."

"We found 11 dead bodies, but from what I have heard the dead must number 15 or 20. We came across four bodies in one house on a marsh between Denison Springs and Slocum. I understand that Mrs. George Scarborough of Slocum saw a party of 40 or 50 go through her field. Some of them put the negro and went through on horseback and some of them walked through. They went across to the house where we found the four dead bodies."

"One negro had been killed at this house the night before and three were sitting up with the remains, one of them being old and white haired. These three were killed right where they were. So far as I can learn the negroes were not armed."

"I sent two deputies out through that country to collect all the arms they could find in the houses of negroes. They made a thorough search, but found only nine single barreled shotguns, none of which seemed to have been fired lately, and about 20 shells all loaded with small shot."

"I think the most of that crowd of men came from Houston county, and according to what I am told, the shooting was still going on late yesterday evening. They were hunting the negroes down like sheep. We found two in the road that had been shot about 10 o'clock the night before last."

"It was evident that at the time they were killed they were trying to get out of the country, for they had their bundles of clothes with them."

PLAYGROUND WORK

Supt. Whitcomb is Very Much Interested in It

Arthur K. Whitcomb, superintendent of schools, is very much interested in the organized playground work that is being carried on in Lowell. In conversation with a reporter for The Sun, Mr. Whitcomb said:

"I wish that all the school teachers in Lowell would avail themselves of the opportunity to see the folk dancing that is being done under the supervision of the playground instructors."

The dancing takes place in the Morris school in the morning and in the Elliot school in the afternoon. Mr. Whitcomb dropped in at the Morris school this morning and remained for nearly an hour. He allows that the folk dancing can be taught in all of the schools and that is why he is anxious that the teachers become interested. It is training in rhythm and social life and it adds snap and zest to the boy or girl who does it, said Mr. Whitcomb.

The playground is a great thing, especially under supervision. Few who have not witnessed it can understand how party spirit, class spirit and even race spirit fade out in the intense civic and community atmosphere of these playgrounds. It is pure democracy getting itself free from prejudice and narrowness by organized play.

Board of Aldermen

The board of aldermen will meet this evening and there is a raft of business to come before the meeting. The meeting will be a special one. The call was issued late yesterday afternoon and was due to the pressure of business. The aldermen hope that this will be the last meeting until September.

DIED OF HYDROPHOBIA

Young Wife was Bitten by a Pet Dog

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—Death from hydrophobia came yesterday in Bellevue hospital to Mrs. Julia Canton, 25 years of age, of No. 238 East Seventh street, who was bitten by a pet dog five weeks ago.

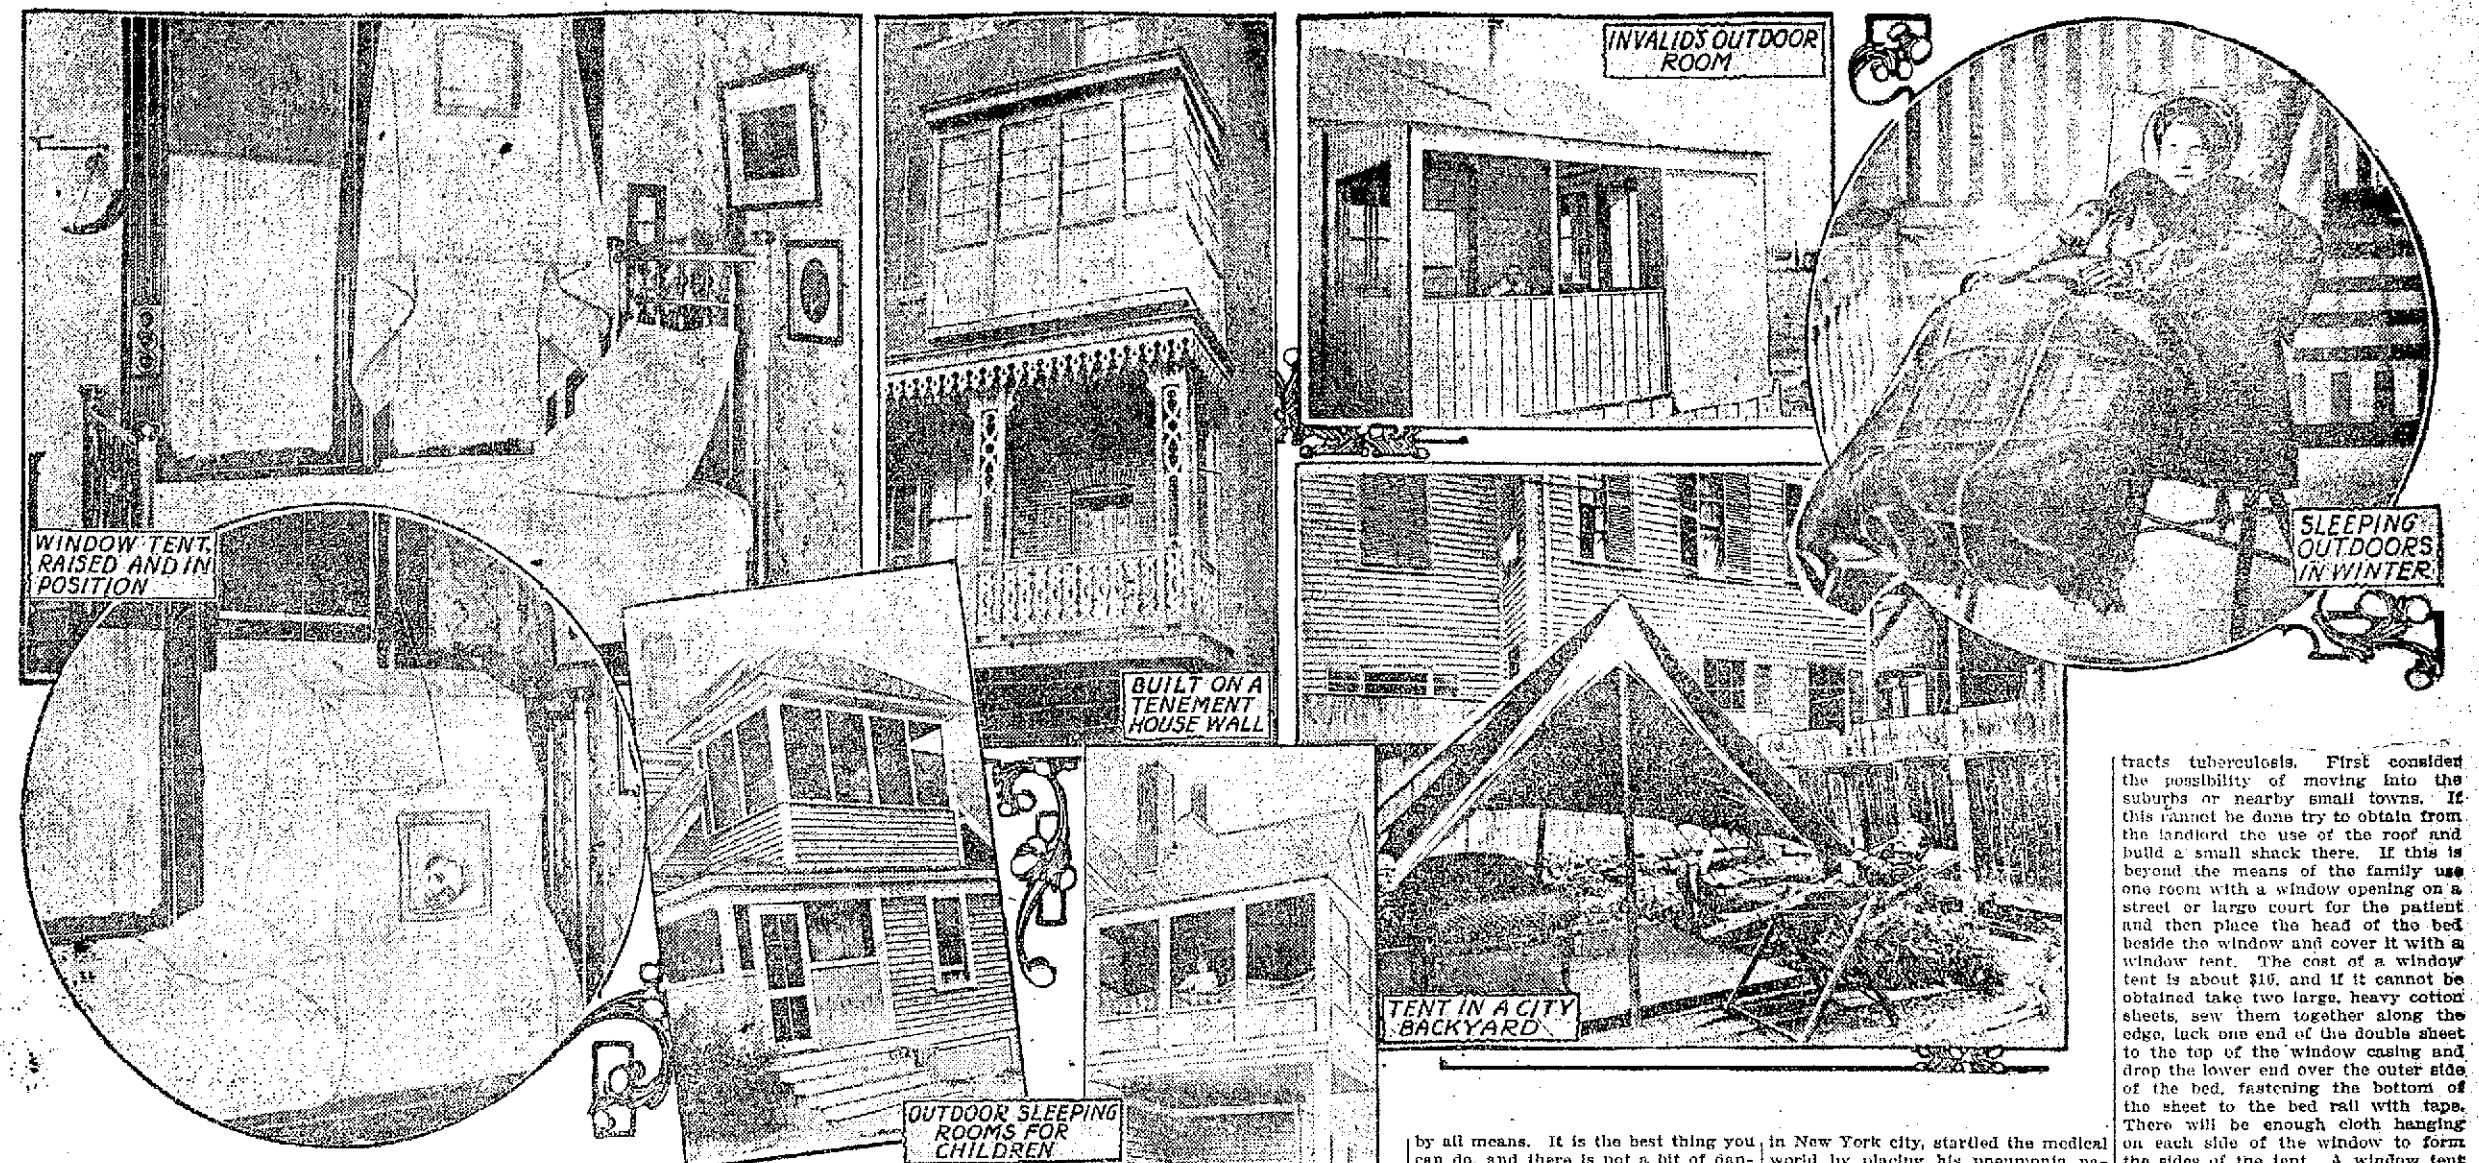

More than a month after the scratch from the dog's teeth, Mrs. Canton went about her household duties in a normal state. She suffered no pain and apparently had given but little thought to the wound. As she was about to take a bath last Saturday morning she suddenly became frightened by the sight of the water. A specimen of the dread disease caused her to fall upon the floor.

Her husband immediately summoned an ambulance and had his wife taken to the hospital. He told the doctors that immediately after the dog had bitten Mrs. Canton it had escaped and had not since been found. The wound, he said, was promptly cauterized. The physicians at once began antitoxin treatment, but the patient failed to respond.

A "mad" dog scare descended upon the shopping district in Harlem, near One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street and Eighth avenue, yesterday at noon, and for several minutes men and women scattered right and left. A viciously inclined animal started the trouble by attacking a smaller dog led by a young woman.

Several men beat off the assailant, which, reeling, got mixed up with a gang of truck drivers at work on the rails in One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street, near Eighth avenue. The men attacked the dog with health for examination.

"R.—SLEEP OUTDOORS. John Up To Date, M. D."

By CHARLES N. LURIE.

ARE you well, and do you wish to remain well? Sleep outdoors. Are you ill, and do you wish to regain health? Again, sleep outdoors. In every gradation of health or illness the admonition is given, and it is being heeded throughout the land.

If one were inclined to be irreverent or to jest with a really serious subject one might say that sleeping outdoors is the latest fad of the physicians, physiologists and health culturists. But the subject is one of too serious interest and widespread importance to permit of light treatment.

In a sense, sleeping outdoors may be termed a phase of the "back to nature" movement that has attracted so much notice in recent years. Its advocacy is a part of the propaganda for the substitution of saner, simpler, more primitive methods of living for present day artificial modes. But it is more than that. It is a distinct and very valuable therapeutic agency in the treatment of various diseases, notably tuberculosis. In many cases gratifying results have followed the substitution of outdoor for indoor sleeping, in conjunction with other methods of treatment.

An Authority on the Subject.

Writing on "Outdoor Sleeping," Dr. Thomas Speer Carrington, assistant secretary of the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis, says:

"Outdoor sleeping is not a fad, nor is it to be considered only as a means for curing disease. Thousands of healthy families have their sleeping porches. One large house in a middle western city, whose inmates are strong and healthy, has sleeping porches attached to nearly all of its bedrooms.

"This new custom has come to stay, for once a person becomes accustomed to the open air he cannot be persuaded to sleep again in a stuffy bedroom. The man or woman who has risen from bed morning after morning for years with "that tired feeling" will not go back to habits of life which cause this condition when so simple a remedy as a night in the open air prevents it.

"Any person can sleep out of doors, as the expense of arranging a shelter is small. Any permanent veranda large enough to hold a bed can be screened or boarded enough for protection almost without cost. If there are a few old boards around the house build a protection for the head of your bed on your front porch and make the experiment of sleeping out one night, using an ordinary single bed and the same bedding that is usually upon it.

After a night or two you will feel so fresh and bright in the morning that you will begin to plan for a permanent outdoor sleeping arrangement, and wonder how you were ever able to sleep in the house."

Easy in Summer, but In Winter—

It is of course easy in summer to carry into execution the plan of sleeping outdoors. When the air within four walls, however well provided with windows, is stifling and any breeze that blows brings only the suggestion of a Saharan simoom, not much argument is required to convince a person that he should "take up his bed and walk" outdoors. Nothing worse than a sudden thunderstorm, with its remote threat of a wetting, is to be feared. The only requisite is privacy, and that can be obtained easily everywhere save in the congested tenement districts.

Advising us on how to keep cool in summer, Dr. Gruene Hammond, the well known New York health authority, says: "Sleep outdoors, if you can,

by all means. It is the best thing you can do, and there is not a bit of danger in it."

But in winter, the cold season, "when the wintry winds do blow," as the song has it, sleeping outdoors is a different proposition. It takes nerve to consider sleeping outside when the mercury displays a tendency to drop through the bottom of the thermometer. The key north wind is harder to face than the summer breeze, no matter how hot the latter may be. Perhaps it is a reversion to ancestral instincts that makes us fear cold more than heat, although it is fairly certain that extreme heat, combined with humidity, kills more persons in this country than extreme cold. But nevertheless it is in winter no less than in summer that the benefits of outdoor sleeping are to be enjoyed. Escape from the vitiated, generally superheated atmosphere of indoors is of vital importance to the sufferer from disease, and for the well person also, since it is in this atmosphere that so many illnesses are bred and propagated. It is only a few years since the house physician of Fordham hospital,

Youngsters Like the Idea.

As the entire trend of modern medicine is toward prevention rather than cure, it is well to emphasize the importance laid upon outdoor sleeping as a means of keeping one well rather than as a medical prescription for the restoration of impaired health. It is considered an encouraging sign by the medical profession that the youngsters of the race look upon outdoor sleeping as a good thing.

In a pamphlet issued by Dr. Carrington's society, named above, the following directions are given for sleeping outdoors:

"Tenement house dwellers and persons living in apartment houses in large cities should make every effort possible to give the open air treatment to a member of the family who contracts tuberculosis. First consider the possibility of moving into the suburbs or nearby small towns. If this cannot be done try to obtain from the landlord the use of the roof and build a small shack there. If this is beyond the means of the family use one room with a window opening on a street or large court for the patient and then place the head of the bed beside the window and cover it with a window tent. The cost of a window tent is about $10, and if it cannot be obtained take two large, heavy cotton sheets, sew them together along the edge, lock one end of the double sheet to the top of the window casing and drop the lower end over the outer side of the bed, fastening the bottom of the sheet to the bed rail with tape. There will be enough cloth hanging on each side of the window to form the sides of the tent. A window tent can be made at home for about $5 by using twelve or fifteen yards of heavy denim or light canvas. By these methods the patient gets fresh air from the window and the room is kept warm in cold weather as a place for dressing and toilet purposes. The flat roofs of tenements and apartment houses in large cities should, if possible, be used as breathing places by the tenants. Shacks or cabins can be built upon them at small cost and make an economical and easily provided shelter.

"If the family lives in a small town or the country it will usually be found that a porch in the most convenient way of providing open air quarters. What is of the most importance is to find a sheltered spot protected from the wind, for the wind is much harder to bear than even intense cold. When a house has permanent verandas and the family cannot afford the expense of providing a special porch for the patient the veranda on any floor may be used and privacy and protection obtained by putting up canvas curtains or bamboo screens."

PLEA FOR THE PRAIRIE CHICKEN

THE prairie chicken, one of the most interesting, beautiful and valuable of all our American game birds, is on the verge of extermination. It is following the wild pigeon into oblivion as rapidly as that bird went in the seventies. The prairie chicken is practically extinct now in several western states where formerly it was abundant—Illinois, Iowa and Wisconsin, for instance. There are not more than 10 per cent of the number of these birds in the west that there were twenty years ago, when they were common. The prairie chicken is one of the most industrious bug eaters in this country. Throughout the spring, summer and autumn it feeds on grasshoppers, potato bugs, crickets, beetles and other insects that prey on the farmer's crops. From statistics compiled by the government we learn that the farmers of this country are losing more than a billion dollars a year by reason of the ravages of insects, and these bugs are here and are doing this appalling amount of damage because the birds which nature put here to eat the bugs have been killed off. Yet this bird, this industrious bug eater, has been hunted so persistently that it has been almost wiped off the map. Hunting seasons have been shortened from time to time, the number of birds allowed to each shooter per day has been reduced, but population has grown, multiplied and increased in the states where prairie chickens are native. So called improvements have been made in firearms and ammunition. The murderous pump gun and the still more murderous automatic shotgun have been evolved. There are a hundred men who go after prairie chickens today where there was only one twenty-five or thirty years ago in any of the western states.

If all the states which still have prairie chickens left would set aside a few townships in each county on which no shooting should be allowed at any time and then enforce such laws the prairie chicken could be saved. The people would soon learn to respect such laws, for they would realize that the birds would increase rapidly on these protected areas and the surplus would overflow on the surrounding country and afford good shooting for those who want to kill.

On the other hand, the birds would soon learn where they were safe from persecution, and large numbers of them at least would do their nesting and feeding and breeding on the grounds where there would be no shooting.

Such refuges would not only be valuable for the preservation of the prairie chicken, but in some of the states for quail as well. On such preserved territory certain species of ducks would nest, and within five years these refuges would become pleasure resorts for the people, for it would be a delightful experience for men, women and children to drive or walk through these protected sections and study the bird life that would become abundant there.

Many of the most prominent ornithologists and game protectors in the country have considered this plan for saving the prairie chicken and endorse it heartily. Here are quotations from a few:

Hon. John F. Lacey, ex-member of congress and author of the Lacey bird law and many other measures for the preservation of wild animals and birds, says: "Your scheme for the creation of refuges for prairie chickens and other game birds is eminently practical, and I earnestly hope you may be successful in inducing the legislatures of the prairie states to adopt it."

Dr. W. T. Hornaday, director of the New York Zoological park, says: "I have no question the prairie chicken is doomed to early and total extermination unless drastic measures are adopted in its behalf. Its extermination would be nothing short of a national disgrace."

William Dutcher, president of the National Association of Audubon Societies, says: "I have read your article entitled 'Save the Prairie Chicken' and heartily approve it. Your article should be in the hands of every farmer where prairie chickens and quails are still to be found."

Dr. T. S. Palmer of the department of agriculture, Washington, says: "I heartily approve your suggestion regarding refuges for the prairie chicken, and I hope the necessary legislation may be secured in the near future."

G. O. RHEEDER, President of the League of American Sportsmen.

A PRAIRIE CHICKEN QUADRILLE.

WE SHALL WASH MONEY TO SAVE MONEY

Jones—Uncle Sam is going to launder his dirty money.

Wong Duck—Me fah China with the week's wash plenty quick!

BUT Uncle Sam is not going to run away with the week's wash. No, indeed! When it is all nicely washed and ironed and ready to be delivered he is going to send it out again to be circulated. And you and I, reader, will not be able to tell it from new money.

Pretty stingy of the old gentleman to take the old, soiled money and wash it and release it? Not at all. Epigrammatically speaking, it costs money to make money. Every one of the fine wheelmen of steel engraving circulating as money in this country means an outlay of 13 cents for the government. When a soiled note reaches the treasury in Washington or one of the subtreasuries a new one must be issued to take its place. But laundering a note in one of the government's new machines, no matter how badly soiled the bill is, costs only one-tenth of a cent. When you remember that 200,000,000 new bills to take the place of soiled bills were issued last year and that 80 per cent, or 160,000,000, of them were washable it will be seen that the saving to be effected in one year by the new washing machines is considerable.

Uncle Sam will find that it will pay him to play the laundryman.

For the present the government is going into the note laundering business only in the treasury department in Washington. A battery of six of the washing machines has been installed in the big building near the White House. Later the machines will be placed in the nine subtreasuries—in New York, Boston, Chicago, Philadelphia, New Orleans, Baltimore, Cincinnati, St. Louis and San Francisco. Soiled money sent or brought to any of these places will be reissued as good as new or better.

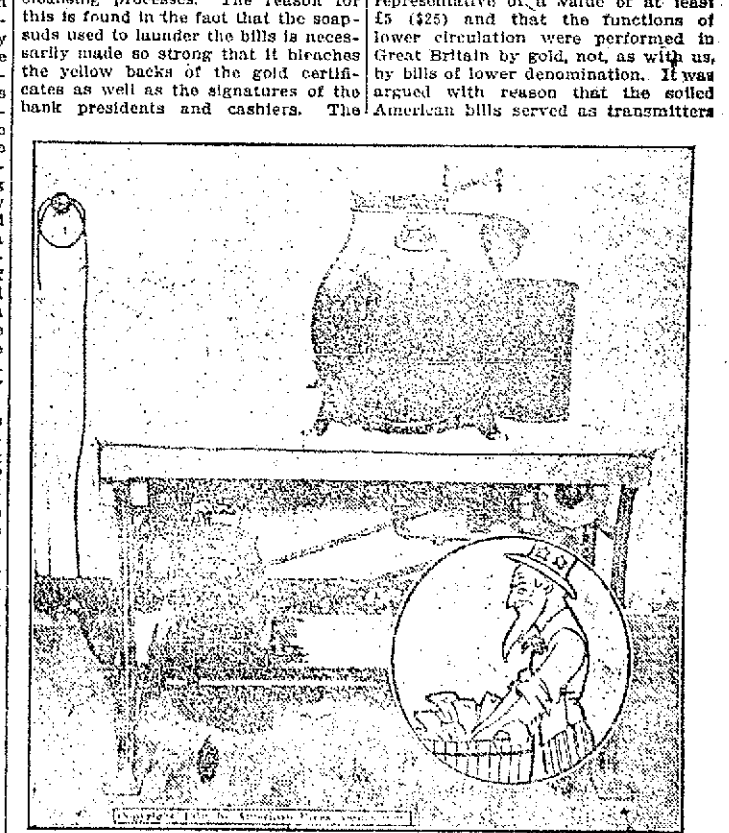

That "better" rouses thought. Can anything be better than a brand new crisp United States note, fresh from the press? If money experts are to be believed the answer is "yes." The better thing is a newly laundered note, which requires in the laundering process a softness and pliability that is more agreeable to the touch (if such a thing is possible) than a new note. Also the edges may be less sharp and less liable to scratch and cut the fingers of bank tellers who have to count the bills.

Laundering a soiled bill in one of the new money washing machines is very much like putting a piece of soiled clothing through one of the familiar clothes washing machines. It should be understood, of course, that the government uses for its money only linen stock paper of very high quality. It is calculated to withstand an extraordinary amount of wear and tear. When a note returns laden with soil and germs to the treasury or subtreasury it is still able to go without damage through the various cleansing processes. The machine puts it through a severe course of hot soap-suds for five minutes, then five minutes more of plain cold water, then starching with special "starch," then sterilizing with a newly invented antiseptic, then wringing and finally ironing and pressing.

At present only the greenbacks, which form the bulk of our paper currency, are to be subjected to the cleansing processes. The reason for this is found in the fact that the soap-suds used to launder the bills is necessarily made so strong that it bleaches the yellow backs of the gold certificates as well as the signatures of the bank presidents and cashiers. The understood generally to apply only figuratively to the money, critics of the condition of our currency were not slow to use it in reference to the physical condition of the notes. That the faded, soiled bills have been a reproach to Americans there can be no question. Frequent comparison has been made of our money with the clean looking, white banknotes of the Bank of England and with other foreign issues. It was of little avail to point out that the British notes were representative of a value of at least $5 ($25) and that the functions of lower circulation were performed in Great Britain by gold, not, as with us, by bills of lower denomination. It was argued with reason that the soiled American bills served as transmitters greenbacks are printed in a metallic ink that withstands the suds. Later, in all likelihood, the gold certificates and banknotes will be printed with inks that will go safely through the washing machines.

Several years ago the term "tainted money" came into use as a designation for wealth that had been gained in devious ways and then applied to philanthropic purposes by its possessor in an effort to obtain absolution for his sin of commission and omission. While the word "tainted" was and disseminators of diseases, and deaths of bank employees were traced to their handling of soiled money.

The story of the old Massachusetts lady who washes and irons each bill she receives before sending it forth has obtained wide circulation and credence. But there is a suspicion that it was originated by persons who wished to call forcibly the attention of the Washington authorities to the disgraceful condition of so much of our currency.

MAINE DEMOCRATS WARRANTS SWORN OUT

Believe That They Will Win Out Charge of Murder Is Made in Election Against Restelli

AUGUSTA, Me., Aug. 2.—Mayor Frederick W. Plaisted, democratic candidate for governor, was home yesterday for the first time in a week or more, and it will mark his last appearance here for some time, as he has almost continuous campaign dates covering a large part of August.

The democratic state committee is preparing to send out a large amount of literature showing the financial condition of the state, the extravagance of the administration, as well as a number of speeches on the tariff. Mr. Plaisted's letter, formally accepting the democratic nomination, is expected the latter part of the coming week.

Senator T. P. Gore of Oklahoma, Senator Stone of Missouri, Congressman Foss of Massachusetts and Bourke Cochran of New York have been invited to speak during the campaign. A definite reply has been received only from Mr. Foss, who states that after his campaign in Vermont he will be pleased to be at the service of the state committee.

Col. Plaisted and Obadiah Gardner will address large rallies at Milo, Aug. 30, and at Dover, Aug. 31, and later will pass a week together stumping in Aroostook county. Both are scheduled to appear at a number of afternoon as well as night meetings.

"The democratic organization was never in better shape," said Fred Emery Boane of Hallowell, chairman of the democratic state committee. "It looks better from a democratic standpoint than it has for a quarter of a century. I have received numerous letters from republicans who state that they will vote for Col. Plaisted, and I am confident that he will be elected. There are no dissensions to speak of in the ranks of the democracy and we are hearing of many conversions every week. I do not think the vote in the coming election will be as large as it was two years ago, owing in a measure to the apathy of the republicans."

THE AUTO RACES THE REPUBLICANS

Favored by Improvement Association Seek to Control the New States

There was a well attended meeting of the Varum Avenue Improvement Association held last night at the Robert farm in Varum avenue and the principal topic of discussion was the automobile races which were to have been held over the celebrated Merrimack Valley race course.

David J. Williams, the president of the association, occupied the chair and called the meeting to order shortly after eight o'clock.

TEACHER SUES

SHE MAKES CHARGE OF BREACH OF PROMISE

NORTHAMPTON, Aug. 2.—A breach of promise case was entered in the superior court yesterday. The plaintiff is Miss Mabel A. Sturtevant of New Haven and John Maxwell Clark of Hadley the defendant. Suit is for $5,000 damages. Miss Sturtevant was two years ago a teacher of the North Hadley school.

Another North Hadley suit is that of Alice M. Fairman of that village against Cotton A. Smith of Los Angeles, Cal., administrator. The suit is for $5,000 and is brought for damages alleged to have been sustained because the plaintiff purchased from the defendant the farm of the late Thomas Gerry for $15,000 understanding that there was running water on the premises, whereas there is none, and because the defendant, it is charged, has converted to his own use a large amount of personal property of the farm.

GIRL IS FOUND

SAID TO BE INVOLVED IN ASSAULT CASE

FITCHBURG, Aug. 2.—Jennie Mattei, the 15-year-old girl said to have been lured away from Hudson, N. Y., by Crescino Marrandi to Ashburnham and later assaulted by Marrandi, has been found in Hudson, N. Y., by Chief Thayer and State Officer Robert E. Moit and brought here yesterday.

Marrandi was assaulted in Ashburnham, the police say, by James Mattochi, brother of the girl, and Dominico Dillisso and the girl disappeared. The girl told the police that her life was threatened by Marrandi at Hudson, N. Y., before he took her away and also at Ashburnham, where she says he held her as a prisoner until her brother and Dominico Dillisso came to rescue her.

Miss Mattei is a mere child and while telling her story wept copiously. She stated that Marrandi told her that he would kill her brother and mother and burn their home down in the night if she did not go away with him.

She said friends of Marrandi spirited her away after the assault upon Marrandi at Ashburnham. James Mattochi and Dominico Dillisso, who are held upon the assault complaints, were also given a hearing in court yesterday. They denied the complaints and said a third man, who got away, snatched Marrandi.

William E. Livingston Co., 15 Thorndike St.

Business Established 1828

QUINCY, Aug. 2.—Yesterday, for the first time since the wholesale shooting by Louis Restelli on Friday, the police obtained evidence which would tend to establish the reason why Restelli killed his mother, if any reason could be advanced for the committing of so heinous a crime. In looking over Mrs. Restelli's effects yesterday the children found a note for $150, which Louis had made out to his mother and which was payable in three months' time. Mrs. Restelli had agreed to go to the bank Friday morning to get the $150, in exchange for which she intended to accept Louis' note. In preparation for the visit to the bank she had expressed her intention to her son Adolph and wanted him to go with her. For some reason or another, however, she did not go to the bank, as far as Adolph said the note was never taken to the bank that day.

The note had evidently been made out and signed by Louis in anticipation of the money he expected would be forthcoming when he called Friday afternoon, and it was evidently for this purpose that he visited the home of his mother. What happened after he went into the house is, of course, but a matter of conjecture, as only the two were in the place. It is supposed that he asked for the money and not getting it flew into a rage, with the result that he began his long trail of killing and shooting by firing a bullet into his mother's head.

Lorandau Held Up
Whether or not Restelli made a demand for the note which he had signed in favor of his mother, after he found he could get no money, is, of course, not known; but it is certain he did not have the note returned to him, because it was found among the mother's papers yesterday.

Monday night of the day, as far as police work in connection with the Restelli case is concerned, was somewhat broken by two events which caused temporary excitement. One was the holding up of Felix Lorandau at 130 yesterday morning while he was going home on Water street, and another was a report that Adolph Restelli had been seen prowling about the J. H. Dewson house on that street.

Mr. Lorandau was held up just as he turned in to take a short cut through the ward three playground. He has been employed as night starter on the Old Colony street railway at Neponset for the past few weeks and comes up to Quincy on the late car.

Just after passing in through the polishing mill yard yesterday morning a man stepped up to him with a revolver in one hand and his other hand spread out as if ready to clutch his throat. Mr. Lorandau ran toward police headquarters and yelled lustily for help.

Mr. Lorandau said the man's hat was pulled over his face and he could not tell if the man was Restelli, although he knows the latter very well. The police think the man was somebody who was acquainted with Lorandau's habits and knew he would pass through the playground at a certain hour.

The police theory is that this man knowing Lorandau imagined that he was the cover of the late car on Friday night, in fact the last car of the night, might have the collections of the trip at least, in his clothes and would bring them home with him. The place where Conductor Lorandau was held up is not anywhere near the North common, where Restelli was last seen.

The second interesting incident of the day was when the police were called to the home of J. H. Dewson, where the housekeeper, Mrs. Johanna McLeod, said she heard somebody tampering with the garbage can at two o'clock yesterday morning.

She also said that she heard somebody shaking an apple basket. Mrs. McLeod admitted she had been in a nervous condition since the shooting and said she had stayed up till about 2 o'clock because she was afraid to lie down and sleep. The police searched all around the house and premises, but found nothing but footprints of some men which were probably those of the searching parties of Friday rather than those of Restelli, as an army of searchers beat the bushes in back of the Dewson house the day of the crime. The racket at the garbage can might have been caused by some dog trying to pry the cover off, the police said, and Mrs. McLeod admitted that when she looked out of a darkened window she was unable to see anybody about the place.

Suggestion of Food Cache
The police yesterday got the names of two parties who saw Restelli carry a big bundle up through Quarry street on the evening of the day before he did the shooting. One of these parties said the bundle looked like canned goods, although this informant admitted the bundle might have contained a piece of machinery. A man and a woman saw Restelli Thursday evening going toward Carroll's lane with this bundle and some of the police officers have an opinion Restelli was stocking up on place with edibles preparatory to a long stay out of sight of the public eye.

This theory, of course, admits of a premeditated shooting, but the police have been convinced of this ever since Friday because everything was carried out with a detail to suggest a prearrangement, and the fact that Restelli shot only those with whom he had had previous dealings, and missed many others by, even speaking to some, after shooting in a wholesale manner, would tend to suggest that the shooting was not something done on the spur of the moment nor as the result of an insane mind.

A suggestion was made to Chief of police Barr that last night some of these great heps be blown up with dynamite or, at least, that officers be placed near them during the nights, so that if the man is hiding in one of these caves and emerges for a drink of water, which he must get to satisfy the cravings of the body, he may be caught. It was also suggested that the quarry holes which lie in the vicinity of the end of the pathway on which Restelli was last seen be also treated with dynamite. There are three of these holes, which have water in them from 60 to 80 feet in depth, and if any body is lying at the bottom there is a chance of it being brought to the surface by the aid of some dynamite.

These suggestions have been offered to relieve the terrific mental strain of the people of the city, and this strain is becoming intensified with each succeeding hour that Restelli remains uncaught or unbound.

Formal warrants charging Restelli with the murder of Henry E. Hardwick and assault with intent to kill C. Thuermer in the district court, the complaint being Dr. S. C. Hardwick, one of the sons of the murdered granite manufacturer. The concern which sold Restelli a surfacing machine a few weeks ago and for which he had made no payment sent an agent to this city yesterday to take the machine away from the stone shed where it was set. The agent took the machine to Quincy Adams for shipment to Boston.

A PLAIN CITIZEN
That's What Teddy, Jr., Says He Is

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 2.—Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., is at work today at the salesrooms of a carpet and rug company. He is just an ordinary employee and says he wants to be known as plain Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., a citizen.

"I want to become a good citizen of California," young Roosevelt said yesterday during his first day's work since his marriage to a girl named Edna, who came from a pile of new rugs he was inspecting. "I am working here the same as the rest of the men. I report for work at 8:30 in the morning and quit work at 5:30 p.m. This work is not new to me as I put in two years in the company's factory in the east. I want to be known merely as a San Francisco citizen and to do a good citizen's living."

Young Roosevelt and his wife will remove in a few days to a modest two and a half-story house on Pacific avenue.

LAKEVIEW THEATRE

Judging from the crowds that have daily flocked to Lakeview theatre since the opening of "St. Elmo," the play of the Lakeview Stock company is offering this week is one of the season's best.

Mr. James Thatcher, the leading man, plays the role of "St. Elmo Murray," and plays it well, as does Miss Florence Farr, who has the portrayal of "Edna Farle" in her hands, and does full justice to the part. The other players are Minnie Carruthers, Frances Williams, Dan Harold, Robert Lee, Ben Johnson, Jack Rowe and others.

Matinees every day except Mondays, at 2:30, evenings at 8:15 and seats in advance can be secured at Carter & Shorburne's drug store.

THEATRE VOYONS

Today's biograph feature, "Unexpected Help," which is shown at the Theatre Voyons, well deserves its success. Its story is a novel and well written one, it is finely acted and is staged in an almost perfect manner. "That the most innocent appearing of the play is one of the most pointed and dangerous is one of the lessons taught is a thoroughly good one. "A Cowboy's Stratazen" is a well told romance of the west, the principal characters being a cowboy, his sweetheart and an eastern young lady of whom the sweetheart is unreasonably jealous. The cowboy is faithful to his love all the time, but in the end everybody is happy. Two comedies well acted and just the kind to make one laugh in the hot weather are on the program and taken all through it is an unusually good one.

TOURS BOSTON HARBOR IN MOTOR BOAT

Mr. Charles Manuel, the well known Centralville shoe repairer, "personally conducted" a party of 10 Lowell friends on a motor boat tour of Boston harbor on Sunday and the delighted tourists are still talking about the fine trip they had. They embarked early in the morning on the prettiest boat of its size in the harbor, "Albani," a 35 footer, built, owned and operated by Mr. Louis Moody of East Braintree. The boat is a motor boat with a 10 horsepower engine and can run on land and in the water at an average of 12 miles an hour. It has a cabin with a canvas deck that seats a dozen comfortably. The party proceeded out to the battleship Vermont and the cruiser Chicago which were at anchor and later had the pleasure of seeing the Vermont departing out of the harbor under her own steam. They then went down seven miles below Boston light and thence along the north shore back and across the harbor by Penikese and up the Pore river by the great Fore River ship yards where the latest battleships are built. Returning the party stepped at Pemberton and then took in the upper harbor and Dorchester bay, returning to Boston about sunset.

CHIMNEY FIRE

Fire In Factory In Dedham Today

DEDHAM, Aug. 2.—The carpet making plant of the Cochran Mfg. Co. at East Dedham was badly damaged by fire today. The management refused to estimate the loss, but it is believed that it will reach $25,000. The fire caught in the boiler room about 7 a.m. and soon spread to adjoining buildings. The entire local department, assisted by apparatus from Hyde Park and Westwood fought the flames for nearly two hours and managed to save a portion of the plant. The company's works in this town are on River street.

CHINESE PRINCE

COMING TO STUDY UNITED STATES NAVY

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—China is looking for Western ideas for her navy. In September, His Imperial Highness Prince Tsai Hsuep and Admiral Sah, the imperial naval commissioner, will arrive in the United States to study naval affairs. Mr. Calhoun, minister to China, advised the state department yesterday that the royal party will sail from Shanghai Aug. 24. Prince Tsai Hsuep is a brother of Prince Tsai Tao, commander-in-chief of the Chinese army, who visited the United States last year with a large retinue of officers and attaches, studying military affairs, and is an uncle to the little Chinese emperor. In addition to Admiral Sah, Prince Tsai Hsuep will be accompanied by ten other naval officers and servants.

BRONZE DOORS

TO BE PLACED IN CAPITOL HAVE ARRIVED

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 2.—New bronze doors to complete the series of entrance doors to the capitol have arrived here and will be placed in the main west entrance of the building. The doors were designed by Prof. Lewis Mumford of Washington. The design consists of a transom and two doors with an ornamental frame. The doors are nearly eight feet wide and thirteen feet in height. In the design of the transom a figure representing America in a chariot drawn by lions and led by a child, signifying "support of intellect over brute force." Beside the chariot are figures representing the scholar, architecture, literature, painting, music, sculpture, mining, commerce and industry. On one side of the transom panels is a figure of Thomas Jefferson and on the other side a figure of Benjamin Franklin. Medallions at the four corners represent Peabody, founder of educational institutions; Emerson, philosopher; Horace Mann, educator, and Hopkins, merchant and philanthropist.

In the eight panels, four on each of the heavy doors, are scenes symbolic of jurisprudence, science, agriculture, engineering, and on the sides of these panels are statues of famous Americans.

AMERICA GETS GOLD

LONDON, Aug. 2.—America secured $3,000,000 out of the $4,500,000 worth of gold available upon the open market today. The rest of the supply was taken for India and the continent. The price was a half-penny higher.

SOCIALIST PARTY

Has Named Woman For Secretary of State

NEW HAVEN, Aug. 2.—The legal opinion given in New Hampshire that the name of Mrs. Marilla M. Ricker of Dover, cannot legally go upon the official ballot to be used in the primary election for nominating a republican candidate for governor, has attracted attention in Connecticut where a somewhat like question may arise. The socialist party has named Ella Reeve Bloor of Waterbury for secretary of state on its state ticket. While no action has yet been taken it is announced that the attorney general will be asked for an opinion as to whether Mrs. Bloor's name can be placed on the Australian ballot. Mrs. Bloor's nomination, it is believed, is the first one of a woman for a state office in Connecticut. She has been prominent in socialist party ranks, coming here from Colorado, and two years ago doing considerable campaigning. She was on a committee appointed by President Roosevelt to inquire into stockyard conditions. The state constitution provides that no person who is not an elector of the state has a right to vote for governor. This qualification is reserved to govern the election of other state officers. No law has ever been passed making women electors under this section of the constitution.

Joseph F. Gatins Begins Action

Against Dick Brothers

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—Joseph F. Gatins, said to be the head of the largest bucket shop syndicate in the United States, who was arrested recently on the specific charge of operating a bucket shop in Washington, D. C., has sued Dick Brothers, brokers, for $140,000. In papers made public yesterday he accuses his brokers of failure to execute a spectacular coup in Hocking the day the stock went to smash.

Word was received here from Washington last night that the department of justice had already begun an investigation not only of the Hocking plunge of Mr. Gatins, but also of many other operations which he has conducted through Dick Brothers and other brokers who have offices in the Waldorf Astoria. It was in the hotel branches of the firm that Gatins personally carried on his campaigns.

Information has been obtained by the attorney general that in most of his stock deals Gatins acted for the bucket shop syndicate. The government has not found any action by his brokers that could be considered irregular, although the character of their customer and his speculations must have been known to the Wall street houses.

Gatins said that he gave an order to Dick Brothers to sell short 100 shares of Hocking stock for every point of its decline. The stock went from 88 1/2 to 26. Dick Brothers are held accountable for 3800 shares, at an average of 52 1/2 a share.

Instead of following instructions, Dick Brothers are charged with selling 700 shares and then quitting. Later, on an order to cover, they bought 1100 shares, which left Gatins 400 shares long.

Grattan Colvin, an attorney of 166 Broadway, counsel for Gatins, said there could have been no reason for the firm's failure to execute these orders, as Gatins kept in close personal touch with his brokers throughout the day.

THE INSURGENTS

Will Have First Test of Strength

In the West Today

TOPEKA, Kan., Aug. 2.—With indications of a fairly heavy vote, the Kansas primaries, the culmination of the campaign fought on issues of an almost entirely national nature, opened this morning. They furnish probably the first real test of insurgent strength in the west. Candidates will be nominated for congress and for state offices. In six of the eight congressional districts present incumbents ask renomination. In the other two districts Victor

WASHING THE HAIR

There Is a Right as Well as a Wrong Way to Do It.

The important thing to observe in washing the hair is to avoid using a soap or shampoo containing an excess of alkali. You must have some knowledge of chemistry before you can tell the difference between good soap and harmful soap. The safest plan is to clean your hair and scalp with Bir's Head Wash, which is broadly guaranteed to be neutral and to have no free alkali in it. Moreover, it is mildly medicated with glycerine, sulfolite, gold, white of eggs and coconut oil. Every one of these things are helpful to the scalp and hair, and by using Bir's Head Wash frequently, the loss of hair is stopped, dandruff disappears and itching ceases. All dirt, dust and disease germs are cleared away, the pores leading to the hair roots are opened up, and renewed life and vigor given to the hair. Try Bir's Head Wash and experience the supreme delight of a perfectly clean scalp.

THE GOLD OUTPUT

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, Aug. 2.—The severe drought experienced in the Tanana valley this summer has had a serious effect in curtailing the gold output for that field, the water shortage greatly reducing sluicing operations. The output for the Fairbanks field was less than $1,000,000 in July. Bankers estimate that the total for 1910 will be less than $3,000,000. Last season of 1909 will be $7,000,000 and $8,000,000. The labor shortage resulting from the rush to Iditarod in June has also served to reduce mining operations in this region.

AUTO STRUCK BY CAR FIGHT FOR BABE

Mrs. Arthur E. Hatch Suffered Fractured Ankle

Father and Mother Engage in Struggle

BOSTON, Aug. 2.—The little year and a half old girl baby of Mr. and Mrs. George C. Cobb of 231 Pearl street, Cambridge, has a father one day and a mother the next, but seldom both at once, and, incidentally, little Gladys, the baby, is becoming a commuter between Hollis, N. H., and Boston.

Last June Mrs. Cobb applied to the courts for separate support, and after listening to the case Judge Chamberlain continued it, and recommended that the two parties in interest effect a reconciliation.

Cobb and his wife were childhood sweethearts. She was Miss Grace Feltner of Cambridge and their marriage was in the nature of an elopement a few months prior to the day set for the wedding. Cobb is but 26 years old, but owns a grocery in Cambridge and a farm and hotel at Hollis, N. H.

Shortly after the arrival of the baby Mrs. Cobb left the home one night and could not be found. She returned, but gave no explanation of her absence. It was then that she left for short times and then for longer ones, and the baby into the care with her and had started when Cobb jumped aboard and it was agreed that the Nashua police should decide who had the right to the child. The Nashua police decided in favor of Mrs. Cobb, and she proudly bore her child with her to Cambridge.

Last week Cobb visited the Cambridge home and saw the baby. Yesterday, in the absence of Mrs. Cobb, he came here, and during a moment when Mrs. Lopez left the room Cobb did likewise, taking the baby with him. A waiting automobile whirled him away just as Mrs. Cobb was coming down the street.

Last night Mrs. Cobb went to Hollis to see her baby. As Mr. Cobb keeps the only hotel in town, he is likely to have his wife for a guest. After he had reached his home he talked with a newspaperman over the telephone, and at a late hour said that Mrs. Cobb had not yet appeared.

SEEKS A DIVORCE

Wealthy Widow Says She Gave "Other Woman" $15,000

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—"I am the other woman. I have been the other woman for six years. Now you are his wife, and I want $15,000."

This telephone message was received by Mrs. Philip Van Valkenburgh, the "350,000,000 widow," on the first day of her honeymoon, according to affidavits she has made in her suit for absolute divorce which is about to be brought against Philip Van Valkenburgh, millionaire clubman of Fifth avenue and Newport, whom she married last November.

Upon the death of the aged William Hayes Chapman, his widow inherited his millions and became the bride of Van Valkenburgh after a brief courtship which followed stormy attempts of a dozen noted noblemen to win her hand, and the man left her forlorn at the St. Regis five months after their marriage.

The allegations in the suit, which yesterday received Mrs. Van Valkenburgh's signature, begin with the very first week of matrimony, following the busy wedding at Greenwich, Conn., which took place when she was urged by her American friends to accept one of her own countrymen in preference to a title from a foreign source.

The entrance of the "other woman" into the marital life of the Van Valkenburghs began, according to the complaint, on the day after the marriage.

The complaint alleged that Mrs. Van Valkenburgh went to her husband and asked him if the other woman was a reality, and that he admitted that she was.

The complaint then alleges that Van Valkenburgh asked her for a loan of $15,000 to pay off his obligation to the "other woman," which the plaintiff provided on the agreement that he was to have no more to do with the second woman, whose name does not appear.

According to the papers in the suit, Van Valkenburgh did not live up to his agreement and continued seeing the mysterious "other woman."

The affidavit also alleges that a man called Mrs. Van Valkenburgh on the telephone at the St. Regis one night.

"If you go to the Claremont, at Riverside drive and 123rd street, you will see your husband," the message came, according to the complaint.

Mrs. Van Valkenburgh went in an automobile, the affidavit says, and saw Van Valkenburgh sitting at a table drinking with a woman. Later, the papers allege, he was followed and was seen to accompany the woman to an apartment house in the city.

That at times after his marriage there were as many as two "other women" in the case is also charged.

MATRIMONIAL

Mr. Louis G. Cote of this city and Miss Grace Giraoud of Worcester were married yesterday morning at Notre Dame church, Worcester, at a nuptial mass celebrated at 8:30 o'clock by Rev. Fr. Grenier. The ceremony was performed in the presence of several hundred friends of the young couple.

From Worcester, Mass., Mr. Cote, Springfield and Lowell. The bride wore a gown of white Japanese silk, with a point d'esprit veil which had been worn by her grandmother on her wedding day, and which was caught with white sweetpeas. Her shower bouquet was of white sweetpeas. Mr. Jean G. Cote of Lowell, the bridegroom's father, was his son's attendant, and the bride was also attended by her father, Mr. Henry Giraoud. The choir of Notre Dame church sang delightfully during the ceremony.

After the ceremony, an informal reception of the new bride and groom took place at the home of the bride, 344 Chandler street. The guests included the relatives and intimate friends only. Among those present were: Mrs. Catherine Cote, Mr. and Mrs. Jean G. Cote, Mr. Herve Cote and Miss Berthe Cote of Lowell, and Mr. Michel La Belle of Boston. At noon Mr. and Mrs. Cote left on a bridal trip to New York. They have received many beautiful gifts, and upon their return from their trip will make their home at 99 West Sixth street, this city.

Mr. Edmond Cormier and Miss Antoinette Bourgeois were married yesterday morning in the private chapel at St. Joseph's rectory where Rev. Fr. Ouellette, O. M. I., celebrated a nuptial mass at 10 o'clock. Messrs. Edmond Cormier and Luc Bourgeois were the witnesses.

CONG. TIRRELL'S FUNERAL
NATICK, Aug. 2.—Definite arrangements were completed today for the funeral of Congressman Charles Q. Tirrell, who died at home at noon Sunday last. The funeral will be held in the little St. Paul's Episcopal church in Natick at 2:30 p. m., and will be open to the public but the congressional delegation and various other official delegations will occupy most of the room. The Episcopal service will be held at the church and at the grave in Bell Park cemetery, Natick.

APPOINTED A COUNCILLOR
PERKINS, Aug. 2.—Wu Ting Fang, former minister of the United States, who on his retirement from the diplomatic service and return to China, thought to have been relegated permanently to private life by the new force at Peking, has now, contrary to expectation, re-entered office. He was today appointed councillor to the Chinese foreign office which recognizes the need of a man of strength and foreign experience since the dismissal by the regent of Yuan Shi-Kai.

SERIOUS CHARGE
WORCESTER, Aug. 2.—Henry C. Powell, aged 65, a Rutland farmer, was arraigned yesterday before Judge Ely on complaint of four of his six daughters and placed under $2000 bonds for a hearing next Monday on a serious charge. Powell lived on his Rutland farm with his wife and six children, while two of his daughters were living in other parts of the county.

The arrest came as the result of an investigation begun last Tuesday by Deputy Sheriff Edward M. Merrick of Holden and Constable Walter H. Pike of Paxton and the nature of the evidence is appalling according to the charges. The specific complaint against Powell was made by four of his daughters: Mrs. Etta Powell Whitney of Paxton, Miss Edna Powell, aged 19, who has been living recently in Auburn; Miss Ruth L. Powell, aged 17, and Miss Lillian Powell, aged 15, who have been living in Lowell.

As the result of the story told by Ruth, Charles Robinson of Charlton, and 20, is also under arrest and he will be in court with Powell next Monday.

Powell and his wife came to live in Rutland from New York 17 years ago. They have been the parents of 11 children.

WIDOW JILTED
On Eve of Wedding Has Entered Suit
NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—A breach of promise suit for $25,000 damages has been filed in the U. S. circuit court at Pittsburgh by Mrs. Sally Klein, an attractive widow of 35.

Sumner street, Brooklyn, who says that after the wedding day was set and she had completed her trousseau, William Friedman decided to marry another widow. He is manager of the Hollander Drug company at Bradfield, Pa.

Mrs. Klein's rival is said to be Mrs. William Friedman, widow of a man who is said to be worth at least $100,000, and who is a successful business man. It is reported that Friedman and Mrs. Hollander are to be married this week.

The neighborhood in which Mrs. Klein lives is made up of comparatively poor families. Mrs. Klein is said to have been wealthy at one time but met with reverses, and but recently took two of her children from orphanages. She is said to have four or five children.

SILVER WEDDING

Mr. and Mrs. Aubry Observe Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Henry F. Aubry, residing at 148 Cheever street, celebrated the 25th anniversary of their wedding today. Relatives and friends called during the day to congratulate the couple on their many years of married life and to wish them many more years of happiness.

Mr. and Mrs. Aubry are parishioners of the church of the Notre Dame de Lourdes, and this morning at 8 o'clock a mass was celebrated at that church. Rev. Fr. Lamotte, O. M. I., the rector, being the celebrant.

This afternoon the couple kept open house and this evening the home will be open to friends.

Mr. Aubry was born in Malone, N. Y., 47 years ago. He came to Lowell in 1880 and has since been employed for the past ten years.

Mrs. Aubry's maiden name was Octavia Prince, and she was born in Canada, 44 years ago, coming here nearly 20 years ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Aubry have four children, all of whom were born in Lowell. They are Albert, Wilfrid, Olive and Leo.

RAILROAD BILL

Subject of Discussion by Attorneys

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., Aug. 2.—The railroad bill enacted by the last congress was the theme of discussion at the conference of railroad attorneys opened in this city today. Practically all of the railroad systems of the United States were represented at the conference which was called by Col. Henry Stone of the Louisville & Nashville railroad. Col. Stone in his call to the meeting stated that it was to be solely for the purpose of discussing the effect of the new railroad law on the roads engaged in interstate traffic. It was expected that the conference would last for about three days.

BOYS FOUND DEAD

Three Buried Under Sand Pile In Brooklyn

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—Three little boys, who had been searched for high and low since they were missed from their homes on Madison street in Brooklyn yesterday afternoon, were found dead today in a nearby vacant lot where a sand embankment had fallen upon them while they were at play. The presence of the bodies in the sandpile was discovered by a dog playing with his boy-master in the lot.

THE AERO CLUB

Hears the Grievances of Hamilton and Glenn Curtiss

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—Charles K. Hamilton and Glenn H. Curtiss had their personal grievances threshed out at a meeting of the national council of the Aero Club of America yesterday. The aviators put their wings to rest and took a day off to discuss differences of opinion. It was the first conference of the executive board of the body and Clifford B. Harmon was the presiding officer.

Hamilton had filed a protest with the national organization against the sanction of the aviation meet to be held in Boston from September 2 to September 13 under the auspices of the Harvard Aeronautic Association, the ground that he had been barred from the competition because of an objection entered by Curtiss. He asked that the body refuse to sanction any meet where aviators of good standing are debared from contests except for the absolute absence of rules regulating the meet. He took the conference bird men a whole day to reach a conclusion. It was favorable to Hamilton's views. The decision was to sanction no meet which debared aviators except for breaching the rules. Jerome Faneull, business manager for Curtiss, said later that the decision would not help Hamilton because Curtiss will attempt to hold Hamilton to his contract to use a Curtiss machine exclusively for two years. He says Curtiss will not take part in the meet if Hamilton competes with any machine except a Curtiss, and furthermore he will apply for an injunction to restrain Hamilton from making flights. At the conference yesterday Hamilton was represented by Israel Ludlow, his legal adviser, and his business manager, P. T. Young. Curtiss sent a letter explaining his side of the situation. Faneull, manager for Curtiss, who is honorary secretary of the national council of the Aero Club of America, retired from the meeting when the matter was approached, as an objection had been entered that Hamilton will not enter the meet at Boston unless he receives a request from the Harvard Aeronautical Association, to whom he applied for an entry. Faneull says Curtiss intends to give up the exhibition field and wants Hamilton to take his place. He says Curtiss wants to devote his time to building machines. Col. Jerome H. Joyce presented a request that the elimination contest for the international meet be held under the auspices of the Baltimore Aero Club. The Chicago, Los Angeles and Kansas City clubs all applied for selections for meets. The Detroit and Pittsburgh clubs were admitted to membership. Augustus Post was appointed chairman of the rules committee, J. C. McCoy, chairman of the contest committee, and W. G. Strong, chairman of the license committee.

REDISTRICTING REPORT
PROVIDENCE, Aug. 2.—The report of the redistricting committee was today transmitted by Gov. Pothier to the joint committee of the judiciary of the house and senate. The report will be in the hands of the joint committee until the special session of the legislature meets two weeks from today.

CAPUCHINS ATTACKED
VIGO, Spain, Aug. 2.—The police here intervened today to disperse rival demonstrations, the members of which came to blows over the dispute between Spain and the Vatican. The Capuchins were marching in procession, acclaiming the pope, when they were attacked by the anti-clericals.

TO PROTECT FORESTS
BRETTON WOODS, N. H., Aug. 2.—With a preliminary session this afternoon the Society for the Protection of New Hampshire Forests opened its ninth annual meeting here. A discussion of methods of forest fire fighting by forest fire wardens of various towns in the state occupied most of the time today. Tomorrow addresses will be delivered by the state foresters of New Hampshire, Massachusetts and Vermont, and Congressman Frank Currier of New Hampshire and George Lawrence of Massachusetts also are expected to speak.

SELF-GOVERNMENT SOCIETY
HONG KONG, Aug. 2.—The Chinese self-government society of Canton received today a letter from Chinese inhabitants of San Francisco, enclosing $1000 for the preliminary expenses of the propaganda and urging a boycott upon American goods because of the treatment of Chinese in the detention pen at San Francisco.

TO CLOSE MILLS
MANCHESTER, N. H., Aug. 2.—Notices were posted in seventeen cotton mills of the Amesbury corporation today, announcing that the entire plant will be shut down on Aug. 26 and re-open on Sept. 12. The company is contending with other concerns here over curtailing the output of their spinning. The closing will affect 15,500 operatives.

SKIP WAS CAUGHT

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—James Boylan, known as Morro Castle, the neighborhood about First avenue and Thirty-second street, as Skip, was brought up yesterday with a round turn in the delirious but pleasing path he has followed since he escaped from the Parental school on Jamaica avenue, taking goods to the amount of $300. Skip is 14. Once he earned distinction as the leader of the Morro Castle gang. Three months ago Skip was sent to the truant school in Flushing. After two months in the school Skip ran away.

Last week a truant officer spotted Skip on the fishing steamer Taurus. Only a quick dive overboard when the boat was off East thirty-third street saved Skip from a second trip to Flushing. Mrs. Frieda Lang came to this country from Budapest a Hindu more than a week ago. Skip learned of the new lodger in his ballroom, and probably also heard the gossip that she kept in her room a chest of silver. Early Thursday afternoon while Mrs. Lang and her son were out Skip slipped up the stairs at 350 East Thirty-third street. The three or four old keys taken the first one he tried opened the door. Skip found the silver chest. Though its size was somewhat disappointing he thrust it under his coat. With a day.

OFFICER MAHAN FIVE YEGGMEN

Getting Evidence in Blew Open Safe of State Shooting Case Bank

Special Officer John W. Mahan of the Tremont & Suffolk mills, who was the first officer to learn of the shooting of Georgeopoulos by Genakos Saturday night, and who gave chase to the alleged murderer, is busily engaged in gathering evidence in connection with the case. Mr. Mahan by his active duty during the past few years has materially assisted the local police in gathering evidence.

TAXI CRUSHED ON BRIDGE
NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—A taxicab belonging to the New York Taxicab company was crushed on the south roadway of the Brooklyn bridge last night between a Putnam avenue trolley car and a heavy truck. The chauffeur had attempted to run past the truck ahead of the street car. The driver was unhurt.

The cruiser Chester has sailed from Hampton Roads for Delaware Breakwater, the collier Marcellus from Pensacola for Newport News, the cruiser Tacoma from Cristobal for Bluefields, the battleship New Hampshire from Portsmouth, N. H., for Cape Cod bay and the cruiser Prairie from Hampton Roads for Cape Cod bay.

GOVERNOR HUGHES
ASKED TO HONOR WARRANT FOR EXTRADITION

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 2.—Governor Hughes was asked today to honor a warrant issued by Governor Pothier of Rhode Island for the extradition of John Qualey and Harvey Wiley Corbett, who are under arrest in New York, charged with conspiracy to defraud Mrs. Mary Nevins Bull, widow of Dr. William T. Bull, in selling her $35,000 stocks in the Magnolia-Asbestos Co., alleged to be worthless. The warrant was presented by Chief of Police Crowley of Newport. Governor Hughes took the papers under consideration.

STILL NO TRACE MAN DROPPED DEAD

As to Whereabouts of Margaret Harrington He Expired Suddenly on the South Common

As yet no trace of the missing Margaret Harrington, who abandoned her six weeks old baby in Tewksbury has been discovered by the police, and the little one is still at the Children's Home in Kirk street, where she has endeavored herself to everyone connected with that worthy institution. The police are inclined to believe that the story of the mother to the effect that she only arrived in this country a few months ago is not true. They think that she has been here some time and is being cared for "under cover" by friends. "She's a lovely baby," says the enthusiastic matron of the Children's Home, and Miss O'Leary is an expert on children.

HUSKY OFFICERS ARE WANTED ON NEW YORK POLICE FORCE

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—The municipal civil service commissioners, with the assent of Mayor Gaynor have decided to lower what is known as the mental test in the examination of candidates for patrolmen. The questions under this head comprise verbal examinations on abstract matters concerning the running of the city government, and particularly an examination of the candidate's knowledge of the city. Some of the tests under the last named head have included such questions as the number of parks in Brooklyn or Manhattan and the number and names of the thoroughfares in the greater city, which not one New Yorker in 10,000 could answer.

The purpose mainly in making the change is to induce husky men from the country to seek places on the police force. The number of applicants who have taken the examinations this year has been extremely small comparatively, and it is hoped to make up for this deficiency by attracting rural candidates for the service. It is felt by the civil service commissioners and the mayor that while these men would of course have little knowledge of the city's thoroughfares, they would be enough in the six months they would have to serve on probation to be able then to direct strangers about town.

MAN WAS TOO HASTILY A HERO

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—Francis J. Mahan, who lives at 523 72nd street, Bay Ridge, and drives a department of the city's automobiles, was waiting for Dock Commissioners Tomkins by the recreation pier at the foot of East 24th street yesterday afternoon, when a man leaning over the first floor railing of the pier tumbled overboard. Mahan slipped off his coat, jumped out of the automobile and dived into the water. He got the man and swam with him to the stringpiece, where Policeman Kirschoff threw him a rope. The man was Andrew Mackey, 61 years old, a laborer employed in the staff of assistants Raymond G. Brown. Brown is a graduate of the Harvard law school and is totally blind.

Mahan related to the city bathhouse nearby and wrung out his trousers. He discovered that he had lost $100, his month's wages, from his pockets. He said he would have to tell Commissioner Tomkins about his loss.

BLIND MAN APPOINTED
NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—U. S. Dist. Atty. Henry A. Wise has appointed to his staff of assistants Raymond G. Brown. Brown is a graduate of the Harvard law school and is totally blind.

BOOKS WERE PRODUCED

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—The missing books of the United Wireless Telegraph Co. hopped into view today. A puggy-faced messenger boy came tripping into the federal building with them just before the expiration of the time limit set for their production. "I got them up on 42nd street to deliver here," was all the explanation the boy had to offer. The action against the company was in connection with charges that the value of stock offered for sale had been misrepresented.

CHILD KILLED THE O. M. I. CADETS

While She Was Caring To Go to Camp for Three Days For Doll

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—Some girl friends were to visit her today so Edna Stauff of 223 West 142d street, the 12-year-old daughter of Louis Stauff, a clerk in the General Postoffice, went home from play early yesterday evening, washed all of her doll's dresses and started to hang them out to dry. The Stauffs live on the top floor of a five-story building and the clothesline runs from the rear fire escape to a pole in the yard. To make herself a little taller Edna stood on the first round of the fire escape ladder and reached out. She was pressing a clothespin over a tiny skirt when her feet slipped, she dropped through the opening in the fire escape balcony, struck the fourth floor railing and bounced off into the air.

Two women who live in the house—Mrs. Mary Farrell and Mrs. Clara Fenton—were talking together when they saw the little girl fall. Mrs. Farrell ran down and picked her up. Edna's head was crushed. She was unconscious. Dr. Richardson hurried the child to the Harlem hospital. She died there a little afterward.

PILGRIM DAY
NAVY TO PLAY PROMINENT PART IN MONUMENT DEDICATION

PROVINCETOWN, Mass. Aug. 2.—Thirteen of Uncle Sam's heavyweight fighters have invaded Massachusetts Bay with five auxiliaries for the summer manoeuvres and to assist President Taft in dedicating the Pilgrim monument on Aug. 5. The battleships in the bay are the flagship Connecticut, the North Carolina, Rhode Island, Mississippi, Michigan, New Hampshire, Kansas, Nebraska and Vermont. Among the speakers at the dedication in addition to President Taft will be Gov. Draper, United States Senator Lodge, President Eliot of Harvard, and Congressman James T. McClary of Minnesota. The great Pilgrim monument on Town hill will commemorate the signing of the Pilgrim's historical compact of government. This and the Standish monument, which mark the two most important events in the Pilgrims' early history. The dedication ceremonies will be presided over by President Taft, who is to come across the bay on the yacht Mayflower from his summer home at Beverly, as came former President Roosevelt from Oyster Bay two years ago on the occasion of the laying of the cornerstone. The president at that time took occasion to severely reprimand "certain malefactors of great wealth," and his utterances concerning corporations resulted in a semi-pauper on the New York Stock Exchange. It is probable that President Taft's remarks on Friday will be less forceful and confined probably to subjects germane to the occasion.

WENT TO REVERE
The regular semi-weekly excursion from Lowell to Revere beach was held this morning. Two special cars leaving Merrimack square at 8:15 o'clock. A POLITICAL WAR

Tarrytown Women Engaged in a Bitter Fight

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—The recent meetings held at Tarrytown, N. Y., in the interest of woman's suffrage under the auspices of the Hudson River Equal Rights association, at the homes of Mrs. Roswell Skelton, Mrs. Charles J. Gould, Mrs. Henry Villard and others, has borne fruit. A large number of prominent women in Tarrytown intend to exercise their rights at the annual school meeting to be held in the Washington Irving high school tonight.

The election promises to be the hottest in the history of the district, for the women have not only named a ticket in opposition to the regular board, but are making a house to house canvass soliciting votes. Tickets have been printed and are being distributed where they will do the most good.

In addition, the women have come out with a letter which reads as follows:

"On Tuesday evening, Aug. 2, the annual school meeting for the election of school trustees and transaction of other business will be held in this village at the W. H. S. at 8 o'clock.

This year three school teachers are to be chosen by the vote of the people to care for our school interests. Many of the women of Tarrytown, mothers and friends of the children and young people who spend so many hours within the schoolroom walls, feel that this matter calls for lively interest on their part and should be as near their hearts as their hospitals, Y. M. C. A., church or home interests. Therefore, a num-

WAR BROKE OUT

Between the Hackmen and Chauffeurs

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—Warfare again broke out in Hoboken yesterday between public hackmen and A. Philip Hackmen, the Hudson street livery stable proprietor who has the exclusive hauling privileges at the steamship pier under contracts with the various steamship companies. The hackmen have long resented the action of the companies in refusing to permit them to drive their vehicles within the private enclosures outside the piers in order to canvass for fares and on several occasions they have made strenuous kicks.

Many ocean travelers greatly prefer an automobile ride to a coach ride to their homes or hotels on their arrival from abroad, and Hexamer has an arrangement with the New York Taxicab company to furnish him with all the red buzz wagons he needs when ships come in. Yesterday nine taxis were sent to the Holland-America Line pier to meet the demand, and the Hoboken hackmen decided that it was time for action.

James Blanchfield, Edward Flaherty and Edward Loftus, who have been having a hard time trying to compete with Hexamer, complained to the police that the taxicab chauffeurs were hawking without a license, and Herbert Anderson of 1736 Lexington avenue, Manhattan; James O'Keefe of 355 West 124th street, Manhattan, and Harry Gerken of 1355 Putnam avenue, Brooklyn, were arrested.

The chauffeurs were directed to drive around to police headquarters and Anderson and Gerken's fares went with them. O'Keefe had no passengers.

Anderson's fare was a sick woman, who complained of the inconvenience and distress of being held up in front of a police station pending the settlement of the case, and Recorder McGovern paroled the chauffeur until he had a chance to take the woman to the Pennsylvania railroad station in Jersey City. Then he returned to the Hoboken for an examination in the recorder's court.

John Purcell of 504 West 144th street, Manhattan, who had telephoned to the office of the New York Taxicab company for a taxi to meet Mrs. King and Miss King at the steamship pier, was also indicted because Chauffeur Gerken was unable to take the women directly to their destination.

Recorder McGovern fined the three chauffeurs $10 each, and all paid under protest. Hexamer denounced the arrest of the men as an outrage and said he would test the case in the upper courts. He held that the taxicab men had a right to do business under his direction in Hoboken without molestation.

TWO RESCUED TAKEN FROM SURF AT CONEY ISLAND

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—Coney Island saw two rescued persons caught in the unusually heavy undertow yesterday. Lena Grossman of 641 Sackman street, Brooklyn, went beyond her depth in front of Balmer's bathing place at the foot of West 57th street and was seized there by the undertow. A life guard, got her back to the beach. He and Dr. O. Pensky of the Coney Island hospital worked over her for an hour and restored her to consciousness. She was taken to the hospital and it remains for at least two days whether she will survive.

The other rescue was that of William Coker of 34 Attorney street, who was dragged out of the surf by James Miller, a member of the United States Volunteer Life Saving Corps. Miller answered Coker's call for help when the latter was about 300 feet from shore. Coker is a large man and Miller weighs only about 150 pounds. As soon as the life saver got to him Coker grabbed him around the neck and a struggle ensued. Miller finally got his man to the beach and revived him. Coker was taken to the Deane and Emergency hospital for treatment.

TOWN MEETING DRACUT CITIZENS VOTE IN FAVOR OF $5000 LOAN

At the special meeting of the citizens of Dracut, held last night, the voters present unanimously voted to order a loan of $5000 to defray town expenses in anticipation of taxes, the money to be borrowed as necessity requires it.

THE ON LEONGS HAD A BIG TIME IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—The Joss of Quong Gung, a younger god, was worshipped by the On Leongs last night and the fifteen hundredth anniversary of his birth was as properly celebrated as a near by empty strong box would permit. One hundred of his worshippers climbed steep steps to the banquet hall at 14 Mott street under the suspicious eyes of the police, here and there delayed by rude hands that rubbed their clothes in search of a forbidden weapon.

The banquet was enjoyed the more for its delay and restrictions. It should have been held on Sunday, but Capt. Hodgins said "No." Then the On Leongs were told that there could be no fireworks set off to frighten away the devil. The town was permitted to collect what stray musicians from the old Chinese theatre orchestra it might make the night noisy with sweet sounds.

Neither the venerable Tom Lee nor Police Captain Hodgins was at the dinner. Captain Hodgins was at the dinner, "too ancient" and Capt. Hodgins didn't seem as interested in the banquet as by the scurrying crowds in the streets.

The banquet was commenced in the early afternoon and the rows of courtesans on the floor did not suffer a break until the place where the revels happened in the evening. The almost jovial On Leongs trotted down stairs to their meeting room and talked and talked business until they were all serious again. That took two hours. After the business talk was over they talked back to finish the remaining twelve courses of the dinner.

From that time on a noticed link Kah boys bustling through the streets bearing by bamboo poles upon their shoulders baskets of rice wine bottles—empty.

On Pell street, the home of the rival link, the men sat meekly by the steps and whispered. No one of them was going to stray very far from home on such a night.

Two more victims.

TIGERAN, Aug. 2.—The campaign of assassination carried on between the reactionists and the adherents of the new order in Persia, claimed two more victims last night. Ali Mohammed, one of the prominent nationalist leaders, and one of his associates were shot dead, apparently in reprisal for the recent murder of the reactionary Seyid Abdullah.

CARDINAL VANNUTELLI

PAPAL LEGATE

Cardinal Vannutelli is Going to Montreal

ROME, Aug. 2.—The pope received yesterday, in private audience, Rt. Rev.

James J. Hartley, bishop of Columbus, O. Bishop Hartley presented a report upon conditions in his diocese.

Cardinal Vincenzo Vannutelli, who has been appointed papal legate to the eucharistic congress which will be held at Montreal in September, will leave on August 21 for Canada. His suite will include two papal private chamberlains, Thomas Kelly of New York and Lemoyne D'Alaric, a Canadian, just appointed to that rank by the pontiff, for the purpose of honoring Canada.

CRUELTY CHARGE MAN ARRESTED

Youth Said to be Overworked After He Had Answered Decoy Advertisement

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—Edward Lunenburg, 25 years old, a driver living at 338 Third avenue, yesterday answered an advertisement for a "useful man" in a boarding house at 115 West 44th street. He had answered a similar one the previous Monday, secured that job and left it in two hours.

George Litten, who runs a theatrical boarding house at 217 West 43rd street, had inserted both ads, the former in good faith, the latter as a decoy. He says that with the departure of Lunenburg about $300 worth of clothing and jewelry belonging to his roomers disappeared.

The boarding house keeper was on hand when Lunenburg answered the second ad, so was Detective Kahn.

WOMEN BARRED

Uncle Sam Calls for Male Stenographers

Secretary Murphy of the board of trade has received from the civil service commission the announcement of examinations on Aug. 23 for the position of stenographers and typewriters in the federal service for male employees only.

The examination in this state will be held in Beacon.

As several recent examinations have failed to secure a sufficient number of eligibles, all men who are willing to accept appointment at Washington, D. C., an entrance salary of $340 or $360 per annum, and who can comply with the requirements, are urged to enter this examination.

In accordance with a recent act of congress an applicant for this examination will be required to be examined in the state or territory in which he resides and to show in his application that he has been actually domiciled in such state or territory for at least one year previous to the date of the examination.

Age limit, 18 years or over on the date of the examination.

This announcement and form 1421, "Information for applicants for the stenographer and typewriter examination," will be sent to all citizens of the United States who comply with the requirements.

Applicants should at once apply for form 1421 and application form 304, either to the United States civil service commission, Washington, D. C., or to the secretary of the board of examiners as follows: postoffice, Boston, Mass.; Philadelphia, Pa.; Atlanta, Ga.; Cincinnati, Ohio; Chicago, Ill.; St. Paul, Minn.; Seattle, Wash.; San Francisco, Cal.; custom house, New York, N. Y.; New Orleans, La.; and custom house, St. Louis, Mo. No application will be accepted unless properly executed and filed with the commission at Washington. In applying for this examination the exact title as given at the head of this announcement should be used in the application.

As examination papers are shipped direct from the commission to the places of examination, it is necessary that applications be received in ample time to arrange for the examination desired at the place of examination. The commission will arrange to examine any applicant whose application is received in time to permit the shipment of the necessary papers.

WHITE MEN ARRESTED

Charged With Being Implicated in Murder of Negroes

PALESTINE, Tex., Aug. 2.—Ten white men were arrested yesterday and put in jail charged with being implicated in the mob violence in the south—three days in which many negroes were slaughtered. Sheriff Black, who has returned from a visit to the scene of the bloodshed, said:

"We won't find some of the bodies until the location is revealed to us by the buzzards. I found the greatest excitement. Men were killing negroes as fast as they could find them, and so far as I have been able to ascertain without any real cause. These negroes have never done anything that I could discover. There was just a hot headed gang hunting them down and killing them."

"We found 11 dead bodies, but from what I have heard the dead must number 15 or 20. We came across four bodies in one house on a marsh between Denson Springs and Slocum. I understand that Mrs. George Scarborough of Slocum saw a party of 40 or 50 go through her field. Some of them cut the wire and went through on horseback and some of them walked through. They went across to the house where we found the four dead bodies.

"One negro had been killed at this house the night before and three were sitting up with the remains, one of them being old and white haired. These three were killed right where they were. So far as I can learn the negroes were not armed."

"I sent two deputies out through that country to collect all the arms they could find in the houses of negroes. They made a thorough search, but found only nine single barreled shotguns, none of which seemed to have been fired lately, and about 30 shells all loaded with small shot."

"I think the most of that crowd of men came from Houston county, and according to what I am told, the shooting was still going on last yesterday evening. They were hunting the negroes down like sheep. We found two in the road that had been shot about 10 o'clock the night before last."

"It was evident that at the time they were killed they were trying to get out of the country, for they had their bundles of clothes with them."

PLAYGROUND WORK

Supt. Whitcomb is Very Much Interested in It

Arthur K. Whitcomb, superintendent of schools, is very much interested in the organized playground work that is being carried on in Lowell. In conversation with a reporter for The Sun, Mr. Whitcomb said:

"I think that all the school teachers in Lowell would avail themselves of the opportunity to see the folk dancing that is being done under the supervision of the playground instructors."

The dancing takes place in the Morrill school in the morning and in the Eliot school in the afternoon. Mr. Whitcomb dropped in at the Morrill school this morning and remained for nearly an hour. He allows that the folk dancing can be taught in all of the schools and that is why he is anxious that the teachers become interested.

It is a training in rhythm and social life and it adds snap and zest to the boy or girl who does it, said Mr. Whitcomb.

The playground is a great thing, especially under supervision. Few who have not witnessed it can understand how party spirit, class spirit and even race spirit fade out in the intense civic and community atmosphere of these playgrounds. It is pure democracy getting its opportunity to improve itself working itself free from prejudice and narrowness by organized play.

The board of aldermen will meet this evening and there is a raft of business to come before the meeting. The meeting will be a special one. The call was issued late yesterday afternoon and was due to the pressure of business. The aldermen hope that this will be the last meeting until September.

Phenazants at City Farm

Martin F. Conley, superintendent of the city farm, says there are lots of pheasants at the farm. He says that he has seen several flocks within the last week. He says the young pheasants look and walk like young turkeys.

His Picture Accepted

44 Magnolia street, Dorchester, Mass.

Hon. John F. Meehan, Mayor of the City of Lowell.

My dear sir:

Accept my thanks for your very kind letter of July 6, accepting the oil portrait of my father, Mr. David Rogers, to be placed in the city hall of Lowell. The portrait is now in the hands of an artist to be put in perfect condition. I will advise you when it is ready to send.

Very respectfully,

Mrs. Mary P. Robertson.

THE A. O. H. PARADE

List of Contributions Received From Local Merchants

The reception committee of the Central council of Hibernians, which is composed of one representative from each of the five local divisions, has elected Daniel J. Murphy, chairman. Mr. Murphy, besides being one of the oldest Hibernians in the city, was the first state president. He is a member of Division 2. William Nelson of Division 11 was chosen secretary of the committee and the other members are John Barrett of Division 8, James E. Burns of Division 1 and Hubert McQuade of Division 25. It is the intention of this committee to establish a booth at the Middlesex street station from the Sunday previous to the opening of the convention to the following Thursday. The list of houses and hotels where accommodations may be secured by the visitors will be kept at this booth.

One of the features of the week will be the grand ball which is to be held in Associate hall on Monday evening, Aug. 22. Mr. James E. Burns has been elected chairman of the ball committee and his assistants are Michael S. Wynn, John P. Sheehan, Benjamin Gagan and Owen Haley.

FETE CHAMPETRE TO BE HELD BY PEOPLE OF ST. LOUIS' PARISH

On Aug. 24 and 25 the people of St. Louis' parish will hold a grand Fete Champetre on the vacant lot surrounding the church, and it promises to be the most elaborate affair of its kind held in Lowell this season. A feature of the evening will be a vaudeville entertainment with professional talent from out of town. Rev. Abbe Fortier is in charge of the arrangements and he has a bustling committee with him.

Dancing at Willow Dale

All old time music to be played every Wednesday night at Breezy Point, such as Annie Rooney, Two Little Girls in Blue, Dixie's Dream, Down Went McGillicuddy, Maggie Morgan's Home and others. Music by Hubbard's orchestra. Songs to be sung by Jack Manchester.

THE LOWELL SUN

THREE DOLLARS PER YEAR. TWENTY-FIVE CENTS PER MONTH

16,828

Sworn to by John H. Harrington, proprietor, Martin H. Reidy, business manager, and Alfred Pilote, pressman, of The Sun, before me, January 1, 1910. J. JOSEPH HENNESSY, Notary Public

This is by far the largest average circulation of any newspaper in Lowell.

Dr. McCarty is right. The board of charities should go ahead, attend to their own affairs and do the best they can. When they present their report to the city government signed without any hesitation by the proper officials the public can then make comparisons and render their judgment.

Mr. Bryan went from tariff reform to free silver. Then he abandoned free silver for government ownership of railroads. Now he abandons government ownership which even he sees is impracticable for the present at least, and goes in for prohibition. The party followed him on every previous trip, but it looks as if it would balk this time. Just imagine the solid south considering a prohibitory plank at a national democratic convention. It certainly would be interesting.

PRESIDENTIAL JOY RIDES

The New York World figures out that the presidential joy rides in the last five years cost the government $1,455,261. This represents the cost of maintaining the Mayflower, Dolphin and Sylph as pleasure boats. As commander-in-chief of the army and navy the president can at any time order out these boats for a tour. As a result the presidents have all done so until it has come to be the established custom.

WHAT OTHER CITIES ARE DOING

The city of Fall River has just completed a very fine contagious hospital at an expense exceeding $75,000. It is also maintaining a number of shacks in the open air for consumptive patients during the summer season besides providing the best medical care and treatment.

The city of Lawrence has a consumptives' hospital well equipped in every way so that it can treat all the patients of this class in the most approved manner. Lowell has neither a contagious hospital nor a consumptives' hospital, but it is to be hoped that in the near future we shall have at least a contagious hospital which the law requires every city to have. The other will also be provided in due time.

We notice that the proper authorities are to put up suitable signs in Merrimack square and adjacent street corners warning automobilists of the speed limits, and also notifying them of the ordinances prohibiting unreasonable delay in this much congested section of the city. Putting up warning signs is not all that is necessary. What we want is a vigorous enforcement of the speed laws. If nothing else will bring reckless chauffeurs to their senses a few good sized fines, and, if necessary where the violations are flagrant, a few days behind the bars will certainly operate to secure the safety of pedestrians in Merrimack square.

We have not yet heard of any enforcement of the law which obliges all auto drivers to run at an extremely low rate or come to a stop when approaching a street car where passengers are alighting or entering. We have seen numerous instances of reckless violations of this law right under our windows in the square, and we think it is about time that the officers enforced this very wise provision. People getting on or off a street car seldom take the precaution to look up and down the street to see if any wild man in a gasoline juggernaut is approaching, and it should not be necessary for the ordinary street car traveller to look and jump and squirm to save his life when entering or leaving a street car. The law puts the burden on the operator of the automobile, and this is as it should be. Passengers should be able to enter or alight from a street car without any needless risk of life or limb, and it is up to the police authorities to protect them by enforcing this very proper provision of the law governing automobiles.

GIVE HIM A CHANCE

Our new smoke inspector should have every facility for performing his duties not only efficiently but comfortably. He should have a good office in a suitable location to observe the various violations of the law, and should have the necessary office equipment to keep his records, correspondence, accounts, etc. But when he gets all these things is it too much to expect that he shall be an inspector who inspects? We hailed his coming with satisfaction, but thus far we have heard of no prosecutions nor any vigorous demands for the enforcement of the smoke law from our new smoke inspector. Nevertheless, we are all disposed to give him a fair chance, and will patiently await the time when he is properly equipped for the campaigning. When that time arrives, which we hope will be very soon, we feel that he should wade in and do something. The smoke nuisance is as bad today as it ever was, and to our mind it is a little worse at night time than it used to be. This leads to the question as to how the smoke inspector can detect violations of the law at night. He has no means of illuminating the sky to see whether the chimneys which have behaved well during the daytime have suddenly become violators under the cover of darkness. Yet if all we hear is true, there are chimneys which have a fashion of behaving themselves during the daytime and then cutting up in the most abominable manner at night.

Housekeepers in several sections of the city declare that they find larger deposits of soot and ashes on their premises in the morning than they do during the rest of the day, and if they are right, this would indicate that somebody is violating the law when they think the inspector cannot apprehend them. Now they cannot find a clever inspector, and if we have one in this newly created office, then he can go out and make close observations at night and catch the offenders red-handed or black-handed, if you will. We drop this hint to our smoke inspector in the hope that he may take advantage of it. Meanwhile we are in favor of granting him any reasonable request for office equipment, and if he proves himself a worthy and capable official we are in favor of giving him a salary in proportion to his services. But as we said in the beginning we want a smoke inspector who will inspect.

SEEN AND HEARD

Love grows cold when the oven isn't watched.

Doubt kills as much affection as downright indifference.

Trust begets trust, and two trusts may be called a monopoly.

The baby settles many differences when it begins to howl for attention.

The muse induces some to poetize gold, others to gild poetry.

The silence of a fool is better than his talk and just as meaningless.

A hot night it was, so hot that even for a person making no exertion it was simply impossible to keep comfortable. Then through the open windows came the busy whirr-r-r of a sewing machine. Even on this hot night somebody was toiling.

"Some slave of the needle," said the visitor, "compelled even into the night to struggle for the barest existence. Pity."

"Pity nothing," said the hostess. "Ten to one this slave of the needle is a live-lie girl who is going to start for the country tomorrow and who is sewing away now like mad putting the last tucks and flounces in some fluffy summer frock that she's simply got to finish tonight because the man is coming for the trunk in the morning."

A HOT-WEATHER CRY
Oho, ye winds, ye whistling winds,
That howled and blew all winter,
Unsettling trees and smashing blinds
And fencin' to a splinter,
Whether you are, or fear or far,
By terrible summer driven,
Come back once more and howl and
And all will be forgiven!

Alas! ye gales, ye frigid gales,
That shrieked about the river,
Your cold breath caused us many walls
And made us shrink and shiver,
We made a screen, "Turn on more steam!"
In frantic hope to chase you;
But now if you would howl a few
We'd gratefully embrace you!

—Pam West.

"There is no place," remarked the barber, "where it is so hard to satisfy a patron as in a barber shop, no matter how much the barber may try. Some men want a shave five minutes, once over. Others want a man to pull all the time at his disposal with all of the twists and turns and lollies and conics. Some men want only cold water. Another will want warm water on his towel and still another will want a red hot one followed by a cold one. Some like bay rum and some like witchhazel. Some like moth. Occasionally a man will not want cold cream on his face and another will

PEOPLE OF NOTE

Baron Oura, Japanese minister of commerce and agriculture, is on his way to America for a visit.

Professor Oscar Kuhns, of Wesleyan university, who has a well-earned reputation as a lecturer and critic, has passed several long vacations in Switzerland and knows the country and people intimately. From material on hand he has collected matter for a good descriptive book on that country, illustrated by photographs of famous historic scenes, mountain peaks and lakes.

American residents in Japan and China, both missionaries and business men, are signing a widely circulated petition which asks school authorities of American cities as well as the governing bodies of all institutions of higher learning to introduce courses in Asiatic history into their curricula. The argument urges that American young people now learn something about the history of all the rest of the world, but nothing at all about the oldest of existing civilizations. Such a course would, it is believed, make the next generation fairer to Chinese and Japanese and so eliminate the friction which occasionally causes talk of war with the oriental powers.

Mrs. Margaret Deland of Newbury street, Boston, the writer, is at her summer home at Kennebunkport, Me., where she is devoting several hours daily to her literary work. Mrs. Deland has adopted the habit of sleeping in the open this summer.

The Marchesa de Viti de Marco, formerly Miss Etta Dunham of New York, has started in Rome an organization from which good results are expected. It is a practical guide for all the benevolent institutions in the internal city with branches to look up the records of the different applicants, and with a bank to make small loans, without interest, to needy and worthy persons; no loan exceeds $20, while in many cases there are loans of $1. It is really touching, says a correspondent, to see the amount of good which is done through this limited help, and the very slight loss which occurs to the bank during the year is remarkable. Some ask a loan to pay rent, others to pay taxes, some poor girls to pay the instalments on their sewing machines. One mother borrowed $14 to pay the passage of her son to America, a student $20 to print a thesis, a pupil, while a girl got $10 to buy her trousseau. This charity is supported through volunteer contributions, the most generous donor so far being Augustus Gurnee of New York, who gives $100 yearly. To understand the utility of the institution started by Marchesa de Viti de Marco it must be known that Rome is one of the poorest cities in the world, and the great amount of funds for benevolent purposes, but many of the institutions intrusted with these funds are ruled by such antiquated by-laws as to make it difficult to reach them, while in other cases the institutions themselves have no means of discovering the persons they should benefit.

Miss Mary McDowell of the University of Chicago Settlement has accepted the post of member from the Fourth Senatorial District of the Advisory Council of the Legislative Voters' League. It is her duty to stir up women's influence to secure a class of candidates which will better represent the district in the legislature.

SECY BALLINGER HAS ORDERED ANOTHER INVESTIGATION
WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—All of the Alaskan coal land claims, with the exception of the famous Cunningham group, will be reinvestigated by order of Secretary of the Interior Ballinger. The work will be in charge of Andrew Christensen, who succeeded Louis C. Brown as chief of the field division of the general land office with headquarters at Portland, Ore., which had charge of the Alaskan district.

In view of the importance of the Alaskan coal fields, the investigation of the claims has been separated from the Portland office and Mr. Christensen, with the title of chief of field division with a charge of Alaskan coal lands investigation, will examine the 800 or more entries, averaging 150 acres to the claim. Some of these claims were examined by Mr. Glavis.

The Cunningham claims will be excepted from the investigation because they have already been reinvestigated and the record is now in the general land office awaiting action by the commissioner.

HEALTH DEPT.

NATIONAL BUREAU IS NECESSARY SAYS MISS HAZARD

Miss Caroline Hazard, whose resignation from the presidency of Wellesley college has just been announced, makes the following statement in regard to the proposed national department of health:

"The women of the country ought to be deeply interested in the passage of the Owen bill, for the establishment of a department of public health, for various reasons. 'Women are the natural conservers of the health of the household. Every mother gives her children their health at birth and cares for them as they grow up. Unfortunately, this care is too often without a basis of sound knowledge. Departments of hygiene are being established for training in physical development in many colleges, both for men and women. The director of this department at Wellesley college has recently written: 'Whenever the need has been recognized in communities for establishing a form of hygienic enlightenment, and a real opportunity made of it, the results have invariably been most marked.'"

"All that we can really know is our own experience, but the wise person can reason from that and generalize from the special and from the individual rise to some apprehension of the universal. A woman of even very limited experience must have had some knowledge of ill health, either in her own person or in those she loves. In the old days in almost every village there was a woman who was wise in her head and various 'simples' who was a power in the community. People appealed to 'witch-doctors,' and in cases of grave illness resorted to treatment which was a survival of the old method of incantation and exorcism. In all these things women have been prominent for they were impelled by the great duty of the very best that is in them, the duty of mother-love which is at the root of every good woman's character, and the faith in the unseen which lies at the foundation of religion. A blind and foolish faith it very possibly was—a faith that could not work the marvels it hoped for—but true and genuine of its kind, and full of the instinct of service."

"These days are passed. The secrets of life are being studied as never before, principles of right living are being deduced from observed facts of physical existence. What used to be called the visitations of God are shown to be the carelessness of man. The law of God is holy, and must produce wholeness of body and mind. But the law is relentless, and if broken, exacts its penalty. The study of these laws of being is engaging many of the most brilliant and profound minds in all countries. The results of this study are transforming the thought of the civilized world."

"The Owen bill provides for a department of health which will have at heart the care of the people, and will pass on to them, in a more direct and immediate way than is possible through the slow percolation of general knowledge, the results of all this special and expert study. 'Tuberculosis,' which claims its victims by the thousands, is a disease of ignorance. It can be controlled. Through selfish greed our sea coast is in danger of being the open door to some of the terrible Asiatic plagues, diseases of sin and filth. It would be the duty of such a department to protect our borders. Diseases of ignorance and malnutrition in the south threaten us. Prevention of public health and the spread of disease germs which propagate by the hundred million, and destroy the bodies which that food is meant to nourish? 'This is a simple question when must appeal to every woman, to every mother, to every woman who loves her own family, and is therefore prepared to understand her duty to her neighbor.'"

HORSE TROUBLES ASSAULT CHARGE

Treatment For Inflammation of Kidneys Mayor Found a Police Officer Guilty

WORCESTER, Aug. 2.—Mayor Logan handed down his decision yesterday in the case of Police Patrolman Charles E. Kenney, who was suspended July 23 on a charge of assaulting a young boy who, the officer said, called him a vile name. The mayor finds the officer guilty of the assault and orders that he pay a fine of 10 days' pay or quit the police department.

Kenney has gone back to his trade as stonecutter, at which he can earn more money than as a policeman and it is said he will not return to police duty. Mayor Logan said he regretted to be called on to discipline an officer or any other city employee, but thinks that the discipline of the municipal forces requires that something be done to keep the men where they belong.

Even though the boy called the officer a vile name, the mayor says the policeman should not take the law into his own hands.

Suspicion That Man Hid Securities

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—Coincident with the appearance yesterday of Edwin Johann Wider, a $25 a week cashier who confessed to taking $500,000 worth of securities from the local agency of the Russo-Chinese bank, the district attorney's office began a search for a part of the loot on the theory that Wider may have secreted possibly half a million dollars in securities somewhere, instead of having lost it in speculation.

It is suspected Wider has hidden away the greater part of the securities. This conclusion is said to be based on the failure of the authorities, after going over all the books of the brokerage firms with which Wider said he did business, to find records of transactions amounting to more than $200,000.

Acting Dist. Atty. Frank Moss is contemplating going before the grand jury and asking for additional indictments against Wider.

Wider was not forced, as expected, to plead yesterday to the indictment charging him with grand larceny. When he appeared in court yesterday afternoon for arraignment, his counsel announced that the district attorney's office had consented to a brief postponement of the pleading. Accordingly, Judge O'Sullivan set Wednesday as the day for receiving Wider's plea, and Wider was taken back to his cell in the Tombs.

"R.—SLEEP OUTDOORS. John Up To Date, M. D."

By CHARLES N. LURIE.

ARE you well, and do you wish to remain well? Sleep outdoors. Are you ill, and do you wish to regain health? Again, sleep outdoors. In every gradation of health or illness the admonition is given, and it is being heeded throughout the land.

If one were inclined to be irreverent or to jest with a really serious subject one might say that sleeping outdoors is the latest fad of the physicians, physiologists and health culturists.

In a sense, sleeping outdoors may be termed a phase of the "back to nature" movement that has attracted so much notice in recent years. Its advocacy is a part of the propaganda for the substitution of saner, simpler, more primitive methods of living for present day artificial modes. But it is more than that. It is a distinct and very valuable therapeutic agency in the treatment of various diseases, notably tuberculosis. In many cases gratifying results have followed the substitution of outdoor for indoor sleeping, in conjunction with other methods of treatment.

An Authority on the Subject.

Writing on "Outdoor Sleeping," Dr. Thomas Speer Carrington, assistant secretary of the National Association For the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis, says:

"Outdoor sleeping is not a fad, nor is it to be considered only as a means for curing disease. Thousands of healthy families have their sleeping porches. One large house in a middle western city, whose inmates are strong and healthy, has sleeping porches attached to nearly all of its bedrooms. 'This new custom has come to stay, for once a person becomes accustomed to the open air he cannot be persuaded to sleep again in a stuffy bedroom. The man or woman who has risen from bed morning after morning for years with 'that tired feeling' will not go back to habits of life which cause this condition when so simple a remedy as a night in the open air prevents it. 'Any person can sleep out of doors, as the expense of arranging a shelter is small. Any permanent veranda large enough to hold a bed can be screened or boarded enough for protection almost without cost. If there are a few old boards around the house build a protection for the head of your bed on your front porch and make the experiment of sleeping out one night, using an ordinary single bed and the same bedding that is usually upon it. After a night or two you will feel so fresh and bright in the morning that you will begin to plan for a permanent outdoor sleeping arrangement, and wonder how you were ever able to sleep in the house.'"

Easy In Summer, but In Winter—

It is of course easy in summer to carry into execution the plan of sleeping outdoors. When the air within four walls, however well provided with windows, is stifling and any breeze that blows brings only the suggestion of a Saharan almon, not much argument is required to convince a person that he should "take up his bed and walk" outdoors. Nothing worse than a sudden thunderstorm, with its remote threat of a wetting, is to be feared. The only requisite is privacy, and that can be obtained easily everywhere save in the congested tenement districts. Advising us on how to keep cool in summer, Dr. Graeme Hammond, the well known New York health authority, says: "Sleep outdoors, if you can,

by all means. It is the best thing you can do, and there is not a bit of danger in it."

But in winter, the cold season, "when the wintry winds do blow," as the song has it, sleeping outdoors is a different proposition. It takes nerve to consider sleeping outside when the mercury displays a tendency to drop through the bottom of the thermometer.

The icy north wind is harder to face than the summer breeze, no matter how hot the latter may be. Perhaps it is a reversion to ancestral instincts that makes us fear cold more than heat, although it is fairly certain that extreme heat, combined with humidity, kills more persons in this country than extreme cold. But nevertheless it is in winter no less than in summer that the benefits of outdoor sleeping are to be enjoyed. Escape from the stifled, generally superheated atmosphere of indoors is of vital importance to the sufferer from disease, and for the well person also, since it is in this atmosphere that so many illnesses are bred and propagated. It is only a few years since the house physician of Fordham hospital,

Youngsters Like the Idea.

As the entire trend of modern medicine is toward prevention rather than cure, it is well to emphasize the importance laid upon outdoor sleeping as a means of keeping one well rather than as a medical prescription for the restoration of impaired health. It is considered an encouraging sign by the medical profession that the youngsters of the race look upon outdoor sleeping as a good thing.

In a pamphlet issued by Dr. Carrington's society, named above, the following attractions are given for sleeping outdoors: "Tenement house dwellers and persons living in apartment houses in large cities should make every effort possible to give the open air treatment to a member of the family who contracts tuberculosis. First consider the possibility of moving into the suburbs or nearby small towns. If this cannot be done try to obtain from the landlord the use of the roof and build a small shack there. If this is beyond the means of the family use one room with a window opening on a street or large court for the patient and then place the head of the bed beside the window and cover it with a window tent. The cost of a window tent is about $10, and if it cannot be obtained take two large, heavy cotton sheets, sew them together along the edge, tack one end of the double sheet to the top of the window casing and drop the lower end over the outer side of the bed, fastening the bottom of the sheet to the bed rail with tape. There will be enough cloth hanging on each side of the window to form the sides of the tent. A window tent can be made at home for about $3 by using twelve or fifteen yards of heavy denim or light canvas. By these methods the patient gets fresh air from the window and the room is kept warm in cold weather as a place for dressing and toilet purposes. The flat roofs of tenements and apartment houses in large cities should, if possible, be used as breathing places by the tenants. Shacks or cabins can be built upon them at small cost and make an economical and easily provided shelter. "If the family lives in a small town or the country it will usually be found that a porch is the most convenient way of providing open air quarters. What is of the most importance is to find a sheltered spot protected from the wind, for the wind is much harder to bear than even intense cold. When a house has permanent verandas and the family cannot afford the expense of providing a special porch for the patient the veranda on any floor may be used and privacy and protection obtained by putting up canvas curtains or bamboo screens."

PLEA FOR THE PRAIRIE CHICKEN

THE prairie chicken, one of the most interesting, beautiful and valuable of all our American game birds, is on the verge of extermination. It is following the wild pigeon into oblivion as rapidly as that bird went in the seventies. The prairie chicken is practically extinct now in several western states where formerly it was abundant—Illinois, Iowa and Wisconsin, for instance. There are not more than 20 per cent of the number of these birds in the west that there were twenty years ago, when they were common. The prairie chicken is one of the most industrious big eaters in this country. Throughout the spring, summer and autumn it feeds on grasshoppers, potato bugs, crickets, beetles and other insects that prey on the farmer's crops. From statistics compiled by the government we learn that the farmers of this country are losing more than a billion dollars a year by reason of the ravages of insects, and these bugs are here and are doing this appalling amount of damage because the birds which nature put here to eat the bugs have been killed off.

Yet this bird, this industrious bug eater, has been hunted so persistently that it has been almost wiped off the map. Hunting seasons have been shortened from time to time, the number of birds allowed to each shooter per day has been reduced, but population has grown, multiplied and massed in the states where prairie chickens are native. So called improvements have been made in firearms and ammunition. The murderous pump gun and the still more murderous automatic shotgun have been evolved. There are a hundred men who go after prairie chickens today where there was only one twenty-five or thirty years ago in any of the western states.

If all the states which still have prairie chickens left would set aside a few townships in each county on which no shooting should be allowed at any time and then enforce such laws the prairie chicken could be saved. The people would soon learn to respect such laws, for they would realize that the birds would increase rapidly on these protected areas and the surplus would overflow on the surrounding country and afford good shooting for those who want to kill.

On the other hand, the birds would soon learn where they were safe from persecution, and large numbers of them at least would do their nesting and feeding and breeding on the grounds where there would be no shooting.

Such refuges would not only be valuable for the preservation of the prairie chicken, but in some of the states for quail as well. On such preserved territory certain species of ducks would nest, and within five years these refuges would become pleasure resorts for the people, for it would be a delightful experience for men, women and children to drive or walk through these protected sections and study the bird life that would become abundant there.

Many of the most prominent ornithologists and game protectors in the country have considered this plan for saving the prairie chicken and endorse it heartily. Here are quotations from a few:

Hon. John F. Lacey, ex-member of congress and author of the Lacey bird law and many other measures for the preservation of wild animals and birds, says, "Your scheme for the creation of refuges for prairie chickens and other game birds is eminently practical, and I earnestly hope you may be successful in inducing the legislatures of the prairie states to adopt it."

Dr. W. T. Hornaday, director of the New York Zoological park, says: "Beyond all question the prairie chicken is doomed to early and total extermination unless drastic measures are adopted in its behalf. Its extermination would be nothing short of a national disgrace."

William Dutcher, president of the National Association of Audubon Societies, says: "I have read your article entitled 'Save the Prairie Chicken' and heartily approve it. Your article should be in the hands of every farmer where prairie chickens and quails are still to be found."

Dr. T. S. Palmer of the department of agriculture, Washington, says: "I heartily approve your suggestion regarding refuges for prairie chickens, and I hope the necessary legislation may be secured in the near future."

G. O. BTHREIDH, President of the League of American Sportsmen.

WE SHALL WASH MONEY TO SAVE MONEY

Jones—Uncle Sam is going to launder his dirty money.
Wong Duck—No, he's China with the week's wash pretty quick!

BUT Uncle Sam is not going to run away with the week's wash. No, indeed! When it is all nicely washed and ironed and ready to be delivered he is going to send it out again to be circulated. And you and I, reader, will not be able to tell it from new money. Pretty stingy of the old gentlemen to take the old, soiled money and wash it and relaunch it? Not at all. Epigrammatically speaking, it costs money to make money. Every one of the fine specimens of steel engraving circulating as money in this country means an outlay of 13 cents for the government. When a soiled note reaches the treasury in Washington or one of the subtreasuries a new one must be issued to take its place. But laundering a note in one of the government's new machines, no matter how badly soiled the bill is, costs only one-tenth of a cent. When you remember that 200,000,000 new bills to take the place of soiled bills were issued last year and that 50 per cent, or 100,000,000, of them were washed it will be seen that the saving to be effected in one year by the new washing machines is considerable. Uncle Sam will find that it will pay him to play the laundryman.

For the present the government is going into the note laundering business only in the treasury department in Washington. A battery of six of the washing machines has been installed in the big building near the White House. Later the machines will be placed in the nine subtreasuries in New York, Boston, Chicago, Philadelphia, New Orleans, Baltimore, Cincinnati, St. Louis and San Francisco. Soiled money sent or brought to any of these places will be relaundered as good as new or better.

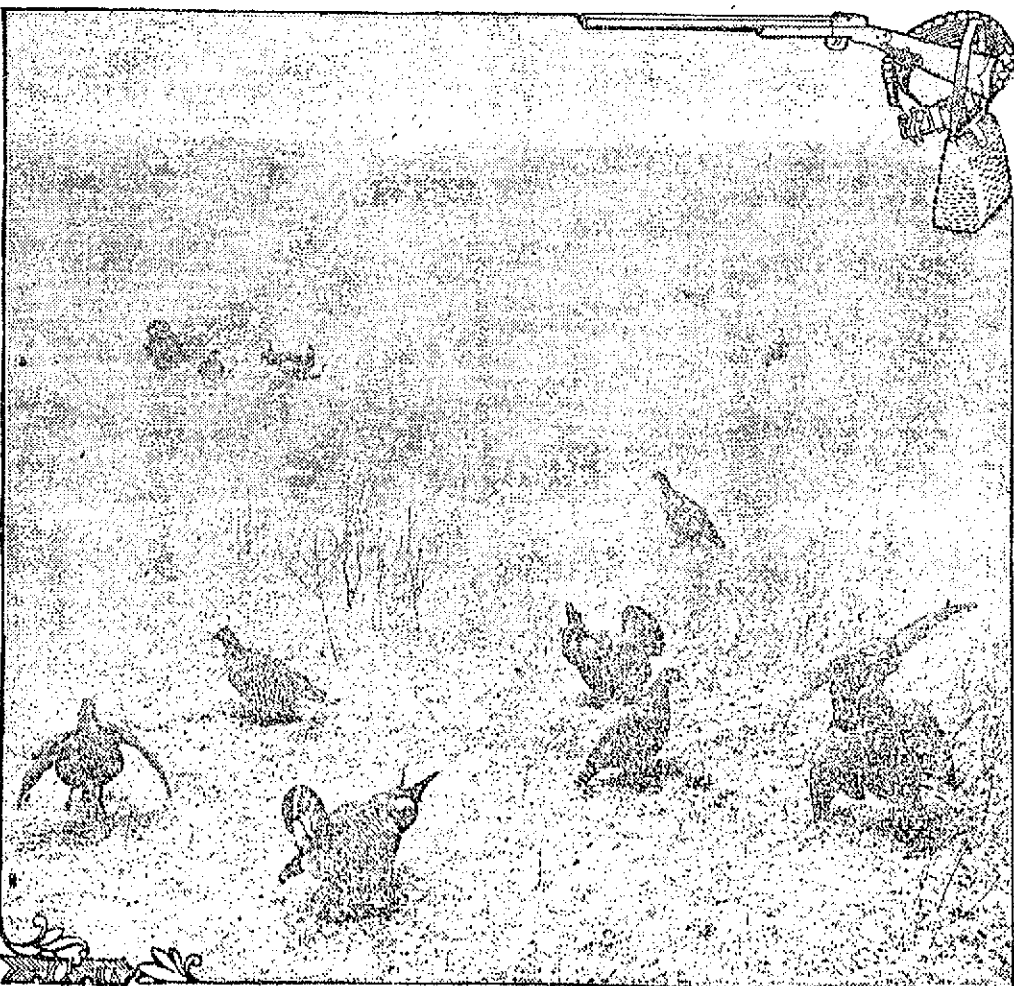

That "better" rouses thought. Can anything be better than a brand new crisp United States note fresh from the press? If money experts are to be believed the answer is "yes." The better thing is a newly laundered note, which acquires in the laundering process a softness and pliability that is more agreeable to the touch (if such a thing is possible) than a new note. Also the edges may be less sharp and less liable to scratch and cut the fingers of bank tellers who have to count the bills.

Laundering a soiled bill in one of the new money washing machines is very much like putting a piece of soiled clothing through one of the familiar clothes washing machines. It should be understood, of course, that the government uses for its money only linen stock paper of very high quality. It is calculated to withstand an extraordinary amount of wear and tear. When a note returns laden with soil and germs to the treasury or subtreasury it is still able to go without damage through the various cleansing processes. The machine puts it through a severe course of hot soap-suds for five minutes, then five minutes more of plain cold water, then starching with special "sizing," then sterilizing with a newly invented antiseptic, then wringing and finally ironing and pressing.

At present only the greenbacks, which form the bulk of our paper currency, are to be subjected to the cleansing processes. The reason for this is found in the fact that the soap-suds used to launder the bills is necessarily made so strong that it bleaches the yellow backs of the gold certificates as well as the signatures of the bank presidents and cashiers. The understood generally to apply only figuratively to the money, critics of the condition of our currency were not slow to use it in reference to the physical condition of the notes. That the frayed, soiled bills have been a reproach to Americans there can be no question. Frequent comparison has been made of our money with the clean looking, white banknotes of the Bank of England and with other foreign issues. It was of little avail to point out that the British notes were representative of a value of at least $5 ($25) and that the functions of lower circulation were performed in Great Britain by gold, not as with us, by bills of lower denomination. It was argued with reason that the soiled American bills served as transmitters greenbacks are printed in a metallic ink that withstands the suds. Later, in all likelihood, the gold certificates and banknotes will be printed with inks that will go safely through the washing machines.

A PRAIRIE CHICKEN QUADRILLE.

Several years ago the term "laundered money" came into use as a designation for wealth that had been gained in devious ways and then applied to philanthropic purposes by its possessor in an effort to obtain absolution for his sin of commission and omission. While the word "laundered" was and disseminators of diseases, and deaths of bank employees were traced to their handling of soiled money. The story of the old Massachusetts lady who washes and irons each bill she receives before sending it forth has obtained wide circulation and credence. But there is a suspicion that it was originated by persons who wished to call forcibly the attention of the Washington authorities to the disgraceful condition of so much of our currency.

AUTO STRUCK BY CAR

Mrs. Arthur E. Hatch Suffered Fractured Ankle

A big automobile of the touring type belonging to and driven by Arthur E. Hatch of 515 Westford street, this city, crashed into an electric car in Shaw-shen avenue, at a point near Wilmington center, shortly after eight o'clock last night. The occupants of the machine saw the approaching car a few seconds before the crash came and all with the exception of Mr. Hatch, who was operating the automobile, leaped from the car. All escaped injury with the exception of Mrs. Hatch, who sustained a broken ankle.

The automobile contained Mr. and Mrs. Hatch and Mr. and Mrs. Percy D. Thompson of 126 Fort Hill avenue. Shawshen avenue runs from Dil-loria to Wilmington, and enters the road where the trolleys run on a sharp slope from the railroad bridge.

Mr. Hatch, who was driving, tried to swing out over the tracks which are situated on that side of the road nearest the bridge, to the other side, on his way to the city, but the electric, a big, semi-converter, going toward Boston, struck them before they had passed the tracks and pushed them back for a distance of 20 feet. Aside from a bad shaking up, Mr. and Mrs. Thompson were not hurt, and Mr. Hatch escaped without serious injury. The car was put out of commission and pretty well smashed up. The members of the party in the automobile were taken to this city in an automobile belonging to George W. Dana. Mrs. Hatch was taken to her home, where she was attended by Dr. R. E. Bell. The wrecked automobile was towed back to this city.

SEEKS A DIVORCE

Wealthy Widow Says She Gave "Other Woman" $15,000

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—"I am the other woman. I have been the other woman for six years. Now you are my wife, and I want $15,000."

This telephone message was received by Mrs. Philip Van Valkenburgh, the "other woman," on the first day of her honeymoon, according to affidavits she has made in her suit for absolute divorce which is about to be brought against Philip Van Valkenburgh, millionaire chairman of Fifth avenue and Newport, whom she married last November.

Upon the death of the aged William Hayes Chapman, his widow inherited his millions and became the bride of Van Valkenburgh after a brief courtship which followed stormy attempts of a dozen noted noblemen to win her hand, and the man left her forlorn at the St. Regis five months after their marriage.

The allegations in the suit, which yesterday received Mrs. Van Valkenburgh's signature, begin with the very first week of matrimony, following the hasty wedding at Greenwich, Conn., which took place when she was urged by her American friends to accept one of her own countrymen in preference to a title from a foreign shore.

The entrance of the "other woman" into the married life of the Van Valkenburghs began, according to the complaint, on the day after the marriage. The complaint alleged that Mrs. Van Valkenburgh went to her husband and asked him if the other woman was a reality, and that he admitted that she was.

The complaint then alleges that Van Valkenburgh asked her for a loan of $15,000 to pay off his obligation to the "other woman," which the plaintiff provided on the agreement that he was to have no more to do with the second woman, whose name does not appear.

According to the papers in the suit, Van Valkenburgh did not live up to his agreement and continued seeing the mysterious "other woman."

The affidavit also alleges that a man called Mrs. Van Valkenburgh on the telephone at the St. Regis one night. "If you go to the Claremont, at Riverside drive and 123d street, you will see your husband," the message came, according to the complaint.

Mrs. Van Valkenburgh went in an automobile, the affidavit says, and saw Van Valkenburgh sitting at a table drinking with a woman. Later, the papers allege, he was followed and was seen to accompany the woman to an apartment house in the vicinity.

"That night after his marriage there were as many as two 'other women' in the case is also charged.

EIGHTEEN KILLED

In Streets of New York During the Month of July

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—The National Highways Protective society, which was founded for the purpose of preventing death in streets, by reckless cars and automobiles, gave an interesting statement yesterday, calling attention to the number killed during July in Manhattan and Brooklyn there were eighteen deaths by vehicles and 132 were injured. Six were killed in Manhattan and thirty-six injured. Twenty were killed in Brooklyn and ninety-six injured.

Twelve of this number were under twenty years of age. Three were killed by automobiles, five by wagons and five by trolley cars.

The death list for the seven months from January 1 to yesterday, totals 93 deaths and 522 injured. Of this number, 47 were killed by automobiles, 21 by trolley and 25 by wagon. Of the killed 31 were under sixteen years of age.

Colonel Edward S. Cornell, secretary of the society, said yesterday: "Our society is for the purpose of reducing deaths by vehicles."

"The automobile bill that has just gone into effect contains nearly all the ideas advanced by this society, but there is one that needs must be embodied sooner or later. That is the licensing of owners of cars. There is absolutely no reason why they should not be made to show their skill before being allowed to run an automobile. Just by way of illustration—of the last six persons killed by automobiles two were killed while owners were driving the cars."

"Then we are going to make a campaign to get better brakes on Brooklyn cars, according to Dr. Raleigh John C. Coleman and Colonel Joseph H. Colt are working on a campaign whereby we hope to make trolley cars have proper brakes. The heavy Brooklyn cars cannot be controlled any more by handbrakes. Either air or electric brakes are necessary now."

WIDOW JILTED

On Eve of Wedding Has Entered Suit

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—A breach of promise suit for $25,000 damages has been filed in the U. S. circuit court at Pittsburgh by Mrs. Sally Klein, an attractive widow, of No. 19 Sumner street, Brooklyn, who says that after the wedding day was set and she had completed her trousseau, William Friedman, her fiancé, another widow, the manager of the Hollander Drug company of Brooklyn, Pa., Mrs. Klein's rival is said to be Mrs. Hollander, widow of the organizer of the Hollander Drug Co. She is said to be worth at least $100,000, and to be a successful business woman. It is reported that Friedman and Mrs. Hollander are to be married this week. The neighborhood in which Mrs. Klein lives is made up of comparative poor families. Mrs. Klein is said to have been wealthy at one time but met with reverses, and recently took two of her children from her property at her death. She is said to have four or five children.

"What else can I do but marry the rich woman?" Friedman is said to have asked Attorney William S. Maxey, of Pittsburgh, counsel for Mrs. Klein, when an effort was made to have him carry out his alleged promise.

Six years ago Mrs. Klein became a widow. Her husband at one time was interested in a large department store in Brooklyn. About a year ago she met Friedman, and in her complaint says he visited her frequently at her Brooklyn home, and in his letters declared he could hardly wait for the "happy day" when they would be married.

As the time for the wedding approached he ceased his attentions. Mrs. Klein says she went to Brooklyn to investigate and found he had changed his mind.

FIGHT FOR BABE

Father and Mother Engage in Struggle

BOSTON, Aug. 2.—The little year and a half old girl baby of Mr. and Mrs. George C. Cobb of 881 Pearl street, Cambridge, has a father one day at once, and a mother the next, but seldom both at once, and, incidentally, little Gladys, the baby, is becoming a commutator between Hollis, N. H., and Boston.

Last June Mrs. Cobb applied to the courts for separate support, and after listening to the case Judge Chamberlain continued it, and recommended that the two parties in interest effect a reconciliation.

Cobb and his wife were childhood sweethearts. She was Miss Grace Feltner of Cambridge and their marriage was in the nature of an elopement a few months prior to the day set for the wedding. Cobb is but 26 years old, but owns a grocery in Cambridge and a farm and hotel at Hollis, N. H.

Shortly after the arrival of the baby Mrs. Cobb left the home one night and could not be found. She returned, but gave no explanation of her absence. Twice after that she left for short times and then left for good, going to live with her married sister in Worcester. Cobb took the baby with him to Hollis.

The other day Mrs. Cobb, in company with her sister, Mrs. Mildred Long, went to Nashua and in an automobile went out to see Cobb. She took the baby into the car with her and had started when Cobb jumped aboard and it was agreed that the Nashua police should decide who had the right to the child. The Nashua police decided in favor of Mrs. Cobb, and she promptly bore her child with her to Cambridge. Last week Cobb visited the Cambridge home and saw the baby. Yesterday, in the absence of Mrs. Cobb, he came, he saw, and during a moment when Mrs. Lopez left the room Cobb did likewise, taking the baby with him. A waiting automobile, whirled him away just as Mrs. Cobb was coming down the street.

Last night Mrs. Cobb went to Hollis to get her baby. As Mr. Cobb keeps the only hotel in town, he is likely to have his wife for a guest. After he had reached his home he talked with a newspaperman over the telephone, and at a late hour said that Mrs. Cobb had not yet appeared.

MATRIMONIAL

Mr. Louis G. Cote of this city and Miss Grace Girouard of Worcester were married yesterday morning at Notre Dame church, Worcester, at a nuptial mass celebrated at 8:30 o'clock by Rev. Fr. Grenier. The ceremony was performed in the presence of several hundred friends of the young couple from Worcester, Boston, Malden, Springfield and Lowell. The bride wore a gown of white Japonica silk, with a point d'esprit veil which had been worn by her grandmother on her wedding day, and which was caught with white sweetpeas. Her shower bouquet was of white sweetpeas. Mr. Jean G. Cote of Lowell, the bridegroom's father, was his son's attendant, and the bride was also attended by her father, Mr. Henry Girouard. The choir of Notre Dame church sang delightfully during the ceremony.

After the ceremony an informal reception was held at the home of the bride, 144 Chandler street. The guests included the relatives and intimate friends only. Among those present were: Mrs. Catherine Cote, Mr. and Mrs. Jean G. Cote, Mr. Heave Cote and Miss Berthe Cote of Lowell, and Mr. Michel La Belle of Malden.

Mr. and Mrs. Cote left on a bride trip to New York. They have received many beautiful gifts, and upon their return from their trip will make their home at 90 West Sixth street, this city.

CORRIER-BOURGEOIS

Mr. Edmund Corrier and Miss Antoinette Bourgeois were married yesterday morning in the private chapel at St. Joseph's rectory where Rev. Fr. Ouellette, O. M. I., celebrated a nuptial mass at 7 o'clock. Messrs. Narcisse Corrier and Luc Bourgeois were the witnesses.

CONG. TIRRELL'S FUNERAL

NATICK, Aug. 2.—Definite arrangements were completed today for the funeral of Congressman Charles C. Tirrell, who died at his home here on Sunday last. The funeral will be held in the little St. Paul's Episcopal church in Natick at 2:30 p. m., and will be open to the public but the congressional delegation and various other official delegations will occupy most of the room. The Episcopal service will be used both at the church and at the grave in Hill Park cemetery, Natick.

APPOINTED A COUNCILLOR

PESKING, Aug. 2.—Wu Ting Fang, former minister of the United States, who on his retirement from the diplomatic service and return to China was thought to have been relegated permanently to private life by the new forces at Peking, has now, contrary to expectation, re-entered office. He was today appointed councillor to the Chinese foreign office which recognizes the need of a man of strength and foreign experience since the dismissal by the regent of Yuan Shi-Kai.

SERIOUS CHARGE

WORCESTER, Aug. 2.—Henry C. Powell, aged 52, a Rutland farmer, was arraigned yesterday before Judge Fry on complaint of four of his six daughters and placed under $2000 bonds for a hearing next Monday on a serious charge. Powell lived on his Rutland farm with his wife and six children, while two of his daughters have been living in other parts of the county. The arrest comes as the result of an investigation begun last Tuesday by Deputy Sheriff Edward M. Merdick of Holden and Constable Walter H. Pike of Paxton and the nature of their evidence is appalling according to the officers. The specific complaints against Powell were made by four of his daughters: Mrs. Ella Powell, aged 19, who has been living recently in Andover; Miss Ruth L. Powell, aged 17, and Miss Lilla Powell, aged 12, who have been living at home.

As the result of the story told by Ruth, Charles, Edna and Marion, aged 20, is also under arrest and will be in court with Powell next Monday. Powell and his wife came in five in Rutland from New York 17 years ago. They have been the parents of 11 children.

SILVER WEDDING

Mr. and Mrs. Aubry Observe Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Henry F. Aubry, residing at 146 Cheever street, celebrated the 25th anniversary of their wedding today. Relatives and friends called during the day to congratulate the couple on their many years of married life and to wish them many more years of happiness.

Mr. and Mrs. Aubry are parishioners of the church of the Most Holy Trinity, and this morning at 8 o'clock a mass was celebrated at that church. Rev. Fr. Lamotte, O. M. I., the rector, being the celebrant.

This afternoon the couple kept open house and this evening the home will be open to friends.

Mr. Aubry was born in Malone, N. Y., 47 years ago. He came to Lowell when he was only three years old, and has always lived here. He is foreman at James Murkland & Son's, belt manufacturers, where he has been employed for the past ten years.

Mrs. Aubry's maiden name was Octavia Prince, and she was born in Canada, 44 years ago, coming here nearly 20 years ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Aubry have four children, all of whom were born in Lowell. They are Albert, Wilfrid, Olive and Leo.

RAILROAD BILL

Subject of Discussion by Attorneys

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., Aug. 2.—The railroad bill enacted by the last congress was the theme of discussion at the conference of railroad attorneys opened in this city today. Practically all of the railroad systems of the United States were represented at the conference which was called by Col. Henry Stone of the Louisville & Nashville railroad. Col. Stone in his call for the meeting stated that it was to be solely for the purpose of discussing the effect of the new railroad law on railroads engaged in interstate traffic. It was expected that the conference would last for about three days.
